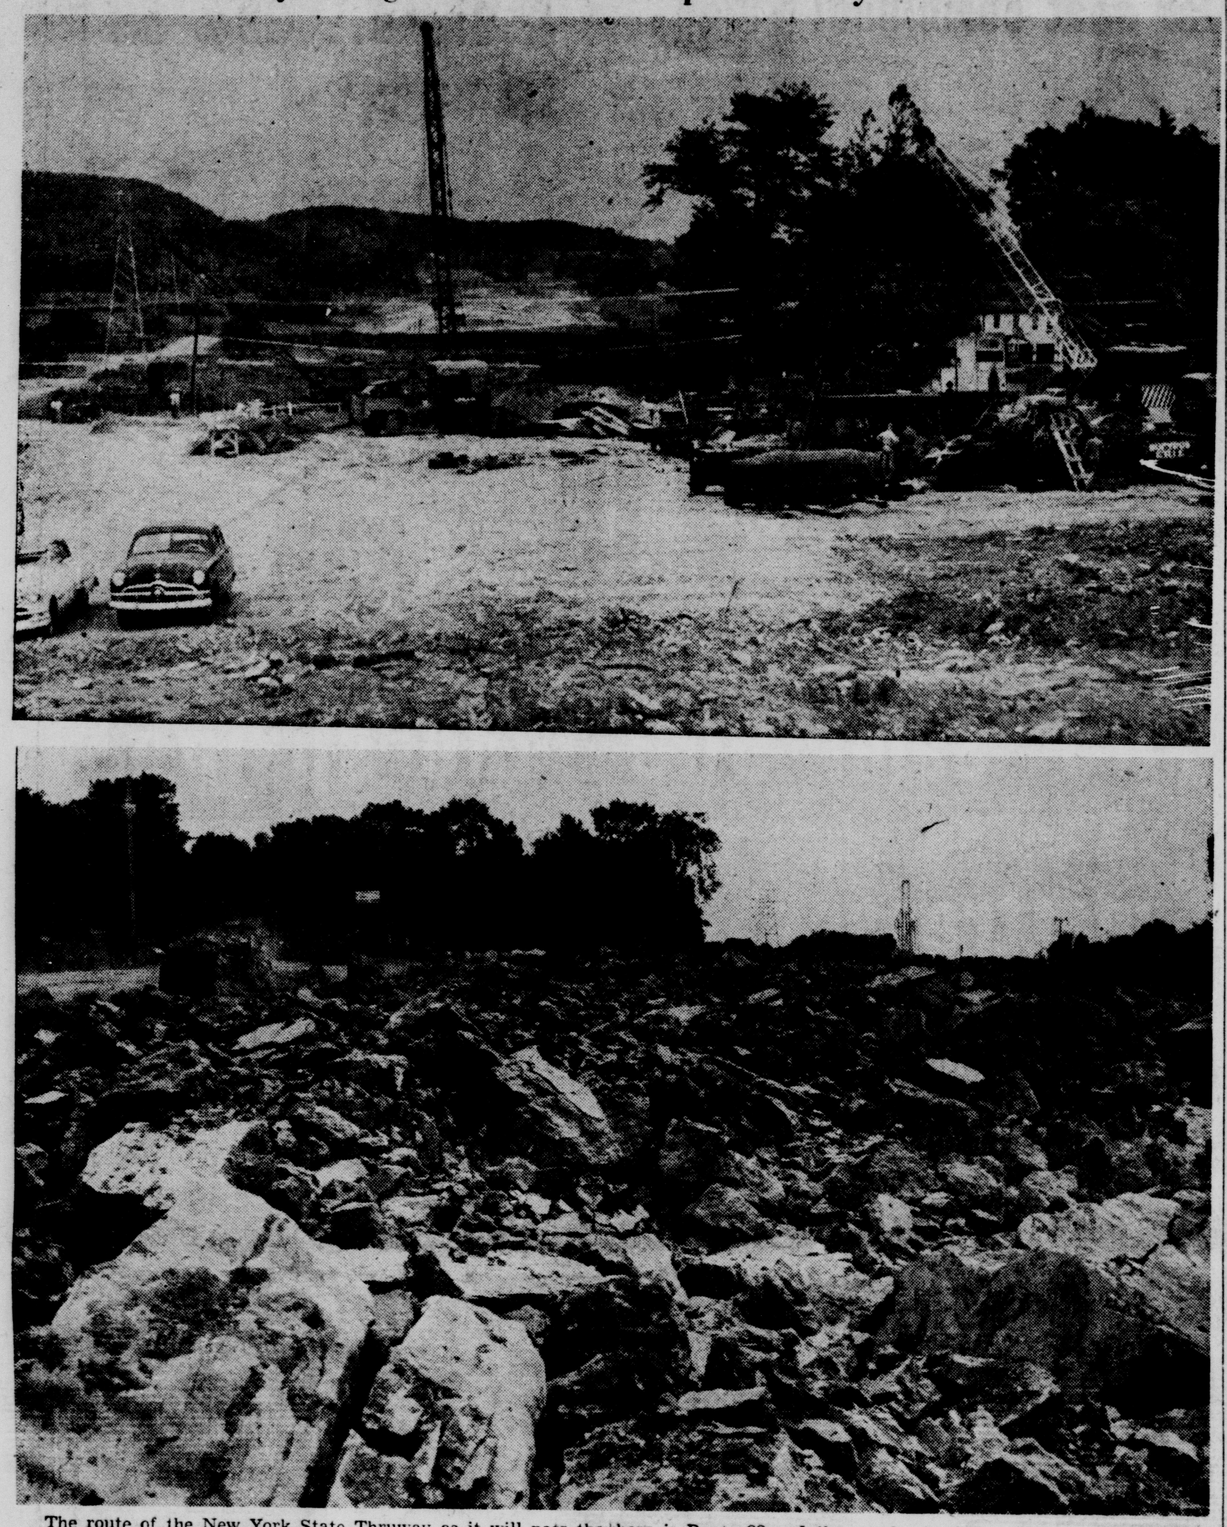
Thruway Changes Face of Landscape in Hurley Avenue Area



The route of the New York State Thruway as it will pass the city at the intersection of Route 209 is taking shape as work progresses rapidly in that area. At top is a view of the route from a point south of Hurley avenue showing one of the largest pieces of equipment on the job, a six-ton power shovel being assembled in the foreground. At the far end of the bed of the route as it is shown here is Route 28 and the nearby foothills. The other view shows thousands of tons of rock, heaved up by dynamite, and ready to be hauled away for fill in other parts of the express highway. A quick glance at the mass of rock, and the average viewer feels it would take years to remove it, but it will be chewed away in weeks by heavy machinery. (Freeman Photos)

White Lake Man Is Held In Robbery

Arthur A. Nachman, 23, Is in Jail on Charge of Armed Theft of $7,000 at Ellenville

A suspect arrested in a diner Wednesday afternoon minutes after the armed robbery of $7,000 from the Home National Bank of Ellenville was formally charged with the crime last night.

Arthur Aaron Nachman, 23, of White Lake, was arraigned before Police Justice Benjamin Lonstein on a charge of robbery in the first degree. No bail was set, and Nachman was placed in the Ulster county jail in Kingston to await grand jury action.

State police said they recovered the money and found a gun in Nachman's automobile that was parked at Ed and Dick's Diner four blocks from the bank.

In Custody by 3:20

The robbery was reported at 2:49 p. m. to Ellenville village police. Nachman was in custody by 3:20 p. m.

An unmasked man wearing dark glasses walked into the bank shortly before its 3 p. m. closing time and handed Miss Eleanor Wilklow, 30 assistant cashier, a note demanding all of the large bills she had on hand, according to the report. He produced a revolver.

Gave Money, Fainted

Miss Wilklow handed the robber approximately $7,000 in tens, twenties, fifties and $100 bills, and then fainted.

The robber walked from the bank and escaped in an automobile before the 10 customers and the bank employes could give an alarm.

Across Canal street from the bank two employes of the Ellenville Fruit Exchange noticed a man come from the bank carrying a bag and drive away in a late model car.

Troopers said the employes were Donald Slater, 19, who was parking the store's truck, and David Waxman, 15, who was holding a parking space for Slater. When they saw a crowd gather and learned what had happened, they immediately gave police a description of the automobile.

Road Blocks Set Up

Ellenville police set up road blocks around the village and patrolled the streets. Trooper Blake Muthig, who was in the village at the time, called the Ellenville state police barracks from police headquarters, and Cpl. Jack Regan of the Bureau of Criminal Investigation and Trooper John Albee, left the troopers' barracks at Wawarsing and went into the village.

At Ed and Dick's diner on Route 209 about four blocks from Canal street, Cpl. Regan and and Trooper Regan spotted an automobile answering a description furnished by the food store employes.

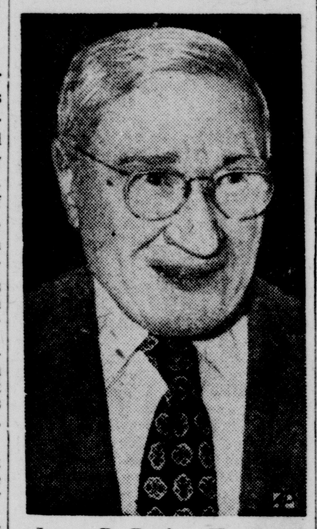
Found With Woman

Checking inside the diner, troopers reported, they found Nachman at a table with Mrs. Grace Katz, 35, of 2115 Mohegan avenue, the Bronx, and two children, a 12-year-old boy and a girl, 10, who were not further identified.

Nachman was questioned by troopers, and a search of the auto- (Continued on Page 15, Col. 1)

Senators Seek Time, Ask Red China Be Made Party to Truce

Succeeds Sabath



James B. Bowler, 77, of Chicago, won a special Congressional election, July 7, to succeed the late dean of the House, Rep. Adolph J. Sabath, who died last Nov. 6, just two days after he was elected to his 24th consecutive term from the Seventh Illinois Congressional District. Bowler, a Democrat, polled 83 percent for an easy victory over his Republican opponent, Philip J. Boffa.

Knowland, Smith Suggest New Efforts for Armistice

Washington, July 9 (AP) — Two Republican senators sought today to gain time for more U. S. discussions with South Korean President Syngman Rhee by proposing that Red China be made a party to any Korean truce.

Sens. Knowland (R-Calif.) and H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.) suggested that new efforts be made to bring the Peiping regime officially into any armistice signing. United Nations negotiations have been conducted with the military commanders of the North Korean and Chinese "volunteer" forces.

Knowland, who has supported Rhee's demands for prompt unification of Korea, told the Senate yesterday that the Chinese Communists, while supplying men and guns to the North Koreans, would not guarantee any truce that was signed.

Attends Conference

Knowland, the acting Senate Republican leader, late yesterday attended a top-level White House conference at which instructions reportedly were prepared for Gen. Mark Clark, the Allies' Far East commander.

The meeting was called to consider the Communists' reply to Clark that they are ready to negotiate final details of an armistice. Clark called on Rhee late last night in Seoul.

Others who met with President Eisenhower, besides Knowland, were Secretary of State Dulles, Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith, Secretary of Defense Wilson and Gen. J. Lawton Collins, army chief of staff.

Will Give More Time

Backing up Knowland, Smith said in an interview he believes the raising of this issue will give the U. S. more time to continue discussions with Rhee, who thus far has balked at accepting Allied truce proposals.

Walter S. Robertson, as Eisenhower's personal representative, held several conferences with Rhee in Korea in an attempt to overcome his objections.

Clark Delivers Letter to Rhee, Deals With South Korea's Stand on Armistice

Seoul, July 9 (AP)—Allied and Communist negotiators return to Panmunjom in a few hours to resume negotiations on final details of a Korean armistice which South Korea has bitterly assailed and said it will not recognize.

The UN Command said full-scale truce talks—recessed on June 20—will get underway at 11 a. m. tomorrow (9 p. m. EST today).

The meeting presumably was arranged during a 15-minute liaison officers' session at Panmunjom today. But the official UN spokesman refused to say more than that the meeting was held "for administrative purposes only."

Announcement that the truce talks would resume came a few hours after a top-level UN delegation headed by Gen. Mark Clark tried again to win President Syngman Rhee's support of a truce. They apparently failed.

Letter Given to Rhee

An authoritative source said Clark handed Rhee an important letter dealing with South Korea's objections to an armistice. But an official spokesman said emphatically that the letter was not an ultimatum to Rhee to accept present truce terms.

Informed quarters here speculated that allied liaison officers asked the Reds at Panmunjom Thursday when Polish and Czech members of the neutral nations supervisory commission can start work.

Clark, in a June 29 letter to the Reds proposing that a truce be signed now, suggested a meeting to discuss when the neutral commission can start functioning.

Representatives from Switzerland, Sweden, India, Poland and Czechoslovakia will supervise an armistice.

Asked for Session

The UN Command asked for Thursday's liaison session after the Reds said Wednesday they were ready to resume the full truce talks, which were recessed June 20 after Rhee ordered the release of some 27,000 anti-Red North Korean war prisoners.

Senators Attempt To Win Approval For Stricken Area

Griswold Proposal Hangs Fire; Would Buy Cattle, Increase Beef Prices

Washington, July 9 (AP)—Senate leaders make a second try today at willing approval of a multi-million dollar program of emergency loans and aid for drouth-stricken farmers and ranchers.

Angry arguments over government buying of live cattle led to barbed political exchanges during nearly six hours of debate yesterday.

Pending was a proposal by Sen. Griswold (R.-Neb.) to require Secretary of Agriculture Benson to buy up cows and pay farmers to have heifers spayed to prevent them from having calves.

Griswold's contention is there are too many cattle and that a government buying program would cut the livestock population and push beef prices upward.

Does Not Back Him

Sen. Anderson (D.-N. M.), former secretary of agriculture, agreed there are some 10 million too many cattle but he did not back Griswold's proposal for decreasing the beef herds.

Sen. Kerr (D.-Okla.) derided Griswold's proposal as "birth con- (Continued on Page 23, Col. 6)

Murphy Proposes Bell as Memorial To Volunteers

Chief Would Carry Out Idea, if Proposed Air Horn Plan Is Installed

Should the proposed air horn fire call system for Kingston be approved by Common Council, Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy would like to see one or more of the old fire bells, which would be removed from their station towers, mounted somewhere in the city "as a kind of monument to the volunteer firemen of Kingston."

He paid tribute to the importance of the work of the volunteers, pointing out that they were a "part of the fire department of the city of Kingston."

The chief explained that the cost of repairing the mechanisms which operate the bells, which weigh approximately 1,000 pounds, was prohibitive and that it was almost impossible to get parts which have been out of production for the past 25 years.

Towers Need Repair

He explained that the towers which house the bells were also badly in need of repair, especially Excelsior Station on Hurley avenue "which would have to be rebuilt entirely." He said termites had "eaten out the supports."

AFL, CIO Are Considering Retail Store Clerks' Union

Highland Accident Is Fatal to Man

Martin F. Leamey, 29, Dies in Hospital; Was Driving North

Martin F. Leamey, 29, of 290 Mill street, Poughkeepsie, was fatally injured when the car he was driving went off Route 9W near the bridge circle at Highland and struck the rear of a trailer truck at about 2:30 a. m., today. His death is the 12th fatality this year in highway accidents in Ulster county.

State Police at Highland said Leamey died at Vassar Hospital, Poughkeepsie at 3:25 a. m. He had suffered multiple fractures of the ribs on the right side, a fractured left hip and other injuries.

Cpl. H. E. Rassmussen and Trooper R. Y. Manney, who investigated said Leamey was driving north on Route 9W at an unknown speed and the trailer truck was parked in a parking area of the east side of the highway when Leamey went off the road and crashed into its right rear with the left front of his car.

The tractor, owned by the Southeastern Produce Company, of Phoenix City, Ala., was operated by Frank Bowser, 46, of 150 Barrow street, New York. It was pulling a trailer of the East Coast Express, Roxbury, Mass.

State Police said that Dr. Chester Golding, of Wappingers Falls, assistant Dutchess county medical examiner, issued a verdict of "accidental death."

Wiltwyck Station and Wicks Hose responded with three pieces of apparatus at 4:47 p. m. yesterday to a call from 14 Deyo street where grease had ignited on a stove. The fire was out on arrival, it was reported.

Local Move Is Believed Prompted by Ruling on Summer Closing by Merchants

AFL and CIO international unions are investigating the possibilities of forming a retail store clerks' union in Kingston, it was learned this morning, after merchants Wednesday afternoon decided to defer action on a proposal to close their stores on Mondays during the summer.

George E. Yerry, Jr., business agent for the Kingston Metal Trades Council and other AFL unions in this area, said today that his office has received "between 35 and 40" inquiries from local clerks relative to unionization.

Move Is Studied

As a result of the inquiries, the international is investigating "the question of establishing a retail clerk's union" in Kingston, Yerry said. The AFL union having jurisdiction is the Retail Clerks' Association.

The CIO also has a union for store clerks, and Yerry said he had been told that union was also investigating local possibilities for organization.

No Dispute Expected

Indicating that there would be little likelihood of a jurisdictional dispute, Yerry pledged local AFL cooperation to the CIO should the latter be the first to come into the local field.

Meanwhile, merchants have apparently given up the idea of observing a five-day store week this summer, but stressed the fact that the proposal has merely been tabled "with the possibility" of adopting it in the future.

Action to table the proposal was taken at a meeting called by Joseph Sommers, president of the Uptown Business Men's Association, at 5:30 p. m. Wednesday at Reade's Kingston Theatre. An (Continued on Page 28, Col. 3)

Communists Allow Travel Into East Zone; 16 Major Plants Are Reported Hit by Strikes

Berlin, July 9 (AP)—The Communists lifted the Iron Curtain before riot-torn East Berlin today, permitting free western travel into the Russian sector of the divided city for the first time since open rebellion brought tank-enforced martial law three weeks ago.

Border crossers said 16 major factories in the Soviet-occupied city still were seriously affected by sitdown strikes which broke out yesterday to demand release of workers arrested in the June revolt. Apparently the strikers put little credence in the Red zone government's announcement last night that the "great majority" of these had been released.

Reports from the east zone outside Berlin indicated dozens of plants in Jena, Magdeburg, Leipzig, Halle, Brandenburg and Dresden were hit by slowdowns for the same reason. Refugees said the Russians long since had lifted martial law outside Berlin but still maintained a four-hour nightly curfew in Halle, where rebellious workers set fire to the giant Leuna chemical plant on June 17.

Though Red German infantry and police patrols were doubled along the 27-mile frontier between East and West Berlin, the Communists paid scant attention to the thousands again riding the previously blocked elevated trains and subways across the border.

Each automobile and truck at the dozens of crossing points was checked, however, and Red Police Chief Waldemar Schmidt declared on radio Berlin that "every Fascist provocateur and propogandist will be arrested and dealt with sternly."

Restoration of the normal inter-sector travel had been a secondary demand of the strikers yesterday. The Reds announced they would accede only a few hours after the sitdowns started. West Berlin's three allied commandants also had demanded in two notes that the blockade be ended.

Non-German westerners', first peep inside the east since the June 17 outbreak revealed the Communists' puppet East German government had sealed itself off heavily-armed East German infantrymen ringed the regime's headquarters building—chief target of the June 17 marchers—and stopped all but recognized Communist officials from approaching.

There were no Russian soldiers in sight, however, apparently in token support for the satellite government's declaration that its police would maintain law and order in East Berlin. The Russian Army had done this job since it roared in three weeks ago to smash the bloody uprising.

Lifting of the border blockade today canceled the last of the emergency restrictions in East Berlin, but Maj. Gen. P. T. Dibrova, the Red Army commandant, has not yet formally declared an end to martial law in the city.

Until today, only persons with special passes had been permitted to cross the boundary, and these went only to Germans working across the frontier.

British, French Will Talk Soviet Peace With Dulles

Washington, July 9 (AP)—The foreign ministers of Britain and France are due here today to join with Secretary of State Dulles in mapping allied strategy for dealing with the Soviet peace offensive in half a dozen trouble spots around the globe.

The Marquis of Salisbury, acting British foreign secretary, was scheduled to arrive before noon (EST) and French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault was due later in the afternoon. Dulles arranged to meet both men at the airport.

U. S. officials said the Big Three talks opening tomorrow and running through Tuesday should result in a new and better understanding of their common problems.

Dulles was understood to be interested in urging the new government of France, headed by Joseph Laniel, to speed ratification of the European Defense Community (EDC) which would permit West Germany to arm.

Also, he is likely to press the British for an early solution of their difficulties with Egypt, a step which would clear the way for creation of the Middle East Defense Organization.

Bidault is reported ready to ask the U. S. for a substantial increase in American assistance for the fight against Communist forces in Indochina. Officials indicated this government may consider the request favorably provided it could be assured France has worked out plans for aggressive action against the Reds.

Authorities said Korean truce and post-truce political problems undoubtedly will be discussed, but Dulles is represented as having no intention to bring up these problems himself. There has been some speculation that Salisbury may urge Dulles to take strong action if necessary to prevent South Korean President Syngman Rhee from blocking establishment of an armistice in Korea.

Authorities here indicated a large part of the talks may be devoted to the German problem and the attitude of Russia toward the west, as it has developed since Stalin's death and the succession to the premiership of Georgi Malenkov.

One concern, it was said, will be to plan for coordinated action to exploit the uprisings against Red rule in East Germany and to consider ways of working for German unification on terms acceptable to the west.

Would Demand Program

Bonn, Germany, July 9 (AP)—The West German government today asked the western Big Three to demand Russian acceptance of a six-point program designed to lead to all-German elections and a reunified Germany.

The "immediate measures" drafted by Chancellor Konrad Adenauer demanded the restoration of free travel between East and West Germany and the restoration of political liberty in the Russian zone.

The Bonn foreign ministry handed the program to the U. S., British and French high commissioners with identical notes asking that the proposals be made the basis for discussion on Germany at the foreign ministers meeting opening Friday in Washington.

The note asked also that the Big Three deliver the proposals to Moscow for consideration.

The Adenauer government's "immediate measures" are:

Clark Delivers Letter to Rhee, Deals With South Korea's Stand on Armistice

Seoul, July 9 (AP)—Allied and Communist negotiators return to Panmunjom in a few hours to resume negotiations on final details of a Korean armistice which South Korea has bitterly assailed and said it will not recognize.

$19,553.78 Is Paid Thruway Workers In Hour Violations

Discrepancy Not Wilful, Says Regional Head; Contractors Under Federal Law

Eight contractors on the New York State Thruway have been forced to pay $19,553.78 to 109 employes as a result of Wage-Hour investigations made during the past year, Frank J. Muench, regional director of the U. S. Department of Labor's Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions, announced today.

Muench pointed out that since May of 1952 fourteen Thruway

Communists Allow Travel Into East Zone; 16 Major Plants Are Reported Hit by Strikes

Berlin, July 9 (AP)—The Communists lifted the Iron Curtain before riot-torn East Berlin today, permitting free western travel into the Russian sector of the divided city for the first time since open rebellion brought tank-enforced martial law three weeks ago.

Border crossers said 16 major factories in the Soviet-occupied city still were seriously affected by sitdown strikes which broke out yesterday to demand release of workers arrested in the June revolt. Apparently the strikers put little credence in the Red zone government's announcement last night that the "great majority" of these had been released.

Reports from the east zone outside Berlin indicated dozens of plants in Jena, Magdeburg, Leipzig, Halle, Brandenburg and Dresden were hit by slowdowns for the same reason. Refugees said the Russians long since had lifted martial law outside Berlin but still maintained a four-hour nightly curfew in Halle, where rebellious workers set fire to the giant Leuna chemical plant on June 17.

Though Red German infantry and police patrols were doubled along the 27-mile frontier between East and West Berlin, the Communists paid scant attention to the thousands again riding the previously blocked elevated trains and subways across the border.

Each automobile and truck at the dozens of crossing points was checked, however, and Red Police Chief Waldemar Schmidt declared on radio Berlin that "every Fascist provocateur and propogandist will be arrested and dealt with sternly."

Restoration of the normal intersector travel had been a secondary demand of the strikers yesterday. The Reds announced they would accede only a few hours after the sitdowns started. West Berlin's three allied commandants also had demanded in two notes that the blockade be ended.

Non-German westerners' first peep inside the east since the June 17 outbreak revealed the Communists' puppet East German government had sealed itself off heavily-armed East German infantrymen ringed the regime's headquarters building—chief target of the June 17 marchers—and stopped all but recognized Communist officials from approaching.

There were no Russian soldiers in sight, however, apparently in token support for the satellite government's declaration that its police would maintain law and order in East Berlin. The Russian Army had done this job since it roared in three weeks ago to smash the bloody uprising.

Lifting of the border blockade today canceled the last of the emergency restrictions in East Berlin, but Maj. Gen. P. T. Dibrova, the Red Army commandant, has not yet formally declared an end to martial law in the city.

Until today, only persons with special passes had been permitted to cross the boundary, and these went only to Germans working across the frontier.

British, French Will Talk Soviet Peace With Dulles

Washington, July 9 (AP)—The foreign ministers of Britain and France are due here today to join with Secretary of State Dulles in mapping allied strategy for dealing with the Soviet peace offensive in half a dozen trouble spots around the globe.

The Marquis of Salisbury, acting British foreign secretary, was scheduled to arrive before noon (EST) and French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault was due later in the afternoon. Dulles arranged to meet both men at the airport.

U. S. officials said the Big Three talks opening tomorrow and running through Tuesday should result in a new and better understanding of their common problems.

Dulles was understood to be interested in urging the new government of France, headed by Joseph Laniel, to speed ratification of the European Defense Community (EDC) which would permit West Germany to arm.

Also, he is likely to press the British for an early solution of their difficulties with Egypt, a step which would clear the way for creation of the Middle East Defense Organization.

Bidault is reported ready to ask the U. S. for a substantial increase in American assistance for the fight against Communist forces in Indochina. Officials indicated this government may consider the request favorably provided it could be assured France has worked out plans for aggressive action against the Reds.

Authorities said Korean truce and post-truce political problems undoubtedly will be discussed, but Dulles is represented as having no intention to bring up these problems himself. There has been some speculation that Salisbury may urge Dulles to take strong action if necessary to prevent South Korean President Syngman Rhee from blocking establishment of an armistice in Korea.

Authorities here indicated a large part of the talks may be devoted to the German problem and the attitude of Russia toward the west, as it has developed since Stalin's death and the succession to the premiership of Georgi Malenkov.

One concern, it was said, will be to plan for coordinated action to exploit the uprisings against Red rule in East Germany and to consider ways of working for German unification on terms acceptable to the west.

Would Demand Program

Bonn, Germany, July 9 (AP)—The West German government today asked the western Big Three to demand Russian acceptance of a six-point program designed to lead to all-German elections and a reunified Germany.

The "immediate measures" drafted by Chancellor Konrad Adenauer demanded the restoration of free travel between East and West Germany and the restoration of political liberty in the Russian zone.

The Bonn foreign ministry handed the program to the U. S., British and French high commissioners with identical notes asking that the proposals be made the basis for discussion on Germany at the foreign ministers meeting opening Friday in Washington.

The note asked also that the Big Three deliver the proposals to Moscow for consideration.

The Adenauer government's "immediate measures" are:

1. Opening of all inter-zonal

President Bogert Describes Rotary Meeting in Paris

Larry V. Bogert, president of the Kingston Rotary Club, described his trip to the 44th annual convention of Rotary International in Paris last month at the luncheon-meeting Wednesday.

In attendance at the convention were some 10,000 Rotarians and their wives from 65 countries of Europe, Asia, Africa and Central America. This was the first Rotary International convention to be held in Europe since 1937 and it was the largest.

President Bogert outlined the program of the convention which included outstanding speakers, discussion forums, enactment of legislation, election of officers and special entertainment of features. The speakers included Walter Harnischfeger of Milwaukee, Wilfrid Baumgartner, governor of the Bank of France and Paul van Zeeland, minister of Foreign Affairs of Belgium.

The Grand Palais was the rallying point for the Rotarians. This great exhibition hall was built at the time of the Paris Exposition in 1900.

The entertainment features were outstanding and the hospitality of the Parisians was all that could be desired, he said.

Keynote of the five-day gathering of business and professional executives, who represented 8,000 Rotary Clubs in 86 countries and geographical regions, was the internationality of the Rotary organization. Throughout the convention programs, emphasis was given to the opportunities which Rotarians have, in all parts of the world, to work for the achievement of one of the principal goals of Rotary—the advancement of international understanding, good will and peace.

The Rotarians also studied the common problems for their various businesses and professions and the many community-betterment activities engaged in by Rotary Clubs throughout the world.

Past President H. J. Brunnier of San Francisco announced that during the past year 217 Rotary Clubs have been organized in 42 countries, bringing the membership of this world-wide organization to an all-time high of 372,000.

Josquin Serratosa Cibilis of Montevideo, Uruguay was elected president and the 45th annual convention will be held in Seattle, Washington in June, 1954.

Elmira Curtails Youth Activities

Elmira, July 9 (AP)—Authorities curtailed youth recreation programs today as preparations continued for history's greatest anti-polio mass immunization.

City swimming pools were closed in Elmira, largest city in the two-county area where a polio outbreak has reached the epidemic stage. The villages of Campbell and Bath suspended summer recreation programs indefinitely.

Only Hornell, at the western end of the area of south-central New York on the Pennsylvania state line, remained relatively unaffected.

Chemung and Steuben counties were declared an emergency area after 51 polio cases and theree deaths were reported this year.

To Inoculate 35,000

About 35,000 children from five months to 10 years will be inoculated this weekend with gamma globulin at a score of emergency clinics set up in the epidemic zone.

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, which is helping in the program, said the previous record mass inoculation was 31,000 in Montgomery, Ala., earlier this year.

At Lenoir, N. C., meanwhile, the nation's second large-scale test was virtually completed today with more than 12,000 children immunized.

Incompetency Is Charged Against Defense Firms

New York, July 9 (AP)—Evidence that some contracts for defense items were awarded here to firms not competent to do the work is reported by a spokesman for a congressional committee.

John J. Courtney, special counsel to the Defense Activities subcommittee of the House Services Committee, gave newsmen a report at the end of a closed hearing yesterday.

He said that on evidence supplied by ordnance inspectors, "there are some contractors who are not producing." He added that this applied to only 10 per cent of some 1,500 contractors in the New York ordnance district, which includes New York state and New Jersey.

The majority of manufacturers producing items "ranging from toothpicks to tanks" for the armed services seem to be doing a commendable job, he said.

Courtney spoke for the subcommittee in the absence of Chairman William E. Hess (R.-Ohio), who was in Newark, N. J., directing one of the subcommittee's four investigating teams.

Hearings continue today in both New York and Newark. The subcommittee, looking into possible irregularities and influence peddling in procurement of military supplies, began closed hearings here on Tuesday and will wind up the New York probe tomorrow. The hearings are part of a nationwide investigation by the subcommittee.

Hess said in Newark that witnesses heard there yesterday gave New Jersey contractors a clean bill of health. The chairman said plants in the Newark area "seem to be doing a good job." He added that initial reports might not indicate the true picture.

The first social activity for Kingston Post, 150, American Legion during the commandership of Attorney Thomas Saccoman is the open air bazaar starting tonight at Frank Powell's service station, adjoining the Legion building on West O'Reilly street. It will continue Friday and Saturday nights.

General Chairman James Costello has a full program of events to attract those of all ages, and he promises an enjoyable time to all who patronize the bazaar arranged to help raise money for the Legion welfare fund.

Costello emphasized that there will be rides for the youngsters who attend with their parents, booths with articles of interest to men and women and games of skill to help fill in the evening. Admission is free, and a cordial invitations is extended to the public.

Elmira Curtails Youth Activities

Elmira, July 9 (AP)—Authorities curtailed youth recreation programs today as preparations continued for history's greatest anti-polio mass immunization.

City swimming pools were closed in Elmira, largest city in the two-county area where a polio outbreak has reached the epidemic stage. The villages of Campbell and Bath suspended summer recreation programs indefinitely.

Only Hornell, at the western end of the area of south-central New York on the Pennsylvania state line, remained relatively unaffected.

Chemung and Steuben counties were declared an emergency area after 51 polio cases and theree deaths were reported this year.

To Inoculate 35,000

About 35,000 children from five months to 10 years will be inoculated this weekend with gamma globulin at a score of emergency clinics set up in the epidemic zone.

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, which is helping in the program, said the previous record mass inoculation was 31,000 in Montgomery, Ala., earlier this year.

At Lenoir, N. C., meanwhile, the nation's second large-scale test was virtually completed today with more than 12,000 children immunized.

Incompetency Is Charged Against Defense Firms

New York, July 9 (AP)—Evidence that some contracts for defense items were awarded here to firms not competent to do the work is reported by a spokesman for a congressional committee.

John J. Courtney, special counsel to the Defense Activities subcommittee of the House Services Committee, gave newsmen a report at the end of a closed hearing yesterday.

He said that on evidence supplied by ordnance inspectors, "there are some contractors who are not producing." He added that this applied to only 10 per cent of some 1,500 contractors in the New York ordnance district, which includes New York state and New Jersey.

The majority of manufacturers producing items "ranging from toothpicks to tanks" for the armed services seem to be doing a commendable job, he said.

Courtney spoke for the subcommittee in the absence of Chairman William E. Hess (R.-Ohio), who was in Newark, N. J., directing one of the subcommittee's four investigating teams.

Hearings continue today in both New York and Newark. The subcommittee, looking into possible irregularities and influence peddling in procurement of military supplies, began closed hearings here on Tuesday and will wind up the New York probe tomorrow. The hearings are part of a nationwide investigation by the subcommittee.

Hess said in Newark that witnesses heard there yesterday gave New Jersey contractors a clean bill of health. The chairman said plants in the Newark area "seem to be doing a good job." He added that initial reports might not indicate the true picture.

WE NEED THE PROFIT MOTIVE

An authority on retailing points out that all sales promotion and merchandising activities have several important functions. One is to attract prospective customers. Another is to serve producers—farmers, manufacturers, processors. Still another is to serve the customers well and thus earn their good will and renewed patronage. And still another is to make a profit.

The left-wingers, of course, always shake their heads in anguish and disgust when the profit motive is mentioned in connection with any business. What they constantly overlook is that the profit motive lies at the root of our living standards. Men did not spend the energy and the time and the money and take the risks that finally resulted in our splendid system of retailing just for fun. It was done in the hope of making a profit.

Incidentally, that profit is nowhere near as great as you may think. In 1952, to give one typical illustration, the nation's department stores with a volume of over a million dollars averaged earnings after taxes of 2.3 per cent of their sales, the lowest figure in 19 years except for 1938. That means that only a trifle more than two cents out of each dollar you spent with them stayed with the owners—all the rest went to buy merchandise, pay wages and taxes, and to meet other necessary expenses.

STREETS AND NAMES

An important thoroughfare in West Berlin has been re-named "Street of June 17th," in commemoration of the revolts against communism which started in East Germany on that date.

It is common practice in Europe to name streets after famous persons or places. There are several Avenue Eisenhowers in Europe and several streets were named in honor of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Sometimes this desire to be complimentary can cause confusion. Cities sometimes give a number of famous names to the same street, adding a new name every place the street makes a slight turn. One street in a Parisian suburb is named at various parts of its length after Clemenceau, de Gaulle, Woodrow Wilson and Stalin. This pleases people of all shades of political opinion but makes it difficult for the stranger who simply wants to know where he is going.

There are drawbacks to the European system of picking street names. But the practice there is at least more imaginative than merely naming them by number or calling them Broad Street or Main Street as is so often done in our country.

A wise man may occasionally believe that he is a fool. A fool is always certain that he is wise.

STRANGE DISAPPEARANCE

The curious disappearance of strange animals, sometimes lasting for centuries and eventually followed by their rediscovery, perplexes scientists. The gorilla is a noted example. Described by Greek and Roman observers, it was long thought a flight of fancy. In 1847 African explorers came across it, and it has been known ever since. A rare species, it has had to be protected by European governments against hunters.

Unfortunately there has been no record of even temporary disappearance of such annoying creatures as the housefly and the mosquito.

A girl we know wonders why exceptionally warm days are called "Dog days." She is convinced that dogs are just as affected by the heat as people.

HONOR FOR A NEGRO

For the first time a Negro has been elected president of the National Health Association. He is Dr. Albert W. Dent, president of Dillard University in New Orleans. He was a delegate to the first World Health Assembly at Geneva, Switzerland in 1948 and for two years served as president of the National Tuberculosis League.

There is evidence that racial prejudice is abating but it is still unusual for a Negro to receive an honor as high as that paid to Dr. Dent. His accomplishment may encourage other Negroes who have encountered prejudice and may serve to better race relationships generally.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

WHO IS J. B. MATTHEWS?

The excitement caused by Dr. J. B. Matthews' article in the "American Mercury" about the infiltration of Communists into the churches, raises the question as to who this man is. I have known Matthews for nearly 20 years. He is the greatest authority in the United States on the subject of Marxism and its infiltration into this country. He has been on both sides of the question, although never a party member. It has been largely due to his efforts since 1936 that step by step every move of the Communists has been met by a countermove by the anti-Communists.

It is because of his tremendous services to this cause and to the country that a testimonial dinner was given in his honor last winter at which all shades of anti-Communists, from socialists to reactionaries, attended. It was the first time that these persons of varying opinions could be got together under one roof.

Matthews is an American of old stock. He was born in Hopkinsville, Kentucky; educated at Asbury College (A.B.); Drew University (B.A.); Union Theological Seminary (S.T.M.); Columbia University (M.A.); and the School of Oriental Languages at the University of Vienna (Ph.D.); ordained as deacon of Methodist Church in Singapore by Bishop W. E. Robinson of India. He is a Fellow of the Royal Geographical Society of England (1926) after he had done several years of research on the geography of China, Indonesia and Africa for a World Atlas published in Edinburgh.

A linguist, he has specialized in many fields, such as Hebrew and Arabic, Dutch and Malay, Sudanese, Persian, Sanscrit and many other languages. Perhaps his greatest achievement in this field was the translation of a Protestant hymnal into Malay. He lived in Java, for a time, as a teacher.

Matthews moved toward the Left through the Christian movement, the Fellowship of Reconciliation, which, in turn, brought him close to the Quakers. During the most active period of the United Front, Matthews came into close contact with the American Communist movement, although he never became a party member.

My first acquaintance with him was sometime in 1936 when he became actively anti-Communist. He, for instance, told me, as far back as that, about the Harold Ware cell which was infiltrating our government. He gave me the list of the original ten members, including Alger Hiss, which I have often published in this column. The list proved to be correct in the testimony adduced during the Hiss trials.

One day in 1938, Stephen Birmingham, a detective, called on me on behalf of the newly formed Dies Committee. He asked me to meet with the Committee to discuss the nature of Communist penetration. He said that his Committee wished to do a thorough study, but the members of the Committee and its staff were not adequately informed on the subject and could not evaluate the data that came before them.

I replied that I could not be their man. I knew of this activity from first-hand experience in Russia, China, Japan and other Asiatic countries. But I knew little of American Communism, having been out of the country 13 consecutive years. I was making a study of the movement under great difficulties. However, I said, there was one man who knew American Communism, Dr. J. B. Matthews. Thus Matthews joined the Dies Committee.

There are men who believe that they know all about Communism because they have read Karl Marx's "Communist Manifesto," published in 1848, and they did not like it. That is like believing that having studied algebra in high school, one can read Bertrand Russell's "Principia Mathematica" with intelligence. Communism is an intricate, conspiratorial, revolutionary, world-wide movement, with complex intellectual and emotional ramifications. I have devoted myself to this subject since 1916 when I studied Marxism at Columbia University under Professor Simkhovitch. I was present in Petrograd during the first year of the Bolshevik Revolution. I knew most of the leaders, including Stalin. I spent 13 years studying this movement in Asia, as closely as anybody there.

Yet, I should not say that my knowledge or experience in this field is comparable with that of Dr. J. B. Matthews. A meticulous worker, his files are so complete that many check their data against his files. Matthews is respected by every person who works in this field.

CAMPAIGN AGAINST TUBERCULOSIS

Many may remember when Boards of Health were first established, as it usually followed some severe epidemic, such as diphtheria, smallpox, scarlet fever or other diseases of children. As it was found that proper sanitation and isolation were necessary, the health officer's duties were confined mostly to laboratories and applying the findings of the bacteriologists to control epidemics.

In The American Journal of Public Health, New York, Dr. B. F. Mattison states that the work of the Board of Health of any community, while still trying to prevent epidemics, has much less of this to do today as a different pattern exists. "Most serious communicable diseases have been whittled down to the vanishing point, even during infancy. Venereal disease (gonorrhea and syphilis) has fallen off rapidly and even the eradication of tuberculosis seems to be in sight."

Some idea of the great progress being made in the prevention and cure of tuberculosis is provided by Dr. Louis I. Dublin's book, "A Forty Year Campaign Against Tuberculosis," published by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, New York city. For 40 years this company has taken an aggressive and constructive part in the fight.

Forty years ago, tuberculosis was the leading cause of death and it accounted for a high proportion of the death claims paid by the company. It was, at the same time, a disruptive force of the company itself, being responsible for much prolonged disability as well as death and economic disaster to the company's employes.

Naturally, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company tackled the problem of tuberculosis by case-finding, operating a tuberculosis sanatorium, program demonstration and abundance of research.

The success of this campaign against tuberculosis is shown by the abandonment, for lack of further need, of its own vitally important sanatorium.

What is the most imporatnt part of the work of the Board of Health today? "The most important current health problems are accidents, heart and blood vessel diseases, cancer, diabetes, and the degenerative conditions associated with aging . . ." Because of these changes in the duties of Health Boards, Dr. Mattison shows that these problems and health education of the aging should receive more attention from present-day health departments.

By preventing disease and lengthening the life span, physicians are faced with the task of making life easier and happier for the aging.

Quoth the Raven

Edson's Washington News Notebook

Washington, (NEA) — The clean-up or clean-out of the State Department's International Information Administration has presented a number of security problems not found in regular diplomatic work.

IIA, of course, is the outfit that runs the Voice of America, the U. S. libraries and information centers overseas, the American propaganda press, publications and posters program, and the international exchange of learned persons under the Fulbright act.

The competent professional personnel recruited for IIA must be writers, dramatists, newspaper and radio people, language experts, refugees or political figures with special knowledge of certain countries. Such people often live under different standards than run-of-the-mine folk. They are apt to be more liberal, more tolerant, freer in their conduct.

To use such people effectively involves some security risk. It has to be taken at times to get a particular job done.

20 Names Submitted

Since Scott McLeod came in as the State Department's new security administrator in March, the names of 20 top officials of IIA have been submitted to him for security clearance. Out of this group several have resigned, though not necessarily because they were security risks. Some just got tired of the way the program was being run, with heavy criticisms and heavier budget cuts from Congress.

IIA Administrator Robert L. Johnson and his deputy, Arthur A. Kimball, have thus far announced cuts of 830 employes in IIA. In addition, 160 unfilled jobs have been abolished. This reduces the IIA force from 9,100 to 8,110. This number may be increased slightly, however, as new talent is hired to step up programs aimed at countries behind the Iron Curtain. The increase will be 25 Americans and about 200 local nationals.

It is again emphasized by Security officers that the recent reduction of nearly 1000 employes is not made up entirely of loyalty case firings. Most of them were reductions in force necessitated by budget cuts. And there have been a number of voluntary resignations.

Force Not Used

Many of those who resigned could have been fired outright under security regulations, but they were allowed to leave quietly. There has been no effort to force anyone to resign, says Security Administrator McLeod.

This is best illustrated in the case of Theodore H. Kaghan, former deputy director of information for the U. S. High Commissioner in Germany. There is an untold story in connection with this case.

Kaghan was first accused of having failed to receive security clearance in New York hearings before Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's committee, Feb. 28. Kaghan, in Germany, denied knowing anything about not being cleared, and the incident seemed closed.

Then IIA Administrator Johnson asked McLeod for an evaluation on Kaghan. Senator McCarthy's young investigators, Roy M. Cohn and G. David Schine then interviewed Kaghan in Germany. He came out spouting about and demanded to be called back to Washington to clear his record. The McCarthy committee also requested that Kaghan be called back.

While Kaghan was in Washington, waiting for his hearing, he came into IIA headquarters and told Deputy Administrator Kimball that he wanted to resign. He had taken all the abuse he could stand, he said, and he wanted out.

Accept Resignation

Investigator Cohn heard about this, and wanted the State Department to accept the resignation at once, so that Kaghan wouldn't be called for testimony. By this play, the McCarthy committee could take credit for getting rid of another State Department employe. But Mr. Kaghan was allowed to complete his testimony first. Then the State Department accepted his resignation.

This incident is important in the story of the State Department clean-up for two reasons.

Besides showing that no State Department "blackmail" was used to secure Kaghan's resignation, the incident showed that Security Administrator McLeod is not knuckling under to dictation from the McCarthy committee.

McLeod and McCarthy are admittedly friends. But McLeod says that the senator had nothing to do with his appointment to the State Department security post, and did not know about it until it was announced.

Thruston Ballard Morton, assistant Secretary of State for congressional relations, has assigned to McLeod's office the responsibility for liaison with all investigating committees.

"We cooperate with these committees," says McLeod. "But we have not given them any files and we have not shown them any papers they were not entitled to see."

This is his answer to the frequently heard Washington rumor that McLeod was made Security Administrator for the express purpose of funneling State Department secrets to Senator McCarthy.

Bill to Extend Excessive Profits Tax Could Start Slide Toward Severe Depression

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, July 9—The Republicans on the House Ways and Means Committee and the Democrats who helped them report out a bill to extend the Excess-Profits-Tax Law may have unwittingly voted to make the next depression the worst in American history.

For the die has been cast now—if the Congress passes the proposed bill and a business recession sets in any time during the first half of next year, it could conceivably start a slide which would be far more severe than would have been the case otherwise.

The favorable vote of every member of the House and Senate on the extension of the Excess-Profits Law will rise to plague him if the depression comes. For it will be a simple matter to show the relationship between that vote and the momentum given to a business decline. This is because of a peculiar situation that has developed in what is known as a catching-up on corporation tax collections.

Under a statutory change now in effect, every corporation which used to pay its taxes for the preceding calendar year on a quarterly basis in the following year will find itself compelled to pay 45 per cent of its taxes for 1953 by March 15 and 90 per cent by June 30, 1954.

This is very important to American business because, if a recession comes, it will not be possible to abate the payment of taxes during 1954 and take a credit, as used to be the case. The tax money will have to be paid out and refunds will not be effective until the beginning of the calendar year 1955. The meaning of this in terms of working capital for businesses that are hit by a recession is clear to those who know how successfully the refund system worked at the close of World War 2. At that time, it was possible to cease paying quarterly taxes and use the reserve funds that had been put away for tax payments to the federal government as a cushion or capital fund to stay in business during a difficult transition period.

Many businesses have figured on the accumulation of a reserve fund for a post-Korean depression out of the savings made on the abatement of a half year of excess-profits taxes. This relief now appears to be headed for the wastebasket.

It is misleading for the treasury and for Representative Jere Cooper, Democrat, of Tennessee, ranking minority member of the Ways and Means Committee, to argue that, because out of the 424,000 corporations only 50,000 paid an excess-profits tax, the tax isn't painful. Actually, the statistics that should have been disclosed, in all fairness, are those that show the total amount of business or volume of sales done by those 50,000 corporations and the number of persons employed. Everybody who knows anything about corporation statistics is aware that, of the 424,000 corporations, the largest number employ less than 20 persons.

The real problem of unemployment and the disastrous chain reaction that can start in and affect all other businesses is to be found in those 50,000 corporations that are paying excess-profits taxes. Many of them are the competitors of the truly big businesses. What the treasury should also have disclosed is the total number of big corporations that either pay no excess-profits taxes or a negligible amount. The dominant units in various industries aren't worrying about an excess-profits-tax repeal because they know it doesn't affect them materially but will affect their smaller competitors.

When a recession sets in, the administration will get no help from the Democrats who helped sabotage the Republican pledge of a reduction of taxes, for they will be the first to blame the Republicans for the depression.

The crucial period is the last six months of 1953—and it will be too late to lock the barn in 1954 by remedial legislation. For many businesses may be closing their doors then. The administration's only chance to save itself politicaliy will come if the depression holds off for another year, thus giving time for legislation to be passed making refunds of excess-profits-tax money.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Washington—The current commotion in the city of New York over the nominations of candidates for mayor is a fine demonstration of the political imbecility of the people who now presume to offer leadership to the whole wide world. The biggest city in the world and the dirtiest in our country, is at the mercy of self-serving and self-appointed "committees" of political "parties" which have only one interest. That interest is not remotely related to the efficient and economical city management.

That interest is limited to a morbid desire for power, patronage, jobs and money.

The so-called Liberal Party is a political auxiliary of Dave Dubinsky's Garment Workers' Union and is, in practical effect, Dubinsky's private property. The "committee" of this "party" picked Rudolph Halley as its candidate solely on the basis of his sensational publicity and Dubinsky's estimate of his probable drawing power at the polls. The same considerations will govern the selections of the other candidates by the same process.

In the field of aspirants there is not one man of any proven or even indicated ability to clean the filthy streets which are a disgrace even by comparison with the streets of the ruined city of Berlin, to scale off massive encrustations of useless commissioners, deputies and assistants who devour taxes, or to relieve the disgusting squalor of the subways and impose a fare sufficient to let them support themselves.

The only politician of prominence in the entire state who has demonstrated executive ability and a belief in politics as the science of government, is Governor Tom Dewey. He is involved here only as a Republican doing his partisan bit to put a Republican in the city hall. The state will not realize what a good governor Dewey was until it has had a few years of ordinary machine administration after he leaves.

The foul condition of the city is less impressive to the people who live there than to visitors, because they have grown used to it. Possibly popular government has reached the limit of its ability. A dictator could do better, as Mussolini and Hitler did. Stalin seems, not to have done well, but he was dealing with a people with no passion for hygiene nor any acquaintance with comfort. In other ways, however, he showed great ability. His monument should include some symbol of his profitable exploitation of the stupidity of Henry Wallace and Averell Harriman who contributed vastly out of our wealth, earned by our personal toil as human beings. On the other hand, Wallace and Harriman are superb examples of the degeneration of our government on the national scale.

We had scarecly heard of Henry Wallace when Roosevelt inflicted him upon us. We thought of Harriman only in terms of his father's reputation. We had no warning that he was as frivolous and fatuous as Wallace but Roosevelt of course knew the truth about both of them. To be sure, our popular votes elected Roosevelt, but in the first instance we fell for melodious promises of economical administration and a revival of our normal industrial prosperity by conventional, constitutional means. Thereafter we had no voice. It would be enlightening to the voters of the young generation and to many of us wearying elders to read a compilation of those 1932 speeches.

We are so ignorant of the true character of our union of sovereign republics, known as states, that we have almost dismissed them from our minds as independent political entities. They were robbed of their sovereignty by the 16th Amendment creating the income tax with no limit on the percentage of the income which could be confiscated by the national Congress. The refusal of the Congress, which set that amendment in motion, to establish a limit on the confiscation deprived the states of sources of income to support themselves and sent them to Washington to wheedle for money out of the national treasury. If the federal government can send millions back to the states for purely local purposes then it has more than it needs or ought to have.

The great taxes on the estates of people who die, rising to a bracket of 77 percent, and on gifts, rising to 57 percent, are simply a means of confiscating wealth from within the states and the only protection is the device of the "foundation." These foundations are a tax-dodge, but it is a good thing we have them, nevertheless.

In England many great old business institutions have been destroyed by the estate taxes. They are liquidated, their old employes go on a miserable, poverty-level dole and the government gets no more taxes of any kind from the business itself or its owners.

But our dodges, including also the executive pensions and variations of "deferred compensations," should not be necessary. The way of it was that we adopted these great death duties but lacked the guts to enforce them when we saw how ruinous they would be. The remedy would be to repeal them. The states have almost entirely surrendered their duty and power to make union goons and racketeers behave. We look helplessly to Washington.

But our considerations in politics do not acknowledge any such issues. We do not understand that the system of public "education" has become an arrogant, demanding monster with a first lien on almost every home in the country. School boards and the national "education" lobby have become so domineering that owners of homes who have long since educated their children and paid the cost have got rid of their old homes.

No such issues will be mentioned in the New York election.

The candidates will express themselves on gambling, which is almost extinct and a petty detail at its worst, parking, crime, subway fares and more and more subsidized housing. The next mayor will be as bad as the last half-dozen.

WE NEED THE PROFIT MOTIVE

An authority on retailing points out that all sales promotion and merchandising activities have several important functions. One is to attract prospective customers. Another is to serve producers—farmers, manufacturers, processors. Still another is to serve the customers well and thus earn their good will and renewed patronage. And still another is to make a profit.

The left-wingers, of course, always shake their heads in anguish and disgust when the profit motive is mentioned in connection with any business. What they constantly overlook is that the profit motive lies at the root of our living standards. Men did not spend the energy and the time and the money and take the risks that finally resulted in our splendid system of retailing just for fun. It was done in the hope of making a profit.

Incidentally, that profit is nowhere near as great as you may think. In 1952, to give one typical illustration, the nation's department stores with a volume of over a million dollars averaged earnings after taxes of 2.3 per cent of their sales, the lowest figure in 19 years except for 1938. That means that only a trifle more than two cents out of each dollar you spent with them stayed with the owners—all the rest went to buy merchandise, pay wages and taxes, and to meet other necessary expenses.

STREETS AND NAMES

An important thoroughfare in West Berlin has been re-named "Street of June 17th," in commemoration of the revolts against communism which started in East Germany on that date.

It is common practice in Europe to name streets after famous persons or places. There are several Avenue Eisenhowers in Europe and several streets were named in honor of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Sometimes this desire to be complimentary can cause confusion. Cities sometimes give a number of famous names to the same street, adding a new name every place the street makes a slight turn. One street in a Parisian suburb is named at various parts of its length after Clemenceau, de Gaulle, Woodrow Wilson and Stalin. This pleases people of all shades of political opinion but makes it difficult for the stranger who simply wants to know where he is going.

There are drawbacks to the European system of picking street names. But the practice there is at least more imaginative than merely naming them by number or calling them Broad Street or Main Street as is so often done in our country.

A wise man may occasionally believe that he is a fool. A fool is always certain that he is wise.

STRANGE DISAPPEARANCE

The curious disappearance of strange animals, sometimes lasting for centuries and eventually followed by their rediscovery, perplexes scientists. The gorilla is a noted example. Described by Greek and Roman observers, it was long thought a flight of fancy. In 1847 African explorers came across it, and it has been known ever since. A rare species, it has had to be protected by European governments against hunters.

Unfortunately there has been no record of even temporary disappearance of such annoying creatures as the housefly and the mosquito.

A girl we know wonders why exceptionally warm days are called "Dog days." She is convinced that dogs are just as affected by the heat as people.

HONOR FOR A NEGRO

For the first time a Negro has been elected president of the National Health Association. He is Dr. Albert W. Dent, president of Dillard University in New Orleans. He was a delegate to the first World Health Assembly at Geneva, Switzerland in 1948 and for two years served as president of the National Tuberculosis League.

There is evidence that racial prejudice is abating but it is still unusual for a Negro to receive an honor as high as that paid to Dr. Dent. His accomplishment may encourage other Negroes who have encountered prejudice and may serve to better race relationships generally.

WHO IS J. B. MATTHEWS?

The excitement caused by Dr. J. B. Matthews' article in the "American Mercury" about the infiltration of Communists into the churches, raises the question as to who this man is. I have known Matthews for nearly 20 years. He is the greatest authority in the United States on the subject of Marxism and its infiltration into this country. He has been on both sides of the question, although never a party member. It has been largely due to his efforts since 1936 that step by step every move of the Communists has been met by a countermove by the anti-Communists.

It is because of his tremendous services to this cause and to the country that a testimonial dinner was given in his honor last winter at which all shades of anti-Communists, from socialists to reactionaries, attended. It was the first time that these persons of varying opinions could be got together under one roof.

Matthews is an American of old stock. He was born in Hopkinsville, Kentucky; educated at Asbury College (A.B.); Drew University (B.A.); Union Theological Seminary (S.T.M.); Columbia University (M.A.); and the School of Oriental Languages at the University of Vienna (Ph.D.); ordained as deacon of Methodist Church in Singapore by Bishop W. E. Robinson of India. He is a Fellow of the Royal Geographical Society of England (1926) after he had done several years of research on the geography of China, Indonesia and Africa for a World Atlas published in Edinburgh.

A linguist, he has specialized in many fields, such as Hebrew and Arabic, Dutch and Malay, Sudanese, Persian, Sanscrit and many other languages. Perhaps his greatest achievement in this field was the translation of a Protestant hymnal into Malay. He lived in Java, for a time, as a teacher.

Matthews moved toward the Left through the Christian movement, the Fellowship of Reconciliation, which, in turn, brought him close to the Quakers. During the most active period of the United Front, Matthews came into close contact with the American Communist movement, although he never became a party member.

My first acquaintance with him was sometime in 1936 when he became actively anti-Communist. He, for instance, told me, as far back as that, about the Harold Ware cell which was infiltrating our government. He gave me the list of the original ten members, including Alger Hiss, which I have often published in this column. The list proved to be correct in the testimony adduced during the Hiss trials.

One day in 1938, Stephen Birmingham, a detective, called on me on behalf of the newly formed Dies Committee. He asked me to meet with the Committee to discuss the nature of Communist penetration. He said that his Committee wished to do a thorough study, but the members of the Committee and its staff were not adequately informed on the subject and could not evaluate the data that came before them.

I replied that I could not be their man. I knew of this activity from first-hand experience in Russia, China, Japan and other Asiatic countries. But I knew little of American Communism, having been out of the country 13 consecutive years. I was making a study of the movement under great difficulties. However, I said, there was one man who knew American Communism, Dr. J. B. Matthews. Thus Matthews joined the Dies Committee.

There are men who believe that they know all about Communism because they have read Karl Marx's "Communist Manifesto," published in 1948, and they did not like it. That is like believing that having studied algebra in high school, one can read Bertrand Russell's "Principia Mathematica" with intelligence. Communism is an intricate, conspiratorial, revolutionary, world-wide movement, with complex intellectual and emotional ramifications. I have devoted myself to this subject since 1916 when I studied Marxism at Columbia University under Professor Simkhovitch. I was present in Petrograd during the first year of the Bolshevik Revolution. I knew most of the leaders, including Stalin. I spent 13 years studying this movement in Asia, as closely as anybody there.

Yet, I should not say that my knowledge or experience in this field is comparable with that of Dr. J. B. Matthews. A meticulous worker, his files are so complete that many check their data against his files. Matthews is respected by every person who works in this field.

CAMPAIGN AGAINST TUBERCULOSIS

Many may remember when Boards of Health were first established, as it usually followed some severe epidemic, such as diphtheria, smallpox, scarlet fever or other diseases of children. As it was found that proper sanitation and isolation were necessary, the health officer's duties were confined mostly to laboratories and applying the findings of the bacteriologists to control epidemics.

In The American Journal of Public Health, New York, Dr. B. F. Mattison states that the work of the Board of Health of any community, while still trying to prevent epidemics, has much less of this to do today as a different pattern exists. "Most serious communicable diseases have been whittled down to the vanishing point, even during infancy. Venereal disease (gonorrhea and syphilis) has fallen off rapidly and even the eradication of tuberculosis seems to be in sight."

Some idea of the great progress being made in the prevention and cure of tuberculosis is provided by Dr. Louis I. Dublin's book, "A Forty Year Campaign Against Tuberculosis," published by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, New York city. For 40 years this company has taken an aggressive and constructive part in the fight.

Forty years ago, tuberculosis was the leading cause of death and it accounted for a high proportion of the death claims paid by the company. It was, at the same time, a disruptive force of the company itself, being responsible for much prolonged disability as well as death and economic disaster to the company's employes.

Naturally, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company tackled the problem of tuberculosis by case-finding, operating a tuberculosis sanatorium, program demonstration and abundance of research.

The success of this campaign against tuberculosis is shown by the abandonment, for lack of further need, of its own vitally important sanatorium.

What is the most imporatnt part of the work of the Board of Health today? "The most important current health problems are accidents, heart and blood vessel diseases, cancer, diabetes, and the degenerative conditions associated with aging . . ." Because of these changes in the duties of Health Boards, Dr. Mattison shows that these problems and health education of the aging should receive more attention from present-day health departments.

By preventing disease and lengthening the life span, physicians are faced with the task of making life easier and happier for the aging.

Quoth the Raven

Edson's Washington News Notebook

Washington, (NEA) — The clean-up or clean-out of the State Department's International Information Administration has presented a number of security problems not found in regular diplomatic work.

IIA, of course, is the outfit that runs the Voice of America, the U. S. libraries and information centers overseas, the American propaganda press, publications and posters program, and the international exchange of learned persons under the Fulbright act.

The competent professional personnel recruited for IIA must be writers, dramatists, newspaper and radio people, language experts, refugees or political figures with special knowledge of certain countries. Such people often live under different standards than run-of-the-mine folk. They are apt to be more liberal, more tolerant, freer in their conduct.

To use such people effectively involves some security risk. It has to be taken at times to get a particular job done.

20 Names Submitted

Since Scott McLeod came in as the State Department's new security administrator in March, the names of 20 top officials of IIA have been submitted to him for security clearance. Out of this group several have resigned, though not necessarily because they were security risks. Some just got tired of the way the program was being run, with heavy criticisms and heavier budget cuts from Congress.

IIA Administrator Robert L. Johnson and his deputy, Arthur A. Kimball, have thus far announced cuts of 830 employes in IIA. In addition, 160 unfilled jobs have been abolished. This reduces the IIA force from 9,100 to 8,110. This number may be increased slightly, however, as new talent is hired to step up programs aimed at countries behind the Iron Curtain. The increase will be 25 Americans and about 200 local nationals.

It is again emphasized by Security officers that the recent reduction of nearly 1000 employes is not made up entirely of loyalty case firings. Most of them were reductions in force necessitated by budget cuts. And there have been a number of voluntary resignations.

Force Not Used

Many of those who resigned could have been fired outright under security regulations, but they were allowed to leave quietly. There has been no effort to force anyone to resign, says Security Administrator McLeod.

This is best illustrated in the case of Theodore H. Kaghan, former deputy director of information for the U. S. High Commissioner in Germany. There is an untold story in connection with this case.

Kaghan was first accused of having failed to receive security clearance in New York hearings before Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's committee, Feb. 28. Kaghan, in Germany, denied knowing anything about not being cleared, and the incident seemed closed.

Then IIA Administrator Johnson asked McLeod for an evaluation on Kaghan. Senator McCarthy's young investigators, Roy M. Cohn and G. David Schine then interviewed Kaghan in Germany. He came out spouting about and demanded to be called back to Washington to clear his record. The McCarthy committee also requested that Kaghan be called back.

While Kaghan was in Washington, waiting for his hearing, he came into IIA headquarters and told Deputy Administrator Kimball that he wanted to resign. He had taken all the abuse he could stand, he said, and he wanted out.

Accept Resignation

Investigator Cohn heard about this, and wanted the State Department to accept the resignation at once, so that Kaghan wouldn't be called for testimony. By this play, the McCarthy committee could take credit for getting rid of another State Department employe. But Mr. Kaghan was allowed to complete his testimony first. Then the State Department accepted his resignation.

This incident is important in the story of the State Department clean-up for two reasons.

Besides showing that no State Department "blackmail" was used to secure Kaghan's resignation, the incident showed that Security Administrator McLeod is not knuckling under to dictation from the McCarthy committee.

McLeod and McCarthy are admittedly friends. But McLeod says that the senator had nothing to do with his appointment to the State Department security post, and did not know about it until it was announced.

Thruston Ballard Morton, assistant Secretary of State for congressional relations, has assigned to McLeod's office the responsibility for liaison with all investigating committees.

"We cooperate with these committees," says McLeod. "But we have not given them any files and we have not shown them any papers they were not entitled to see."

This is his answer to the frequently heard Washington rumor that McLeod was made Security Administrator for the express purpose of funneling State Department secrets to Senator McCarthy.

Bill to Extend Excessive Profits Tax Could Start Slide Toward Severe Depression

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, July 9—The Republicans on the House Ways and Means Committee and the Democrats who helped them report out a bill to extend the Excess-Profits-Tax Law may have unwittingly voted to make the next depression the worst in American history.

For the die has been cast now—if the Congress passes the proposed bill and a business recession sets in any time during the first half of next year, it could conceivably start a slide which would be far more severe than would have been the case otherwise.

The favorable vote of every member of the House and Senate on the extension of the Excess-Profits Law will rise to plague him if the depression comes. For it will be a simple matter to show the relationship between that vote and the momentum given to a business decline. This is because of a peculiar situation that has developed in what is known as a catching-up on corporation tax collections.

Under a statutory change now in effect, every corporation which used to pay its taxes for the preceding calendar year on a quarterly basis in the following year will find itself compelled to pay 45 per cent of its taxes for 1953 by March 15 and 90 per cent by June 30, 1954.

This is very important to American business because, if a recession comes, it will not be possible to abate the payment of taxes during 1954 and take a credit, as used to be the case. The tax money will have to be paid out and refunds will not be effective until the beginning of the calendar year 1955. The meaning of this in terms of working capital for businesses that are hit by a recession is clear to those who know how successfully the refund system worked at the close of World War 2. At that time, it was possible to cease paying quarterly taxes and use the reserve funds that had been put away for tax payments to the federal government as a cushion or capital fund to stay in business during a difficult transition period.

Many businesses have figured on the accumulation of a reserve fund for a post-Korean depression out of the savings made on the abatement of a half year of excess-profits taxes. This relief now appears to be headed for the wastebasket.

It is misleading for the treasury and for Representative Jere Cooper, Democrat, of Tennessee, ranking minority member of the Ways and Means Committee, to argue that, because out of the 424,000 corporations only 50,000 paid an excess-profits tax, the tax isn't painful. Actually, the statistics that should have been disclosed, in all fairness, are those that show the total amount of business or volume of sales done by those 50,000 corporations and the number of persons employed. Everybody who knows anything about corporation statistics is aware that, of the 424,000 corporations, the largest number employ less than 20 persons.

The real problem of unemployment and the disastrous chain reaction that can start in and affect all other businesses is to be found in those 50,000 corporations that are paying excess-profits taxes. Many of them are the competitors of the truly big businesses. What the treasury should also have disclosed is the total number of big corporations that either pay no excess-profits taxes or a negligible amount. The dominant units in various industries aren't worrying about an excess-profits-tax repeal because they know it doesn't affect them materially but will affect their smaller competitors.

When a recession sets in, the administration will get no help from the Democrats who helped sabotage the Republican pledge of a reduction of taxes, for they will be the first to blame the Republicans for the depression.

The crucial period is the last six months of 1953—and it will be too late to lock the barn in 1954 by remedial legislation. For many businesses may be closing their doors then. The administration's only chance to save itself politicaliy will come if the depression holds off for another year, thus giving time for legislation to be passed making refunds of excess-profits-tax money.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Washington—The current commotion in the city of New York over the nominations of candidates for mayor is a fine demonstration of the political imbecility of the people who now presume to offer leadership to the whole wide world. The biggest city in the world and the dirtiest in our country, is at the mercy of self-serving and self-appointed "committees" of political "parties" which have only one interest. That interest is not remotely related to the efficient and economical city management.

That interest is limited to a morbid desire for power, patronage, jobs and money.

The so-called Liberal Party is a political auxiliary of Dave Dubinsky's Garment Workers' Union and is, in practical effect, Dubinsky's private property. The "committee" of this "party" picked Rudolph Halley as its candidate solely on the basis of his sensational publicity and Dubinsky's estimate of his probable drawing power at the polls. The same considerations will govern the selections of the other candidates by the same process.

In the field of aspirants there is not one man of any proven or even indicated ability to clean the filthy streets which are a disgrace even by comparison with the streets of the ruined city of Berlin, to scale off massive encrustations of useless commissioners, deputies and assistants who devour taxes, or to relieve the disgusting squalor of the subways and impose a fare sufficient to let them support themselves.

The only politician of prominence in the entire state who has demonstrated executive ability and a belief in politics as the science of government, is Governor Tom Dewey. He is involved here only as a Republican doing his partisan bit to put a Republican in the city hall. The state will not realize what a good governor Dewey was until it has had a few years of ordinary machine administration after he leaves.

The foul condition of the city is less impressive to the people who live there than to visitors, because they have grown used to it. Possibly popular government has reached the limit of its ability. A dictator could do better, as Mussolini and Hitler did. Stalin seems, not to have done well, but he was dealing with a people with no passion for hygiene nor any acquaintance with comfort. In other ways, however, he showed great ability. His monument should include some symbol of his profitable exploitation of the stupidity of Henry Wallace and Averell Harriman who contributed vastly out of our wealth, earned by our personal toil as human beings. On the other hand, Wallace and Harriman are superb examples of the degeneration of our government on the national scale.

We had scarecly heard of Henry Wallace when Roosevelt inflicted him upon us. We thought of Harriman only in terms of his father's reputation. We had no warning that he was as frivolous and fatuous as Wallace but Roosevelt of course knew the truth about both of them. To be sure, our popular votes elected Roosevelt, but in the first instance we fell for melodious promises of economical administration and a revival of our normal industrial prosperity by conventional, constitutional means. Thereafter we had no voice. It would be enlightening to the voters of the young generation and to many of us wearying elders to read a compilation of those 1932 speeches.

We are so ignorant of the true character of our union of sovereign republics, known as states, that we have almost dismissed them from our minds as independent political entities. They were robbed of their sovereignty by the 16th Amendment creating the income tax with no limit on the percentage of the income which could be confiscated by the national Congress. The refusal of the Congress, which set that amendment in motion, to establish a limit on the confiscation deprived the states of sources of income to support themselves and sent them to Washington to wheedle for money out of the national treasury. If the federal government can send millions back to the states for purely local purposes then it has more than it needs or ought to have.

The great taxes on the estates of people who die, rising to a bracket of 77 percent, and on gifts, rising to 57 percent, are simply a means of confiscating wealth from within the states and the only protection is the device of the "foundation." These foundations are a tax-dodge, but it is a good thing we have them, nevertheless.

In England many great old business institutions have been destroyed by the estate taxes. They are liquidated, their old employes go on a miserable, poverty-level dole and the government gets no more taxes of any kind from the business itself or its owners.

But our dodges, including also the executive pensions and variations of "deferred compensations," should not be necessary. The way of it was that we adopted these great death duties but lacked the guts to enforce them when we saw how ruinous they would be. The remedy would be to repeal them. The states have almost entirely surrendered their duty and power to make union goons and racketeers behave. We look helplessly to Washington.

But our considerations in politics do not acknowledge any such issues. We do not understand that the system of public "education" has become an arrogant, demanding monster with a first lien on almost every home in the country. School boards and the national "education" lobby have become so domineering that owners of homes who have long since educated their children and paid the cost have got rid of their old homes.

No such issues will be mentioned in the New York election.

The candidates will express themselves on gambling, which is almost extinct and a petty detail at its worst, parking, crime, subway fares and more and more subsidized housing. The next mayor will be as bad as the last half-dozen.

Complaints Are Withdrawn

New York, July 9 (AP)—The government has withdrawn complaints against Albert J. Drevney, 40, accused of threatening the life of President Eisenhower, because of the man's mental condition. U. S. Commissioner Edward V. McDonald yesterday granted a dismissal motion offered by Assistant U. S. Attorney Martin Klein who referred to a federal hospital medical report and said Drevney will be committed to a state institution. Drevney was arrested last month in New Rochelle after a nationwide federal hunt. He allegedly mailed threatening letters to the President and to the postmaster at Harrisburg, Pa.

Dewey Praises Work of President

Washington, July 9 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York thinks President Eisenhower is "doing magnificently" against some of the toughest problems in history.

Dewey had what he described as "a very pleasant hour's visit" with the President yesterday.

Earlier, he told newsmen that Eisenhower "probably has faced more and tougher problems than anyone else in history. And I think he is doing magnificently."

The governor said he talked "about a lot of things" with the President, Mrs. Eisenhower and George M. Humphrey, secretary of the Treasury. Dewey declined to say what was discussed.

Dewey lunched at the White House with James C. Hagerty, who formerly was his secretary and now is the President's press secretary, and other members of Eisenhower's staff. The President was out golfing at the time.

Meets With Delegates

Here to talk with congressional leaders about approval of the New York-New Jersey compact on control of New York harbor piers, Dewey dined last night with members of his state's delegation.

Yesterday he discussed it with Martin (R.-Mass.); Rep. Halleck (R.-Ind.), House majority leader; Rep. Rayburn (D.-Tex.), the minority leader, and Rep. McCormack (D.-Mass.), minority whip.

Dewey said he also discussed with House leaders proposals to develop more power at Niagara Falls.

The governor talked with Senate leaders as well on the interstate compact.

Complaints Are Withdrawn

New York, July 9 (AP)—The government has withdrawn complaints against Albert J. Drevney, 40, accused of threatening the life of President Eisenhower, because of the man's mental condition. U. S. Commissioner Edward V. McDonald yesterday granted a dismissal motion offered by Assistant U. S. Attorney Martin Klein who referred to a federal hospital medical report and said Drevney will be committed to a state institution. Drevney was arrested last month in New Rochelle after a nationwide federal hunt. He allegedly mailed threatening letters to the President and to the postmaster at Harrisburg, Pa.

Dewey Praises Work of President

Oklahoma City (AP)—A Capitol stenographer, letting off steam in an elevator, was quite unhappy over the fact the Legislature had raised some salaries of state employes but skipped her. "Did you lobby the legislators?" she was asked. "No," she snapped, "but the next time I walk down the corridor and one of them pinches me I'm going to swat him in the eye."

Horse Sentiment

Mattoon, Ill. (AP)—Farmer Ray Young owns a tractor, but he likes horses, too. He works his team of black mares just to keep them in condition, saying: "These mares hardly pay for their feed, but I'm keeping them just the same. Fellow wanted to buy them the other day. I told him he'd just kill them and make dog food with them. They've always worked for me, and I'm going to take care of them."

You can help prevent clogged drains by regularly allowing lots of scalding water to run down them.

Uranium City

Uranium City, Sask. (AP)—Uranium gave birth to this town 450 airmiles northwest of Prince Albert and the much-sought-after mineral is developing it into one of the largest mining towns in western Canada. Goldfields, supply and distribution hub for the gold rushes of the 1930s, has given way to this new center a few miles to the north. The old town has been moved lock, stock and barrel to the new uranium center about 10 miles away.

Toy Library

Glendale, Calif. (AP) — Youngsters of Glendale now boast of a mobile toy lending library and a "toyrarian" to manage it. The Tuesday Afternoon Club Juniors bought a trailer, renovated and decorated it, and youngsters of 23 elementary schools contributed 2,500 toys for the library. The young set have regular borrower's cards, are graded on their treatment of the toys and they can graduate to bigger, more expensive toys, or even long term periods to use them.

Coffee on the House

Evergreen Park, Ill. (AP)—Here's a store that gives the customer a break — a coffee break, that is. The branch of the Chicago Loop Fair Store takes time out each Friday morning to be neighborly with shoppers. For one hour customers knock off shopping and have coffee and refreshments on the house. While they rest their feet and enjoy a snack, the store stages a fashion show, has a critic give an oral book review or presents beauty hints.

Hot Atom Detectives

College Park, Md. (AP) — The University of Maryland extension service says U. S. Department of Agriculture scientists are "tagging" insects with radioactive materials to chart their life history and travels. The "hot" bugs can be detected with Geiger counters, even when out of sight—for example, under the bark of a tree. Charting insect travels help entomologists in control work, the extension service says.

Evergreen Park, Ill. (AP)—Here's a store that gives the customer a break — a coffee break, that is. The branch of the Chicago Loop Fair Store takes time out each Friday morning to be neighborly with shoppers. For one hour customers knock off shopping and have coffee and refreshments on the house. While they rest their feet and enjoy a snack, the store stages a fashion show, has a critic give an oral book review or presents beauty hints.

Hot Atom Detectives

College Park, Md. (AP) — The University of Maryland extension service says U. S. Department of Agriculture scientists are "tagging" insects with radioactive materials to chart their life history and travels. The "hot" bugs can be detected with Geiger counters, even when out of sight—for example, under the bark of a tree. Charting insect travels help entomologists in control work, the extension service says.

M'Carthy Slates Discussion on Article

Sen. Joseph C. McCarthy (R.-Wis.), right, talks with Joseph B. Matthews, staff chief of the Senate Investigations subcommittee, after announcing that a closed-door session of the committee would be held July 7 to discuss four committee members' quesion that Matthews should continue in his post in view of his published charge that clergymen are the "largest single group supporting the Communist apparatus in the United States today." This magazine article statement raised a storm of protest.

Court Order Halts Signing of Oath

New York, July 9 (AP)—A state court order has restrained the New York City Housing Authority from enforcing a federal law requiring thousands of tenants to sign a loyalty oath.

The ruling says the federal statute and the housing authority's resolution implementing it did not provide for tenants the "due process of law" guaranteed by the federal and New York state constitutions.

State Supreme Court Justice M. Henry Martuscello issued the decision yesterday in Brooklyn. It affects the federal law requiring tenants in federally aided, low-rent housing projects to sign certificates on non-membership in organizations designated as subversive by the U. S. attorney general.

Mrs. Rebecka Peters, tenant in a Brooklyn project, sued in behalf of herself and others on the ground that the authority's action was what Martuscello labeled it yesterday.

The city authority operates 18 such low-cost projects housing 19,945 families. An authority spokesman said approximately 90 per cent of the tenants had signed certificates of non-membership in the listed organizations.

Pact With Soviets Might Be Signed

Teheran, Iran, July 9 (AP)—Tehran newspapers speculated today that a non-aggression pact with the Soviet Union may be in the offing. They based their speculation on reports that Premier Mohammed Mossadegh and the Kremlin are preparing to negotiate Iran's long-standing border and financial claims against her big Communist neighbor.

The newspaper Etelaat, Iran's largest, said a Soviet mission may come to Tehran for negotiations and that American officials are watching developments with anxiety.

The reports coincided with a disclosure by Iranian sources that President Eisenhower has written Mossadegh he can expect no large-scale American aid from the U. S. until the premier settles his oil dispute with Britain.

Says U. S. Is Disturbed

Eisenhower also was reported as telling the aged premier the U. S. is disturbed by the freedom allowed Communist activity in Iran, presumably a reference to the infiltration of members of the Aed Tuden Party into key government departments.

It was understood that Eisenhower's letter referred only to new economic aid. Apparently the present U. S. military assistance and Point Four technical assistance program will continue. In recent years, Iran has received a 25 million dollar Export-Import Bank loan for economic development, 47 million dollars in Point Four aid, and undisclosed amounts of military equipment, along with the services of a small U. S. military mission helping to train the army and police.

(In Washington, the White House neither confirm nor deny that such a message had been sent to Mossadegh but said only there would be no comment "at this time.")

Better Be Safe

New York (AP) — It's better to be safe than sorry, in the opinion of a well dressed young man who walked into a liquor store here and ordered a bottle of wine. "Got a gun around the place?" he inquired pleasantly of clerk Marvin Kern. "No," said Kern. "In that case, let me have all the dough you've got," said the visitor, pulling out a gun of his own. The clerk handed over $75.

Bell Is Placed In Church Tower; Prevented Wreck

Barnegat Light, N. J., July 9 (AP)—A bell that prevented a shipwreck hangs in the church tower of this small coastal village today.

It was presented to townspeople by the navy in appreciation for aid they gave crewmen of an experimental vessel in distress.

Here is the story of the three-foot, 200-pound bronze ship's bell and how it found its way to dry land as told yesterday by Capt. Hugh C. Haynesworth Jr., commanding officer of the naval supply depot at Bayonne:

Last March, "Amoy," a 68-foot requisitioned Chinese junk operated by the navy on an experimental basis encountered rough weather off Barnegat Inlet.

Anchor Not Enough

Its four-man crew tossed the ship's anchor over, hoping to stop the craft from drifting toward shore and destruction in the pounding surf.

The drag wasn't heavy enough so they hauled up the anchor, attached the bell to it and threw the heavier drag into the water. The bell did the trick. A wreck was averted although the junk ran aground.

Townspeople pitched in to help and one, Alex Sundquist, a Swedish boat builder who was familiar with junks, helped repair the craft and it was able to put to sea again.

In gratitude for the aid, the crewmen, the boat's owner, Alfred Nilson of New Rochelle, N. Y., and the Office of Naval Research presented the ball to Sundquist for use in the tower of the local church.

Compulsory Smoking

In 1665, the Plague Year, use of tobacco was regarded as a safeguard against infection, and smoking was compulsory for all children.

Usually regarded as an industrial state, Connecticut is the second highest state in the nation in the value per acre of its farm products—$112.

BOOK REVIEW

To further increase interest in the Kingston Library the following review by Mrs. G. Cramer Dodge is published.

THE FABULOUS FANNY
By NORMAN KATKOV

This story of Fanny Brice is well named, "Fabulous." It sounds like Arabian Nights and would be as unbelievable, except that the author has taken his material from Fanny's own notes—and she was above everything else a completely honest person—and from interviews with people who knew her well. He has, from these sources, shown Fanny at her best and her worst—an unretouched photograph of the most amazing personality of our contemporary American stage.

It is also a "Rags to Riches" story. Fanny started as one of the children of Rosie Stern Rorach, a Hungarian peasant-immigrant, who managed her indolent husband's Newark saloon until she grew thoroughly tired of it, and then took the children to Brooklyn, and later to New York, leaving papa to shift for himself. Rosie was a shrewd manager, and Fanny soon learned to do quite well for herself, too, attaining and holding top rank in the theatrical world.

After winning a few amateur night contests, she was forever stage-struck. At age 14, she took a job in a Third Avenue motion picture house as pianist, ticket-taker, sweeper, etc, while waiting for a chance to get into show business. After several unfruitful starts, she finally got her chance in burlesque when the soubrette fainted and Fanny brashly offered to take her part. She got away with it, too. Entirely self-trained though she was, her complete unselfconsciousness, her inimitable posturings, her grimaces, her priceless comic sense and her superb, powerful voice carried her through a performance that rocked the house. After that a specialty act and a song written for her by Irving Berlin at a benefit show won her, at age 17, an eight-year contract with Max Spiegel.

The next year, when on tour with Spiegel's Travelling Troupe, she was inveigled into marriage by Frank White, handsome Schenectady barber. She hardly knew him and only consented because he appeared with ring and license and had ordered a big wedding supper for the whole troupe. She couldn't let her troupe down. She wouldn't live with him, she didn't like his mustache, so she went home to her mother and two years later divorced him. That was her first unsuitable marriage.

Only a year later Fanny was spotted by the great Ziegfeld, always on the lookout for fresh talent for his "Follies." He sent for her and, after learning that her contract with Spiegel was signed when she was under age (her mother hadn't signed because she couldn't write) and therefore not legal, he produced a contract which provided for her a salary of $75 a week that year, and $100 a week the next year. Fanny signed, grabbed the contract, and raced out into the 47th street crowd, showing it to everyone she met. She showed it so many times, she had to ask for a new one. In fact she wore out seven copies before the Follies even went into rehearsal.

There never was an actor who wouldn't sell his soul to get into the Follies—the best Broadway offering of its time—and here was Fanny right in it, and a star from the very first performance. She played in it every year but one from 1910 to 1923. She was flattered and feted by the best people in both the social and theatrical world and always she remained the same unspoiled, earthly daughter of a poor immigrant. But she learned fast, she developed exquisite taste in dress, house furnishing and later became an expert art critic. Her fiery temper flared without warning, her manners were atrocious, her language frequently vulgar and profane, but never even slightly obscene. She was mistress of funny, snappy repartee. For instance the day after the birth of her first baby, she was anxiously asked by Irene Castle, awaiting her own blessed event, "How does it feel to have a baby?" Fanny's answer, "Like pushing a piano through a transom."

Her marriage with Nicky Arnstein was her second and, except that she always loved him, her worst. Arnstein was a crook, and a gambler. He deceived her and disgraced her. He borrowed huge sums of money from her and never repaid her. He allowed her to support him in elegant luxury and criticized her manners. He neglected her and their two children and by repeated acts of infidelity he broke her heart. Then she divorced him.

She sang her famous song, "My Man" when Nick was serving time at Leavenworth. As nothing else could do, it pictured her sadness and disillusionment. Her audiences loved it and demanded it over and over. After her divorce from Nicky she didn't sing it very often.

Her adored children, Frances and Bill, did a lot to comfort her, but she needed a companion who would not be too demanding, and little Billy Rose for a time seemed suited to that role. But the marriage too was unsuitable. In every way—in stature, in character, in ability, etc.—she was bigger than he. Billy resented this, and so—another divorce.

After that she could easily have retired to live in luxury, but like all good troupers she couldn't resist the call of the theater. So when an opportunity was offered to go on the radio as the obnoxious brat, "Baby Snooks"—her own creation—Fanny accepted, and all America listened with glee. She continued the sketch right up to a few days before her death in May, 1951. She was then 60 years old but in many ways forever young.

There are many fine photographs in the book. The interviews of, among others, Eddie and Ida Cantor; Polly Moran; Lew Brice; Lew Pennington; George Cukor; John Cromwell; Ben Hecht; Katharine Hepburn, and two ex-husbands, Nicky Arnstein and Billy Rose, by the author, a trained newspaperman, are little masterpieces in reporting.

BOOK REVIEW

To further increase interest in the Kingston Library the following review by Mrs. G. Cramer Dodge is published.

THE FABULOUS FANNY
By NORMAN KATKOV

This story of Fanny Brice is well named, "Fabulous." It sounds like Arabian Nights and would be as unbelievable, except that the author has taken his material from Fanny's own notes—and she was above everything else a completely honest person—and from interviews with people who knew her well. He has, from these sources, shown Fanny at her best and her worst—an unretouched photograph of the most amazing personality of our contemporary American stage.

It is also a "Rags to Riches" story. Fanny started as one of the children of Rosie Stern Rorach, a Hungarian peasant-immigrant, who managed her indolent husband's Newark saloon until she grew thoroughly tired of it, and then took the children to Brooklyn, and later to New York, leaving papa to shift for himself. Rosie was a shrewd manager, and Fanny soon learned to do quite well for herself, too, attaining and holding top rank in the theatrical world.

After winning a few amateur night contests, she was forever stage-struck. At age 14, she took a job in a Third Avenue motion picture house as pianist, ticket-taker, sweeper, etc, while waiting for a chance to get into show business. After several unfruitful starts, she finally got her chance in burlesque when the soubrette fainted and Fanny brashly offered to take her part. She got away with it, too. Entirely self-trained though she was, her complete unselfconsciousness, her inimitable posturings, her grimaces, her priceless comic sense and her superb, powerful voice carried her through a performance that rocked the house. After that a specialty act and a song written for her by Irving Berlin at a benefit show won her, at age 17, an eight-year contract with Max Spiegel.

The next year, when on tour with Spiegel's Travelling Troupe, she was inveigled into marriage by Frank White, handsome Schenectady barber. She hardly knew him and only consented because he appeared with ring and license and had ordered a big wedding supper for the whole troupe. She couldn't let her troupe down. She wouldn't live with him, she didn't like his mustache, so she went home to her mother and two years later divorced him. That was her first unsuitable marriage.

Only a year later Fanny was spotted by the great Ziegfeld, always on the lookout for fresh talent for his "Follies." He sent for her and, after learning that her contract with Spiegel was signed when she was under age (her mother hadn't signed because she couldn't write) and therefore not legal, he produced a contract which provided for her a salary of $75 a week that year, and $100 a week the next year. Fanny signed, grabbed the contract, and raced out into the 47th street crowd, showing it to everyone she met. She showed it so many times, she had to ask for a new one. In fact she wore out seven copies before the Follies even went into rehearsal.

There never was an actor who wouldn't sell his soul to get into the Follies—the best Broadway offering of its time—and here was Fanny right in it, and a star from the very first performance. She played in it every year but one from 1910 to 1923. She was flattered and feted by the best people in both the social and theatrical world and always she remained the same unspoiled, earthly daughter of a poor immigrant. But she learned fast, she developed exquisite taste in dress, house furnishing and later became an expert art critic. Her fiery temper flared without warning, her manners were atrocious, her language frequently vulgar and profane, but never even slightly obscene. She was mistress of funny, snappy repartee. For instance the day after the birth of her first baby, she was anxiously asked by Irene Castle, awaiting her own blessed event, "How does it feel to have a baby?" Fanny's answer, "Like pushing a piano through a transom."

Her marriage with Nicky Arnstein was her second and, except that she always loved him, her worst. Arnstein was a crook, and a gambler. He deceived her and disgraced her. He borrowed huge sums of money from her and never repaid her. He allowed her to support him in elegant luxury and criticized her manners. He neglected her and their two children and by repeated acts of infidelity he broke her heart. Then she divorced him.

She sang her famous song. "My Man" when Nick was serving time at Leavenworth. As nothing else could do, it pictured her sadness and disillusionment. Her audiences loved it and demanded it over and over. After her divorce from Nicky she didn't sing it very often.

Her adored children, Frances and Bill, did a lot to comfort her, but she needed a companion who would not be too demanding, and little Billy Rose for a time seemed suited to that role. But the marriage too was unsuitable. In every way—in stature, in character, in ability, etc.—she was bigger than he. Billy resented this, and so—another divorce.

After that she could easily have retired to live in luxury, but like all good troupers she couldn't resist the call of the theater. So when an opportunity was offered to go on the radio as the obnoxious brat, "Baby Snooks"—her own creation—Fanny accepted, and all America listened with glee. EAT WELL for Less

Serve Dual-Purpose Fritters

NORWAY SARDINE FRITTERS are tasteful and different served as a luncheon dish or as an appetizer with tartar sauce.

Really different and easy to prepare, these sardine fritters will perk up your summer menu. Chef Toucas of New York's venerable Hotel Astor suggested them.

Served hot, he says, they make an appetizing luncheon dish together with hot boiled potatoes, and dill and cucumber slaw or a mixed green salad. Served cold, as an appetizer with tartar sauce or mayonnaise, they are something new and outstanding to serve with chilled drinks.

Sardine Fritters
(6 servings)

One (3¾-ounce) can Norway sardines, ¾ cup flour, ¼ teaspoon baking powder, ¾ cup milk, pinch of black pepper, pinch of nutmeg.

Mix flour, baking powder, onion salt, pepper and nutmeg. Add milk and well beaten egg. Mix vigorously. Drain oil from Norway sardines and dry the sardines. Dip sardines into batter and drop them individually into deep fat. Fry until golden brown.

Serve with tartar sauce or mayonnaise.

Note—A 3¾-ounce can of Norway sardines contains an average of 20-22 sardines.

Here's another really tempting hot-weather appetizer:

Stuffed Celery Delight
(25-30 stuffed celery stalks)

One (3¾-ounce) can Norway sardines, 1 (3-ounce) package cream cheese, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon prepared horseradish, ¼ teaspoon grated onion, ¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 2 or 3 bunches of celery.

Drain oil from sardines. Combine with cheese, salt, horseradish, onion and Worcestershire sauce. Mix to smooth paste. Clean and trim celery stalks, stuff with mixture. Chill before serving.

TOMORROW'S MENU

Breakfast: Sliced peaches, ready-to-eat cereal, crisp bacon, enriched toast, butter or margarine, coffee, milk.

Luncheon: Cottage cheese with chopped raw vegetables, sour cream, rye bread, butter or margarine, crumb-nut cake, tea, milk.

Dinner: Norway sardine fritters, tartar sauce, parsley, boiled potatoes, broiled tomato halves, crusty rolls or bread, butter or margarine, mixed greens and cucumber salad, French dressing, blackberries, cream, cookies, coffee, milk.

EAT WELL for Less

Serve Dual-Purpose Fritters

NORWAY SARDINE FRITTERS are tasteful and different served as a luncheon dish or as an appetizer with tartar sauce.

Really different and easy to prepare, these sardine fritters will perk up your summer menu. Chef Toucas of New York's venerable Hotel Astor suggested them.

Served hot, he says, they make an appetizing luncheon dish together with hot boiled potatoes, and dill and cucumber slaw or a mixed green salad. Served cold, as an appetizer with tartar sauce or mayonnaise, they are something new and outstanding to serve with chilled drinks.

Sardine Fritters
(6 servings)

One (3¾-ounce) can Norway sardines, ¾ cup flour, ¼ teaspoon baking powder, ¾ cup milk, pinch of black pepper, pinch of nutmeg.

Mix flour, baking powder, onion salt, pepper and nutmeg. Add milk and well beaten egg. Mix vigorously. Drain oil from Norway sardines and dry the sardines. Dip sardines into batter and drop them individually into deep fat. Fry until golden brown.

Serve with tartar sauce or mayonnaise.

Note—A 3¾-ounce can of Norway sardines contains an average of 20-22 sardines.

Here's another really tempting hot-weather appetizer:

Stuffed Celery Delight
(25-30 stuffed celery stalks)

One (3¾-ounce) can Norway sardines, 1 (3-ounce) package cream cheese, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon prepared horseradish, ¼ teaspoon grated onion, ¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 2 or 3 bunches of celery.

Drain oil from sardines. Combine with cheese, salt, horseradish, onion and Worcestershire sauce. Mix to smooth paste. Clean and trim celery stalks, stuff with mixture. Chill before serving.

TOMORROW'S MENU

Breakfast: Sliced peaches, ready-to-eat cereal, crisp bacon, enriched toast, butter or margarine, coffee, milk.

Luncheon: Cottage cheese with chopped raw vegetables, sour cream, rye bread, butter or margarine, crumb-nut cake, tea, milk.

Dinner: Norway sardine fritters, tartar sauce, parsley, boiled potatoes, broiled tomato halves, crusty rolls or bread, butter or margarine, mixed greens and cucumber salad, French dressing, blackberries, cream, cookies, coffee, milk.

Newburgh Man Is Sole Road Bidder

Philip Totonelly, of Newburgh, at $156,452, was the only bidder at Albany today for the rough grading on the western approach to the proposed Kingston-Rhinecliff bridge.

The state estimate for the .67 of a mile of rough grading from Route 32 eastward, was $163,000. Clearing and grading of the route will allow access for other contractors to the bridge site, which is about three miles above Kingston Point.

It is expected that, if the state approves Totonelly as the contractor, work will start in about a month on the project, and as soon as the approach is built the way will be cleared for the building of the abutments and other major work on the span.

The Peckham Road Corp., of White Plains, submitted a low bid of $710,061.90 for reconstruction of an east-west access road at the northern end of the Taconic Parkway in Columbia county.

The road, which extends northwest of the parkway to Routes 9 and 9H is 5.3 miles. It will provide a better connecting link with the Taconic Parkway and other main routes of the area.

The state estimate on the project was $886,000 and the second lowest bidder was Arute Brothers of New Britain, Conn., at $792,485.

Other bids on projects in Greene county, and one for the Tarrytown approach to the state thruway bridge were scheduled to be opened today.

They entered the Field Court building, Brophy said, by pulling a screen from a window. Livingston and LeFever is a wholesale paper firm, dealing in paper bags, wrappers, twine, paper towels, and related items.

Dalhart, Tex., July 9 (AP)—Dust—there's no better reminder of drouth—today sifted around the corners of Dalhart where cattlemen of five states meet at 2 p. m., to ask federal price support on cattle.

A dust storm reduced visibility to zero here last night, but by morning the air had cleared. As usual, no rain fell.

Department Asks More Construction

Washington, July 9 (AP)—The Defense Department today asked Congress to authorize an additional $529,386,000 worth of construction at army, navy, marine corps and air force installations.

Included are 169 new construction projects in 41 states. In addition, the department's proposal calls for projects in Alaska, Okinawa, the Mariana Islands, the Philippines and Cuba.

Still other projects will be at undisclosed locations, a Defense Department statement said.

Of the total $145,620,000 would be for army installations, $96,138,000 for the navy and $287,628,000 for the air force.

Projects within the United States would require $375,479,000 and those outside the continental United States $52,855,000.

Won't Ask More

In submitting its request to the House and Senate Armed Services Committee, the department said additional appropriations for the fiscal year which started July 1 "will not be requested from the Congress for this construction."

However, it said that in the near future it will ask Congress for authority to use construction money previously appropriated.

"The use of existing construction appropriations for the new projects will enable the military department to make the most prudent use of existing funds for construction purposes," the department said.

Two Youngsters Are In Traffic Mishaps

A six-year-old boy was in collision with a pickup truck this morning while riding his bicycle and a 12-year-old boy ran into the side of an automobile, police reported.

Henry Langlay of 6 Hillsworth avenue, while riding his bicycle, was in collision with the right headlight and fender of a pickup truck operated by George Pearson of Lake Katrine at 8:37 a. m., at the intersection of Broadway and Elmendorf street, police said. He will be examined by the family physician, it was said.

William Szymanski, 12, of 451 Washington avenue, was reported by police to have suffered a laceration of the left leg at 9:50 a. m. when he ran into the side of a car driven by Louis Sapp of 159 Washington avenue. Officer Sapp was operating his car west on Washington avenue at the time of the accident, it was reported.

Reed, 2 Others Charge Committee Follows Blindly

Washington, July 9 (AP)—Chairman Reed (R-N.Y.) and two other Republicans charged today the House Ways nad Means Committee is "following blindly an order from the executive branch of government" in supporting a continued excess profits tax.

"We deplore relegating the great Committee on Ways and Means to the status of a rubber stamp," Reed and Reps. Jenkins (R-Ohio) and Mason (R-Ill.) said in a report to the full House.

They said too "there are signs that a recession is in the offing" and declared that continuing the tax would "gamble with the economic welfare and security of the country."

The committee yesterday voted 16 to 9 to approve President Eisenhower's proposal to extend the excess profits tax for six months, to Jan. 1.

The vote was a resounding victory for the administration over Reed and other rebels in the President's own party, who had blocked action on the tax extension for weeks.

Having leaped the Ways and Means Committee hurdle, administration forces prepared a fast track for the bill down the rest of the congressional trail.

New Statement Of Policy Given

Washington, July 9 (AP)—Official word today to U. S. overseas libraries that some books by Communist authors can be used just about completes the circle of State Department positions in the book purge controversy.

The new policy statement, approved by Secretary of State Dulles, was made public last night by Dr. Robert L. Johnson, retiring head of the International Information Administration (IIA), the State Department agency which operates the 189 libraries in 63 countries.

The statement puts State Department policy back to about where it was last February, when Sen. McCarthy (R.-Wis.) began denouncing the libraries' use of books by Communists or pro-Communists.

Its release came a few hours after President Eisenhower told his news conference the State Department and the information agency were taking a new look at the whole matter. Its net effect seemed to bring their policies closer to Eisenhower's "don't join the book burners" advice to Dartmouth College's graduating class last month.

There was no immediate comment from McCarthy, who has contended books by Communists or Red sympathizers "are bound to follow the Communist line" and should be banned from the overseas libraries.

Government, Processors Are Having Difficulty

Washington, July 8 (AP)—The government and meat processors are having difficulty getting together on a federal beef-buying program aimed at providing higher prices for cattle being forced to market in the southwestern drouth area.

The agriculture department announced two weeks ago a 200-million-pound beef purchase program, with a buying goal of at least ten million pounds a week for 20 weeks.

Last week only 3,621,000 pounds were purchased and this week only 5,250,000.

Officials said buying was falling behind schedule because some processors are asking prices out of line with depressed prices being paid for cattle in the distressed area.

Action Is Scheduled

Washington, July 9 (AP)—The House scheduled action today on a bill that would permit private enterprise to construct a 400-million dollar expansion of power facilities at Niagara Falls. Debate on the bill will be limited to two hours. The bill is opposed by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, who would like his state to build the big project. Proponents were confident they had the votes to assure passage. Opponents privately conceded this to be just about the case. Their main hope now, assuming House passage, will be an effort to get the measure beaten back in the Senate.

Cabinet Says 'No' To Royal Romance, Magazine Reports

London, July 9 (AP) — The Churchill Cabinet was approached on whether Princess Margaret should marry a handsome divorced Royal Air Force officer and joined with the Church of England in saying "No," the Tribune said today.

The fortnightly left-wing magazine drew a comparison between the 22-year-old princess' reported romancing with RAF Group Captain Peter Townsend and her uncle's affair with an American divorcee, Wallis Simpson.

"This intolerable piece of interference with a girl's private life is all part of a myth about the Royal Family which has been so sedulously built up by interested parties in recent years," said the Tribune.

Church Is Criticized

"It recalls the hypocritical role played by the church at the time of the Duke of Windsor's abdication.

"Edward was loudly acclaimed as 'the best of kings' until he expressed the firm desire to marry the woman he loved. (Prime Minister Stanley) Baldwin and the archbishops did not approve his choice. So they pushed him off the throne."

The Tribune, which is a political supporter of Aneurin Bevan, declared "Princess Margaret should be allowed to make up her own mind whom she wants to marry. Most other people, we imagine, would agree with that simple proposition. But the British Cabinet does not agree."

Capt. Townsend, 38, a "Battle of Britain" ace, was suddenly given a new assignment abroad when his reported romance with Margaret became generally talked about. He takes over his new duties as air attache in Brussels two days before the 22-year-old princess is due back on July 16 from a tour of southern Rhodesia.

Was Acting Comptroller

He had been acting comptroller at Clarence House, where the princess lives with her mother—and had a suite there. Townsend divorced his wife last fall after 11 years of marriage, charging her with adultery. He was awarded custody of their two sons—age nine and six—but they are living with their mother, who has since remarried.

The Tribune, one of Prime Minister Churchill's sharpest critics in politics, chided the cabinet for frowning on Margaret's romance with the dashing airman and pointed out three members of the cabinet have been involved themselves in divorce cases.

One is Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, who married Churchill's young niece, Clarissa, after divorcing his wife for desertion.

The Tribune, without giving its source of information, said:

Asked for Advice

"According to our information the cabinet was asked for its advice on whether the princess should be allowed to marry Group Captain Peter Townsend. The cabinet said 'No.'

"The objection is based on the fact that Peter Townsend had been involved in a divorce case. That, in the view of the church is a reason for preventing him from marrying the princess, even though Peter Townsend was an innocent party in the divorce action. When the Queen referred the issue to the cabinet, the cabinet agreed with the church."

Queen Elizabeth II, as head of the royal family, would have to approve her sister's marriage. Elizabeth reportedly is personally sympathetic to Margaret's position.

An exploratory operation involving the abdominal wall was performed yesterday to obtain precise information concerning Taft's hip ailment.

Newburgh Man Is Sole Road Bidder

Philip Totonelly, of Newburgh, at $156,452, was the only bidder at Albany today for the rough grading on the western approach to the proposed Kingston-Rhinecliff bridge.

The state estimate for the .67 of a mile of rough grading from Route 32 eastward, was $163,000. Clearing and grading of the route will allow access for other contractors to the bridge site, which is about three miles above Kingston Point.

It is expected that, if the state approves Totonelly as the contractor, work will start in about a month on the project, and as soon as the approach is built the way will be cleared for the building of the abutments and other major work on the span.

The Peckham Road Corp., of White Plains, submitted a low bid of $710,061.90 for reconstruction of an east-west access road at the northern end of the Taconic Parkway in Columbia county.

The road, which extends northwest of the parkway to Routes 9 and 9H is 5.3 miles. It will provide a better connecting link with the Taconic Parkway and other main routes of the area.

The state estimate on the project was $886,000 and the second lowest bidder was Arute Brothers of New Britain, Conn., at $792,485.

Other bids on projects in Greene county, and one for the Tarrytown approach to the state thruway bridge were scheduled to be opened today.

Detectives Check On Fruit Thieves

City detectives were investigating today the theft Tuesday night of $5 worth of fruit from Zwick and Schwartz Wholesale Fruits and Produce, 36 O'Neil street, and approximately $7 worth of small merchandise from Livingston and LeFever on Field Court.

Detective Clarence Brophy said the thefts were believed to be the work of teen-agers.

He said the thieves climbed to the roof of the building at 36 O'Neil street and entered an open door on the second floor. They made off with an assortment of fruit.

They entered the Field Court building, Brophy said, by pulling a screen from a window. Livingston and LeFever is a wholesale paper firm, dealing in paper bags, wrappers, twine, paper towels, and related items.

A dust storm reduced visibility to zero here last night, but by morning the air had cleared. As usual, no rain fell.

Still other projects will be at undisclosed locations, a Defense Department statement said.

Of the total $145,620,000 would be for army installations, $96,138,000 for the navy and $287,628,000 for the air force.

Projects within the United States would require $375,479,000 and those outside the continental United States $52,855,000.

Won't Ask More

In submitting its request to the House and Senate Armed Services Committee, the department said additional appropriations for the fiscal year which started July 1 "will not be requested from the Congress for this construction."

However, it said that in the near future it will ask Congress for authority to use construction money previously appropriated.

"The use of existing construction appropriations for the new projects will enable the military department to make the most prudent use of existing funds for construction purposes," the department said.

Shields Wins in Round

Utica, July 9 (AP)—Defending champion Billy Shields of Albany coasted to a 4 and 3 victory today over H. K. Nuttal of Jamestown in the second round of the New York State Amateur golf tournament. Shields, who received a leave from the navy to play in the tourney, blazed around the first nine holes of the Yhanundasis Golf Club in par 35 to pile up a five-hole lead. Willie Turnesa of White Plains, former United States, British and state amateur champion, routed Frank Myslwiec of New York Mills, 6 and 5.

Increase Is Granted

Washington, July 9 (AP)—Six airlines granted their 17,000 mechanical employes a 9-cents-an-hour wage increase today. The agreement, between Capital, Eastern, National, Northwest, TWA and United Airlines and the International Association of Machinists, resulted from negotiations under way since April. The course of the negotiations was marked by three short-lived "wildcat" walkouts by union members. Negotiations were conducted by Leverett Edwards of the National Mediation Board.

Two Youngsters Are In Traffic Mishaps

A six-year-old boy was in collision with a pickup truck this morning while riding his bicycle and a 12-year-old boy ran into the side of an automobile, police reported.

Henry Langlay of 6 Hillsworth avenue, while riding his bicycle, was in collision with the right headlight and fender of a pickup truck operated by George Pearson of Lake Katrine at 8:37 a. m., at the intersection of Broadway and Elmendorf street, police said. He will be examined by the family physician, it was said.

William Szymanski, 12, of 451 Washington avenue, was reported by police to have suffered a laceration of the left leg at 9:50 a. m. when he ran into the side of a car driven by Louis Sapp of 159 Washington avenue. Officer Sapp was operating his car west on Washington avenue at the time of the accident, it was reported.

Reed, 2 Others Charge Committee Follows Blindly

Washington, July 9 (AP)—Chairman Reed (R-N.Y.) and two other Republicans charged today the House Ways nad Means Committee is "following blindly an order from the executive branch of government" in supporting a continued excess profits tax.

"We deplore relegating the great Committee on Ways and Means to the status of a rubber stamp," Reed and Reps. Jenkins (R-Ohio) and Mason (R-Ill.) said in a report to the full House.

They said too "there are signs that a recession is in the offing" and declared that continuing the tax would "gamble with the economic welfare and security of the country."

The committee yesterday voted 16 to 9 to approve President Eisenhower's proposal to extend the excess profits tax for six months, to Jan. 1.

The vote was a resounding victory for the administration over Reed and other rebels in the President's own party, who had blocked action on the tax extension for weeks.

Having leaped the Ways and Means Committee hurdle, administration forces prepared a fast track for the bill down the rest of the congressional trail.

New Statement Of Policy Given

Washington, July 9 (AP)—Official word today to U. S. overseas libraries that some books by Communist authors can be used just about completes the circle of State Department positions in the book purge controversy.

The new policy statement, approved by Secretary of State Dulles, was made public last night by Dr. Robert L. Johnson, retiring head of the International Information Administration (IIA), the State Department agency which operates the 189 libraries in 63 countries.

The statement puts State Department policy back to about where it was last February, when Sen. McCarthy (R.-Wis.) began denouncing the libraries' use of books by Communists or pro-Communists.

Its release came a few hours after President Eisenhower told his news conference the State Department and the information agency were taking a new look at the whole matter. Its net effect seemed to bring their policies closer to Eisenhower's "don't join the book burners" advice to Dartmouth College's graduating class last month.

There was no immediate comment from McCarthy, who has contended books by Communists or Red sympathizers "are bound to follow the Communist line" and should be banned from the overseas libraries.

Government, Processors Are Having Difficulty

Washington, July 8 (AP)—The government and meat processors are having difficulty getting together on a federal beef-buying program aimed at providing higher prices for cattle being forced to market in the southwestern drouth area.

The agriculture department announced two weeks ago a 200-million-pound beef purchase program, with a buying goal of at least ten million pounds a week for 20 weeks.

Last week only 3,621,000 pounds were purchased and this week only 5,250,000.

Officials said buying was falling behind schedule because some processors are asking prices out of line with depressed prices being paid for cattle in the distressed area.

Action Is Scheduled

Washington, July 9 (AP)—The House scheduled action today on a bill that would permit private enterprise to construct a 400-million dollar expansion of power facilities at Niagara Falls. Debate on the bill will be limited to two hours. The bill is opposed by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, who would like his state to build the big project. Proponents were confident they had the votes to assure passage. Opponents privately conceded this to be just about the case. Their main hope now, assuming House passage, will be an effort to get the measure beaten back in the Senate.

Cabinet Says 'No' ToRoyalRomance, Magazine Reports

London, July 9 (AP) — The Churchill Cabinet was approached on whether Princess Margaret should marry a handsome divorced Royal Air Force officer and joined with the Church of England in saying "No," the Tribune said today.

The fortnightly left-wing magazine drew a comparison between the 22-year-old princess' reported romancing with RAF Group Captain Peter Townsend and her uncle's affair with an American divorcee, Wallis Simpson.

"This intolerable piece of interference with a girl's private life is all part of a myth about the Royal Family which has been so sedulously built up by interested parties in recent years," said the Tribune.

Church Is Criticized

"It recalls the hypocritical role played by the church at the time of the Duke of Windsor's abdication.

"Edward was loudly acclaimed as 'the best of kings' until he expressed the firm desire to marry the woman he loved. (Prime Minister Stanley) Baldwin and the archbishops did not approve his choice. So they pushed him off the throne."

The Tribune, which is a political supporter of Aneurin Bevan, declared "Princess Margaret should be allowed to make up her own mind whom she wants to marry. Most other people, we imagine, would agree with that simple proposition. But the British Cabinet does not agree."

Capt. Townsend, 38, a "Battle of Britain" ace, was suddenly given a new assignment abroad when his reported romance with Margaret became generally talked about. He takes over his new duties as air attache in Brussels two days before the 22-year-old princess is due back on July 16 from a tour of southern Rhodesia.

Was Acting Comptroller

He had been acting comptroller at Clarence House, where the princess lives with her mother—and had a suite there. Townsend divorced his wife last fall after 11 years of marriage, charging her with adultery. He was awarded custody of their two sons—age nine and six—but they are living with their mother, who has since remarried.

The Tribune, one of Prime Minister Churchill's sharpest critics in politics, chided the cabinet for frowning on Margaret's romance with the dashing airman and pointed out three members of the cabinet have been involved themselves in divorce cases.

One is Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, who married Churchill's young niece, Clarissa, after divorcing his wife for desertion.

The Tribune, without giving its source of information, said:

Asked for Advice

"According to our information the cabinet was asked for its advice on whether the princess should be allowed to marry Group Captain Peter Townsend The cabinet said 'No.'

"The objection is based on the fact that Peter Townsend had been involved in a divorce case That, in the view of the church is a reason for preventing him from marrying the princess, even though Peter Townsend was an innocent party in the divorce action. When the Queen referred the issue to the cabinet, the cabinet agreed with the church."

Queen Elizabeth II, as head of the royal family, would have to approve her sister's marriage Elizabeth reportedly is personally sympathetic to Margaret's position.

Taft Is Reported Gaining After His Operation

New York, July 9 (AP)—Senator Taft (R.-Ohio) was reported progressing satisfactorily today after an exploratory operation.

A New York hospital bulletin said:

"Senator Taft had a good night and continued to progress satisfactorily. His blood pressure pulse and body temperature are normal. He is cheerful this morning and lying semi-upright in bed reading the newspaper."

An exploratory operation involving the abdominal wall was performed yesterday to obtain precise information concerning Taft's hip ailment.

Taft has been under periodic treatment for some time. He recently turned over active leadership of the Senate to Senator Knowland (R.-Calif.)

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Going back to the Freeman and Journal of Friday, July 6, 1923, I ran across the various resolutions introduced by our local aldermen. Alderman Cashman asked that all holes in Hazel street be filled. Alderman Williams wanted water main extended in First avenue, from Moore street to Hooker street. Alderman Everett asked that holes in Marius street be filled, and that Delta place be rolled and oiled. Alderman Mann wanted Hunter street fixed at once. Alderman Keating asked that incandescent light be placed on Washington street, near U. & D. Railroad, and that arc light be placed at corner of Sycamore street and East Strand. Alderman Kullman suggested that catch basins on Montrepose avenue from West Chester street to Pierpont street, be made larger to prevent washouts. Alderman Buchholtz said that gutter be given attention on Sterling street between Henry and Cedar streets in front of 40 and 44 Sterling street, as after rain storm the water lays in the gutter for some time. Alderman Mann also suggested that board of public works place arc light on Strand near coal pockets, and also at the bridge and also some on Abeel street.

Alderman Martin had the following to say for the good of the folks in his ward: That corporation counsel notify state highway superintendent to send a representative here to inspect the Higginsville bridge over the Esopus creek as that was a matter that needed immediate attention; that chief of police notify those in charge of the state quarry uptown not to set off such heavy blasts as it was damaging walls of houses in vicinity; that present wooden rail along Tannery brook be replaced by an iron guard rail; that board of public works notify trolley road to repair roadbed between the rails, and if not repaired in 10 days the city to do the work and charge it to the trolley company. Folks in various parts of town perhaps remember if these repairs were done or not.

Blasting still goes on in another part of the vicinity across the creek, and when it rocks certain parts of Kingston, various house owners find damage to their properties in cracked walls and swaying chimneys. After a heavy blast, which seems to come usually around 4:30 in the afternoons, calls come pouring into the police department. An item sometimes appears in the local press and for a while the blasts seem light, until another heavy one comes along, no doubt doing damages, at first unnoticed, running into a heavy sum. From time to time, one hears of famous singers trying out their voices in a small closed room and breaking a glass just by singing a strong note, so you can imagine what a heavy blast of dynamite can do to cellar foundations, to new walls, to ceilings, and to costly chimneys. It sometimes sways them so that the bluestone on top slides off from the constant blasts. It certainly does not do any of the houses any good. Only harm can come from strong blasts. It starts a crack which widens with time.

HASN'T BROKEN DOWN, YET—A Korean farmer, plowing his rice paddy in centuries-old fashion with the aid of a wooden plow and the power of an ox, is unimpressed by that 20th century beast of burden, the helicopter, parked on the dike by his field. The ox keeps plodding along, but the whirly-bird is grounded by mechanical trouble.

Peoria, Ariz. (AP)—Mrs. Pauline Walker, 30, grabbed a pitchfork and held off an enraged bull until her husband, who had been trampled by the animal, crawled out of the pen on their ranch here. Jack T. Walker, 32, was treated for broken ribs and a fractured jaw in a Phoenix hospital.

President Wins Support of Plan

Washington, July 9 (AP)—President Eisenhower won cautious bi-partisan support today for his proposal to give the American people more information about atomic power.

Rep. Van Zandt (R.-Pa.) said a published outline of American potentialities would "scare hell out of the Russians."

The President said at yesterday's news conference that both the American people and our allies should know more about atomic energy if they are to act intelligently. The present law closely restricting atomic information is partially outmoded, he added.

Van Zandt and Rep. Price (D.-Ill.) said in separate interviews that a comparison of Russian-American atomic strength would give the American people a brighter view of U. S. chances in nuclear war. Both congressmen are members of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee.

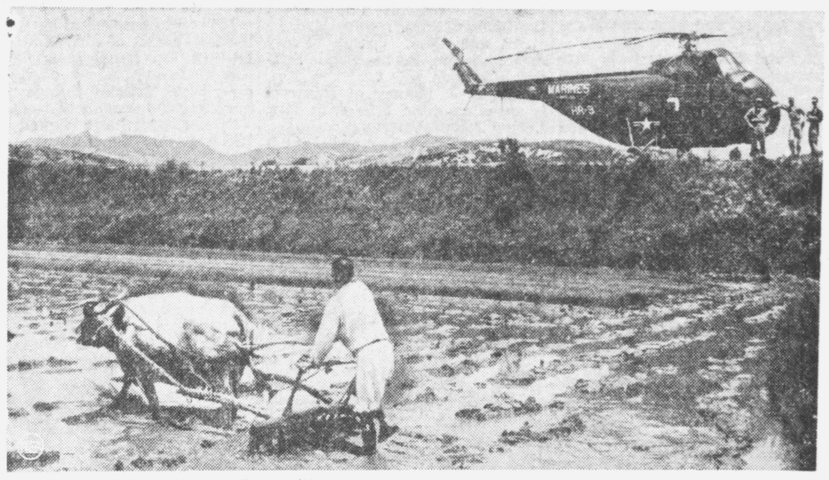
Alderman Mann also suggested that board of public works place arc light on Strand near coal pockets, and also at the bridge and also some on Abeel street.

Alderman Martin had the following to say for the good of the folks in his ward: That corporation counsel notify state highway superintendent to send a representative here to inspect the Higginsville bridge over the Esopus creek as that was a matter that needed immediate attention; that chief of police notify those in charge of the state quarry uptown not to set off such heavy blasts as it was damaging walls of houses in vicinity; that present wooden rail along Tannery brook be replaced by an iron guard rail; that board of public works notify trolley road to repair roadbed between the rails, and if not repaired in 10 days the city to do the work and charge it to the trolley company. Folks in various parts of town perhaps remember if these repairs were done or not.

Blasting still goes on in another part of the vicinity across the creek, and when it rocks certain parts of Kingston, various house owners find damage to their properties in cracked walls and swaying chimneys. After a heavy blast, which seems to come usually around 4:30 in the afternoons, calls come pouring into the police department. An item sometimes appears in the local press and for a while the blasts seem light, until another heavy one comes along, no doubt doing damages, at first unnoticed, running into a heavy sum. From time to time, one hears of famous singers trying out their voices in a small closed room and breaking a glass just by singing a strong note, so you can imagine what a heavy blast of dynamite can do to cellar foundations, to new walls, to ceilings, and to costly chimneys. It sometimes sways them so that the bluestone on top slides off from the constant blasts. It certainly does not do any of the houses any good. Only harm can come from strong blasts. It starts a crack which widens with time.



HASN'T BROKEN DOWN, YET—A Korean farmer, plowing his rice paddy in centuries-old fashion with the aid of a wooden plow and the power of an ox, is unimpressed by that 20th century beast of burden, the helicopter, parked on the dike by his field. The ox keeps plodding along, but the whirly-bird is grounded by mechanical trouble.

Escapes From Bull

Peoria, Ariz. (AP)—Mrs. Pauline Walker, 30, grabbed a pitchfork and held off an enraged bull until her husband, who had been trampled by the animal, crawled out of the pen on their ranch here. Jack T. Walker, 32, was treated for broken ribs and a fractured jaw in a Phoenix hospital.

President Wins Support of Plan

Washington, July 9 (AP)—President Eisenhower won cautious bi-partisan support today for his proposal to give the American people more information about atomic power.

Rep. Van Zandt (R.-Pa.) said a published outline of American potentialities would "scare hell out of the Russians."

The President said at yesterday's news conference that both the American people and our allies should know more about atomic energy if they are to act intelligently. The present law closely restricting atomic information is partially outmoded, he added.

Van Zandt and Rep. Price (D.-Ill.) said in separate interviews that a comparison of Russian-American atomic strength would give the American people a brighter view of U. S. chances in nuclear war. Both congressmen are members of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee.

mobile disclosed all the money and a gun under a seat, troopers reported.

Mrs. Katz was not implicated in the reported robbery. Troopers said Nachman told them she knew nothing of it, and that he had met the woman, an acquaintance, in Ellenville prior to the robbery and had made arrangements with her to meet at the diner later.

Occupation Is Listed

Nachman, reported to be the co-owner of a garage at White Lake in Sullivan county, listed his occupation as mechanic when he was booked at the court house. He is five feet, seven inches tall and weighs about 165 pounds.

Troopers said bank employes told them Nachman had been a customer of the bank for about eight months.

During the lengthy questioning, Nachman told troopers that he had served a two-year, nine-month term for robbery in Houston, Tex., but the record of previous conviction has not been officially confirmed, state police said today.

Barth has taken a prominent part in American Legion, fraternal and civic activities in the community. He is a past commander of Esopus Post, American Legion, and last month completed his tenure as commander of the Ulster County American Legion. He was also instrumental in organizing the Little League in Port Ewen.

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

This is being written on the Fourth of July—the "Glorious Fourth" we used to hear about. I have just been up in the attic to hang out "Old Glory" which has hung from our top-window flag pole for as many years as I can remember. Being a contrary person I wondered, as the flag unfurled, if I were making a mistake. Should I hang the United Nations' flag instead of the American flag?

There is not a sound of a firecracker as I write. Nor is there a scheduled speech about the glories of these United States or any public rededication on the 177th birthday of the Declaration of Independence. About the only patriotic speeches this writer has heard about are those by a little man in Korea. And he is being criticized and verbally brow-beaten because he is making a sensational stand for the unification of his native land. He is, of course, 'way behind the times! He should put aside thoughts of the homeland and turn his allegiance to the United Nations. If he is a good boy the UN might even permit him to be a member someday! (The latest wise crack is "Whose Korea is it?" Numerous commentators and world officials are in a rage, apparently, that Dr. Rhee regards it as his Korea.)

Enough of this cynicism. You'll have to forgive a realistic reactionary if he vents his spleen occasionally.

Having got "het up" about things lately, I have been using what brain I was endowed with to fathom some possible escape from the frustration one feels today—a feeling of being let down. Do you get that feeling, also? Here we should all be out celebrating Independence Day (crusty old John Adams wrote his wife 177 years ago he was sure it would be celebrated every July of the future), but we don't seem to know in 1953 WHAT to celebrate! (In any event I'm going to keep turning my eyes to the flag hanging out the attic window and shall call it to the attention of several young grandchildren who are joining us later in the day.)

Now for the "escape" I was mentioning—

When you come right down to it, I am about prepared to concede that events and world affairs have got beyond control; or, to put it another way, are too big for men's minds to cope with successfully.

Let me list three classifications of what I am trying to think out:

1. Forces. Scientific and technological developments have run ahead of human understanding. Only a few minds have any conception of where "science" may lead. Moreover, some scientific minds seem to get warped on the subject of the "social" aspects of the future so-called atomic age.

2. Problems. Here used generically to embody world-wide political problems as well as domestic affairs. Here, too, it seems doubtful that man's comprehensions are sufficient to either resolve or control them. The problems, in other words, are bigger than the people.

3. Human Nature. As man is selfish and self-centered we cannot expect that the idealistic theories of a super-state or a United Nations will work out in practice. Men will give support and lip service to such ideals of a perfect world society so long as the plans and policies favor their way of thinking and their nationalistic way of life and beliefs. Otherwise . . . ? You can look in your daily papers for the "otherwise."

I feel better having put these contrary thoughts on paper, because I see some reason for the frustration and shall not be disturbed with more of the same.

Uncertainty is always a depressing factor. But if we acknowledge that uncertainty is to be our lot for a long time to come then uncertainty loses its "frustrating" character. How soon the time will arrive when men recognize that they cannot run everybody's business—their own and the world's—no one can possibly guess. So we shall live in confusion and bungling for a long time. Talk about Churchill's quip about enigmas wrapped in conundrums! How about today's fumbles and bungles enveloped in muffs?

But, to repeat, if we are prepared to accept the fact that events are making men's decisions, rather than men controlling events, we shall be more contented and less frustrated.

You may not like the final contract in today's hand, but it would be difficult to pick a better one. When a hand is a misfit, no contract is very attractive.

West doubled four spades with such emphasis that it was perfectly clear that he had great trump strength and length. This length was to prove his undoing.

West opened the queen of hearts, and Dick Kahn, New York expert who was playing the South hand, won with dummy's ace of hearts. He cashed dummy's top diamonds, discarding two low clubs from his own hand. He then cashed the king of hearts and his own top clubs and returned a club towards dummy.

West led a third round of hearts, and Kahn carefully ruffed in his own hand with the five of spades. He later admitted that he wasn't quite sure why he ruffed with the five instead of with the deuce, but he knew it couldn't do any harm and might do a lot of good later on.

Declarer continued by leading another low club towards dummy, and West stepped up once more with the eight of spades to overruff the dummy. Once again West got out with a heart, and this time dummy ruffed with the three of spades, and South underruffed with the two of spades.

This allowed declarer to stay in the dummy, from which he could lead a diamond. South could ruff, and West was forced to overruff. Since West then had to lead a trump up to declarer's ace-queen, South made his game contract.

The result is very different if South makes the mistake of ruffing the third heart with the deuce of spades instead of with the five. When, later on, West leads a fourth heart, South is obliged to win the trick with a trump in his own hand.

Now South must lead a trump himself, and East is able to win the trick with the ten of spades. The next trick comes through South, and West is able to win one of the last two tricks to set the contract.

Weekly Food Review

(By The Associated Press)

Economy-minded housewives will buy a lot of beef this week, in the opinion of the men who run the nation's food stores.

Nearly all stores were pushing cuts of beef, with reductions on items like rib roasts running to as much as six cents a pound. Steaks, pot roasts and hamburger were other features.

One chain store man speculated that beef might have touched its low last week. Wholesale prices edged higher this week, and there were indications further rises might follow.

To underline the bargain levels at which beef is selling, one leading chain offered these comparisons with the prices prevailing in the same week a year ago (based on New York retail prices.

Rib roast is selling now for 59 cents a pound, against 93 cents in July of last year, ground chuck at 45 cents against 85 cents, regular ground beef 35 cents against 73 cents, and beef short ribs 29 cents against 50 cents a year ago.

Prices Are High

Lamb and pork prices continue high. There was little change in retail prices on these meats during the week.

Fish being featured in various sections of the country included flounder filet and haddock. Some stores put shrimps on sale.

Egg prices were much the same, with a rise or decline of a penny a dozen reported by some stores. Butter prices were mostly unchanged.

Wholesale produce men reported that some fruits dropped sharply in price this week. They listed California navel and Valencia oranges, Florida oranges, watermelons, Elberta peaches, apricots and cherries as reasonably good buys and singled out limes as especially worthwhile. Lemons, grapefruit and plums were considered still rather high priced.

Cantaloupes and honeydew melons also were tagged as reasonable buys, but produce experts warned that many of the honeydews were hard and immature, and thus not sweet.

Vegetables Recommended

There was a good number of vegetables on the recommended list this week: Carrots, lettuce, onions, potatoes and squash qualified as good buys, food men said, while celery, peppers and tomatoes were noted as reasonably good purchases.

For its "food headliners" for the week, the U. S. Department of Agriculture chose ice cream and vegetables.

The sale of yellow margarine was legalized last week by Iowa, following close on the heels of South Dakota. The National Association of Maragine Manufacturers said only two states—Wisconsin and Minnesota—still forbid the sale of pre-colored margarine.

This week, the Dun & Bradstreet index of wholesale food prices touched a new high since last September. Fifteen of the foods included in the index rose above the level of a week before, and only one item, eggs, declined in price.

Bugs Are Oil Key

Long Beach, Calif. (AP)—If there are bugs on the soil there's oil down below. That's the belief of Logan Goodknight of Long Beach, who has studied and found significant the relation between the presence of certain soil bugs and oil deposits. His theory is backed by the development of 18 wildcat producers in Texas, Kansas and California into million dollar properties. "These bacteria," Goodknight said, "live on volatile gases from the oil and gas below. They multiply and leave 'tracks' and chemical tests verify their presence and indicate commercial production."

About the only patriotic speeches this writer has heard about are those by a little man in Korea. And he is being criticized and verbally brow-beaten because he is making a sensational stand for the unification of his native land. He is, of course, 'way behind the times! He should put aside thoughts of the homeland and turn his allegiance to the United Nations. If he is a good boy the UN might even permit him to be a member someday! (The latest wise crack is "Whose Korea is it?" Numerous commentators and world officials are in a rage, apparently, that Dr. Rhee regards it as his Korea.)

Enough of this cynicism. You'll have to forgive a realistic reactionary if he vents his spleen occasionally.

Having got "het up" about things lately, I have been using what brain I was endowed with to fathom some possible escape from the frustration one feels today—a feeling of being let down. Do you get that feeling, also? Here we should all be out celebrating Independence Day (crusty old John Adams wrote his wife 177 years ago he was sure it would be celebrated every July of the future), but we don't seem to know in 1953 WHAT to celebrate! (In any event I'm going to keep turning my eyes to the flag hanging out the attic window and shall call it to the attention of several young grandchildren who are joining us later in the day.)

Now for the "escape" I was mentioning—

When you come right down to it, I am about prepared to concede that events and world affairs have got beyond control; or, to put it another way, are too big for men's minds to cope with successfully.

Let me list three classifications of what I am trying to think out:

1. Forces. Scientific and technological developments have run ahead of human understanding. Only a few minds have any conception of where "science" may lead. Moreover, some scientific minds seem to get warped on the subject of the future so-called atomic age.

2. Problems. Here used generically to embody world-wide political problems as well as domestic affairs. Here, too, it seems doubtful that man's comprehensions are sufficient to either resolve or control them. The problems, in other words, are bigger than the people.

3. Human Nature. As man is selfish and self-centered we cannot expect that the idealistic theories of a super-state or a United Nations will work out in practice. Men will give support and lip service to such ideals of a perfect world society so long as the plans and policies favor their way of thinking and their nationalistic way of life and beliefs. Otherwise . . . ? You can look in your daily papers for the "otherwise."

I feel better having put these contrary thoughts on paper, because I see some reason for the frustration and shall not be disturbed with more of the same.

Uncertainty is always a depressing factor. But if we acknowledge that uncertainty is to be our lot for a long time to come then uncertainty loses its "frustrating" character. How soon the time will arrive when men recognize that they cannot run everybody's business—their own and the world's—no one can possibly guess. So we shall live in confusion and bungling for a long time. Talk about Churchill's quip about enigmas wrapped in conundrums! How about today's fumbles and bungles enveloped in muffs?

But, to repeat, if we are prepared to accept the fact that events are making men's decisions, rather than men controlling events, we shall be more contented and less frustrated.

India's Cotton

New Delhi (AP)—India's land under cotton cultivation in 1952-53 totalled 13,700,000 acres, Agriculture Minister P. S. Deshmukh says. There is "room for some increase" in acreage, but the government placed greater stress on increase yields in areas now cultivated.

Weekly Food Review

(By The Associated Press)

Economy-minded housewives will buy a lot of beef this week, in the opinion of the men who run the nation's food stores.

Nearly all stores were pushing cuts of beef, with reductions on items like rib roasts running to as much as six cents a pound. Steaks, pot roasts and hamburger were other features.

One chain store man speculated that beef might have touched its low last week. Wholesale prices edged higher this week, and there were indications further rises might follow.

To underline the bargain levels at which beef is selling, one leading chain offered these comparisons with the prices prevailing in the same week a year ago (based on New York retail prices.

Rib roast is selling now for 59 cents a pound, against 93 cents in July of last year, ground chuck at 45 cents against 85 cents, regular ground beef 35 cents against 73 cents, and beef short ribs 29 cents against 50 cents a year ago.

Prices Are High

Lamb and pork prices continue high. There was little change in retail prices on these meats during the week.

Fish being featured in various sections of the country included flounder filet and haddock. Some stores put shrimps on sale.

Egg prices were much the same, with a rise or decline of a penny a dozen reported by some stores. Butter prices were mostly unchanged.

Wholesale produce men reported that some fruits dropped sharply in price this week. They listed California navel and Valencia oranges, Florida oranges, watermelons, Elberta peaches, apricots and cherries as reasonably good buys and singled out limes as especially worthwhile. Lemons, grapefruit and plums were considered still rather high priced.

Cantaloupes and honeydew melons also were tagged as reasonable buys, but produce experts warned that many of the honeydews were hard and immature, and thus not sweet.

Vegetables Recommended

There was a good number of vegetables on the recommended list this week: Carrots, lettuce, onions, potatoes and squash qualified as good buys, food men said, while celery, peppers and tomatoes were noted as reasonably good purchases.

For its "food headliners" for the week, the U. S. Department of Agriculture chose ice cream and vegetables.

The sale of yellow margarine was legalized last week by Iowa, following close on the heels of South Dakota. The National Association of Maragine Manufacturers said only two states—Wisconsin and Minnesota—still forbid the sale of pre-colored margarine.

This week, the Dun & Bradstreet index of wholesale food prices touched a new high since last September. Fifteen of the foods included in the index rose above the level of a week before, and only one item, eggs, declined in price.

Bugs Are Oil Key

Long Beach, Calif. (AP)—If there are bugs on the soil there's oil down below. That's the belief of Logan Goodknight of Long Beach, who has studied and found significant the relation between the presence of certain soil bugs and oil deposits. His theory is backed by the development of 18 wildcat producers in Texas, Kansas and California into million dollar properties. "These bacteria," Goodknight said, "live on volatile gases from the oil and gas below. They multiply and leave 'tracks' and chemical tests verify their presence and indicate commercial production."

You may not like the final contract in today's hand, but it would be difficult to pick a better one. When a hand is a misfit, no contract is very attractive.

West doubled four spades with such emphasis that it was perfectly clear that he had great trump strength and length. This length was to prove his undoing.

West opened the queen of hearts, and Dick Kahn, New York expert who was playing the South hand, won with dummy's ace of hearts. He cashed dummy's top diamonds, discarding two low clubs from his own hand. He then cashed the king of hearts and his own top clubs and returned a club towards dummy.

West led a third round of hearts, and Kahn carefully ruffed in his own hand with the five of spades. He later admitted that he wasn't quite sure why he ruffed with the five instead of with the deuce, but he knew it couldn't do any harm and might do a lot of good later on.

Declarer continued by leading another low club towards dummy, and West stepped up once more with the eight of spades to overruff the dummy. Once again West got out with a heart, and this time dummy ruffed with the three of spades, and South underruffed with the two of spades.

This allowed declarer to stay in the dummy, from which he could lead a diamond. South could ruff, and West was forced to overruff. Since West then had to lead a trump up to declarer's ace-queen, South made his game contract.

The result is very different if South makes the mistake of ruffing the third heart with the deuce of spades instead of with the five. When, later on, West leads a fourth heart, South is obliged to win the trick with a trump in his own hand.

Now South must lead a trump himself, and East is able to win the trick with the ten of spades. The next trick comes through South, and West is able to win one of the last two tricks to set the contract.

Economist Sees Depression Signs; Can Be Averted

Los Angeles, July 9 (AP)—An outstanding economist says the United States today has "all the makings of a depression."

Dr. Edwin G. Mourse, for a time chairman of former President Truman's Council of Economic advisors, told a teachers' conference yesterday:

"We have passed from the time when adjustment to a free market basis would have been relatively easy to one when it will be extremely difficult. The problem we are wrestling with now is whether we will act with enough intelligence and have technical knowledge to prevent any breakdown in the flow of goods and services."

Dr. Mourse, observing that the administration says that we have the means and will to prevent a depression, declared:

"The burden of proof lies with the administration. The turn from demand to lack of demand is very sharp."

Plans Interviews With Local Girls For WAVES Service

CHIEF LILA E. BRADLEY

A two-day program of interviews with local girls concerning future service in the WAVES will be held Wednesday and Thursday, July 15 and 16, at the Governor Clinton Hotel, it was announced today.

Conducting the interviews will be Chief Aviation Storekeeper Lila E. Bradley of the U. S. Navy recruiting office, New York, a veteran of 11 years of service with the navy.

Chief Bradley has issued an invitation to all girls between the ages of 18 and 26 to meet with her at the local hotel next week concerning application for enlistment with the WAVES.

She will hold interviews with prospective candidates from 9 a. m. until 4 p. m. each day. Following her two-day visit in Kingston, Chief Bradley will be in Poughkeepsie on Friday, July 17, at the navy recruiting office in the post office building.

Stresses Advancement

In her announcement today, Chief Bradley pointed out that advancement in the WAVES was "wide open" and that opportunities existed for assignment to overseas billets and for travel.

"It's a great opportunity for young girls of today to get into this branch of service," Chief Bradley pointed out. "It's an opportunity that no girl should miss and I personally feel that girls of today should almost be drafted so they won't miss the pleasure, travel and adventure afforded through this branch of the service."

Chief Bradley said today that girls who are accepted for training will be sent to boot training at Bainbridge, Md., for nine weeks.

GIRL STAYS WITH YOU

A mother writes me, "My son, who is a naval officer, would like to have his girl friend who lives in a distant city visit us after he returns from a foreign cruise and he has his leave. I would like to know if it would be proper to make arrangements for her to stay at a friend's house who occasionally takes overnight guests, or would it be better for my son to move out and have her stay here. She would, of course, have her meals with us. When our son is home we have no extra sleeping quarters. If she does not stay with us, who is supposed to pay for her lodging?"

Answer: Your son should move out, and the girl stay "under your roof." If she does not stay with you as your invited guest, it would not be proper for her to come.

Impersonal Letters—Yes

Dear Mrs. Post: I have been corresponding with a young man for the past year—on a friendly basis. He has just written me that he has become engaged but expressed a wish that I would continue to write to him. I do not know his fiancee. His letters are very interesting and mentally stimulating and I should like to continue corresponding with him, but have been advised that it would be improper. Will you please give me your opinion?

Answer: The situation you describe is very unusual, but if it so happens that there is something special in common about which you write entirely impersonal letters, there would be no reason why you should not continue to write occasional letters.

Letter of Introduction

Dear Mrs. Post: I am going abroad shortly and staying for several weeks in a town in which neighbors of mine have relatives. These people insist that I must look up their relatives, which, of course, would be ideal from my point of view, but wouldn't "looking them up" place them in a position of having to do something for me? If not, just how should I go about making myself known?

Answer: You take a letter to them from your friend and let them know where you are staying. That's all.

Leibowitz Declares Politics Basis of Gambling Raids

New York, July 9 (AP)—Brooklyn Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz, City Fusion Party candidate for mayor, says Tuesday's mass gambling raids in Manhattan were "politically motivated." The Manhattan district attorney, Frank S. Hogan, a possible Democratic or Democratic - Republican coalition candidate for mayor, says any such charge is "contemptible fabrication."

The verbal fireworks over the raids started yesterday when Hogan took note of reports—some of them published—that the raids followed a television speech last Saturday night by Leibowitz in which he said gamblers chased out of Brooklyn had gone to Manhattan.

Hogan told newsmen that his investigation leading to the crackdown began back in April. The prosecutor said he had discussed the raids with Brooklyn District Attorney Miles F. McDonald a week ago, before Liebowitz' speech.

Calls It Fabrication

Commenting on the charge that he had ordered the raids for political purposes, Hogan said:

"It's a contemptible fabrication which does a great disservice to law enforcement. It's ludicrous to observe the lengths to which certain individuals have gone in straining to inject a political angle with the arrests that have been made by this office to put an end to this expanding policy racket."

Leibowitz yesterday told newsmen the raids were intended to improve Hogan's chances of getting a Democratic - Republican nomination for mayor and to enhance his chances of election in November. Hogan has not announced any candidacy.

Justice Upholds Metcalf-Hatch Statute on Dogs

White Plains, July 9 (AP)—State Supreme Court Justice Elbert T. Gallagher has upheld the constitutionality of the Metcalf-Hatch Act which permits seizure of unclaimed dogs for scientific experiments.

Gallagher ruled yesterday in a suit filed by the Westchester Dog Protective Association, Inc., of White Plains, and the Dog Owners Association of New York State, Inc., of Cross River.

Herman E. Hilleboe, state commissioner of health, had been named defendant in the suit on grounds that his confiscation of dogs from their pounds was a violation of charter and contractual obligations of the associations.

Gallagher said the societies did not base their objections on antivivisection grounds. Three of their six contentions, he said, were predicated on the assumption that the societies had had property rights in the impounded animals.

Rights With Owners

He held that the property rights remain in the original owners who if they desired, could take steps to obtain the release of the requisitioned animals.

The Metcalf-Hatch Act, the justice said, contains adequate safeguards "to insure that only those dogs which would be otherwise destroyed shall be requisitioned for medical research."

Under the act, passed last year, the state commissioner of health may approve requisitioning of dogs by laboratories and institutions for scientific tests, provided the animals were slated to be destroyed in public pounds or pounds under contract to municipalities.

Cargo Is Unloaded

Pusan, Korea, July 9 (AP)—U. S. Army barges from Pusan today began unloading 1,000 tons of cargo from the 14,000-ton American freighter Cornhusker Mariner, on the rocks in outer Pusan harbor. When the vessel is unloaded she may be pulled free and salvaged. The 564-foot freighter was not considered in danger of sinking. The Cornhusker Mariner, out of Boston, is owned by the Seas Shipping Company of New York city. The skipper, Capt. Nicholas Telesmanic, New York city, and six officers and crewmen are standing watch aboard the vessel. Others of her 54-man crew were removed Tuesday.

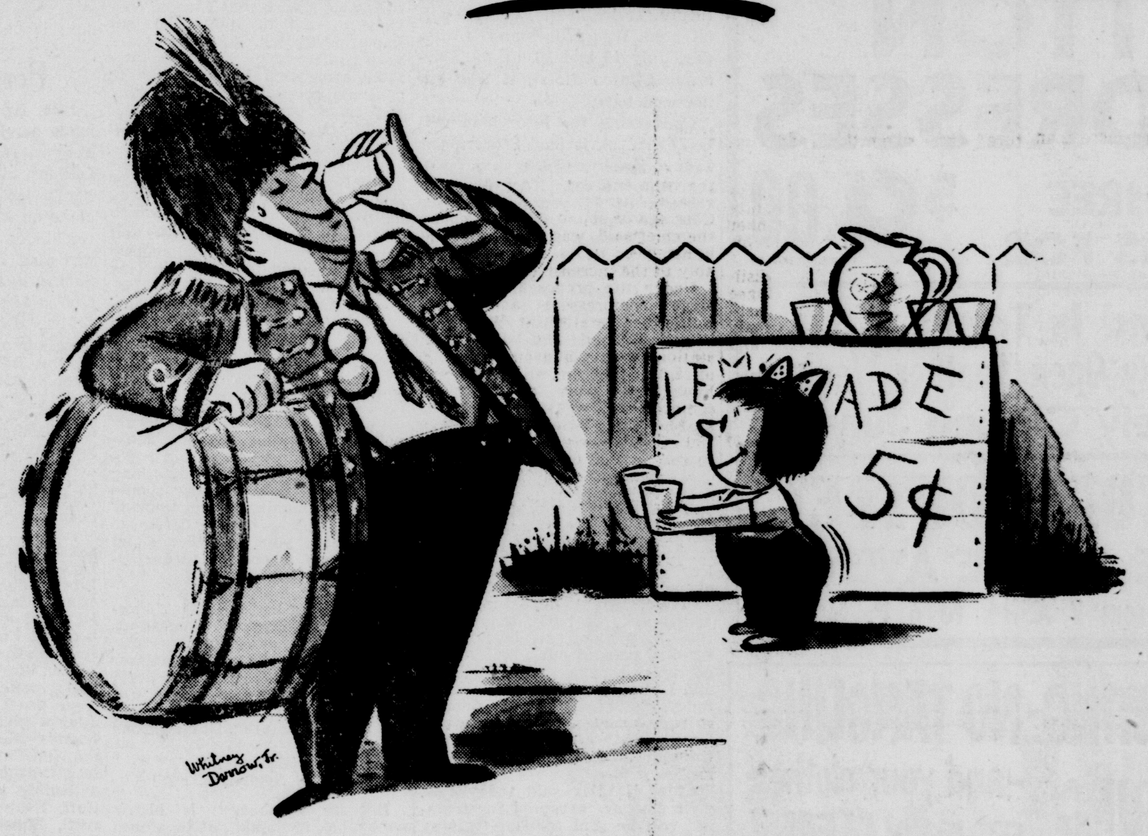
Winter or Summer—

SOMETHING'S ALWAYS SELLING!



People Keep Buying All Summer Long!

PLENTY OF CUSTOMERS! In an average week during the summer, 94% of all families are not on vacation – they're at home!

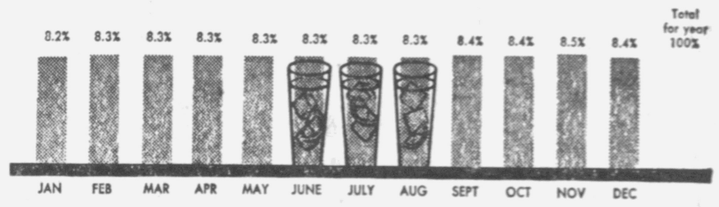
THEY NEED THINGS! For their vacation trips . . . for weekends . . . or for just plain living – and in summertime folks live better than ever in many ways!

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS every day of every week – June through August – if you'll simply promote the products and appeals that sell in summer . . . from fashions to outside furniture . . . from apples to air conditioners . . . from special car checkups to savings on winter furs or fuels.

BUSINESS CAN BOOM if you sell to all the folks who can possibly buy – by advertising in the medium that folks never stop needing.

People Keep Reading Newspapers All Summer Long!

NO SUMMER REPLACEMENT for the Newspaper! People keep buying the paper and reading it – as much in July as in January! See the chart below. It shows how a year's total of weekday newspaper circulation is divided by each month of the year . . .



JUST ABOUT EVERYBODY reads the newspaper . . . almost every day. Day or night, at home, in bus, or train, or car. A quick headline or full story . . . in pictures and words that can't be doubted or denied.

INSIST on advertising in the medium that reaches all your customers all summer long!

The newspaper is always "first with the most"

Typical British Drama Is Staged at Playhouse

Woodstock, July 8—Although it was announced as a comedy, The Man With a Load of Mischief, which opened at the Woodstock Playhouse Tuesday night, is actually a play of substance sparkling with subtle nuances rather than broad thrusts of humor. Ashley Dukes' typically British drama moves at a measured, stately pace with sufficient flashes of action and wit to form the ingredients of an altogether satisfying evening. Director Philip Robinson's attention to small details of gesture and suggestion add immeasurably to the authenticity of the period of the piece.

Robert Baines as the man plays the role with control and dignity giving power to the young thinker who is many years ahead of his time in his philosophy.

Betty Low as the fleeing, disillusioned lady is a poised refugee from the debauched life at fashionable Bath. As her saucy maid Dorothy Rice is at once pert and appealing.

The Man With a Load of Mischief is a serious drama, with a few profound moments, lightened with side glances of mischievous knowing. It could have been directed with farcical overtones, but Philip Robinson has wisely chosen to draw attention to its deeper implications. R. McDonald Brown's inviting setting of the old inn enhances the atmosphere of the play.

Area Artists Invited To Rhinebeck Display

Woodstock, July 8—Woodstock artists and all others interested are invited to attend the second annual Beekman Arms Exhibit of Mid-Hudson art to be presented for three days starting July 10 at Rhinebeck. This is an outdoor show which uses the garden area of the hotel for display space and in the event of rain the pictures will be shown in the adjacent coachhouse. A year ago this show attracted entries from more than 40 artists with approximately 100 pictures being shown. It is anticipated that this year there will be an increase in both artists and exhibits.

There is no requirement of skill or education placed upon the exhibitor and no entry fee is charged. This has produced a wide variety of techniques in representing items of interest to the artist as seen in the Mid-Hudson area. Some of the paintings may not have the master's skill but here you see the struggle of many who have taken to the brush but recently and who can spend only spare time at night or on a holiday to further this interest in art.

A high percentage of the entries may be rated as excellent work and usually find a new home where the owner can enjoy an "original" of some scene in the Hudson valley. The Beekman Arms makes no charge for visitors to view the exhibit.

Included in the show will be works in pastel, water color, oil and black and white. Artists who are residents of the Rhinebeck-Red Hook area will be represented in the show.

Murphy Proposes

the roof," are also in need of repairs, Murphy stated.

Common Council now has under consideration a recommendation of Chief Murphy, the board of fire commissioners and Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk that the system be installed. In a communication to Council at its meeting Tuesday night the mayor recommended that a bond issue in the amount of $6,000 be approved for the purpose.

The mayor's request was referred to corporation counsel, the finance, ways and means committee and the laws and rules committee for study and report.

Chief Murphy told The Freeman this morning that he "would hate to see the bells go but there's nothing else you can do about it."

Must Be Notified

He said if the citizens of Kingston expected the volunteers to respond to fire calls there must be adequate means of notifying them.

He pointed out that the horns had a more piercing tone than the bells and could be heard at a greater distance than the bells. Carriage of sound from the bells, the chief said, was not as good as it had been years ago, due probably to the increase in city noises.

Under the proposed plan four large compressors and horns would be installed at Wiltwyck, Wicks, Cornell and Union fire stations with a guaranteed range of 2,500 feet in all directions. Four horns with "direct driven compressors" would be installed at Excelsior, Twaalfskill, Rapid's and Cordts' with a guaranteed range of 1,500 feet.

All horns would have six-inch diaphragms but those with longer range would be operated under 100 pounds pressure against a 15-pound pressure for horns of the smaller range.

The trailer snapped loose of the truck cab, occupied by driver E. J. McGough, of Birmingham, Ala. McGough said it happened so fast he didn't have time to be frightened.

Senators Attempt

trol" for cows and Sen. Tobey (R.-N. H.) shouted: "What nonsense. Don't spay the cows, castrate the bulls."

Griswold's proposal was offered as a substitute for a demand by Kerr that Benson be ordered by Congress to support beef cattle prices at high levels.

Sen. Aiken (R.-Vt.), chairman of the Agriculture Committee who was seeking quick passage of the disaster loans measure, told Kerr he was injecting politics into an emergency program and "doing no good to the farmers of the United States."

'Bankruptcy' Charged

Kerr had declared that Benson and the Republican administration had brought "creeping bankruptcy of the American cattle producers," and he said of Aiken:

"I think he is a good man and a sincere man, but if I ever saw a Rip Van Winkle in my life, I have witnessed him on the floor of the Senate today and in the past months."

Aiken told the Senate the assistance bill had been written to avoid aid for "cattle speculators." The loans would be screened by local commmittees appointed by the secretary of agriculture.

A somewhat similar bill is awaiting House action.

Allies, Reds . . .

Thursday after his 22-minute conference with Rhee.

Assistant Secretary of State Walter Robertson, President Eisenhower's truce emissary, leaned from his car as it sped from Rhee's hilltop mansion and told newsmen:

"The same as yesterday."

UN generals and statesmen have failed to budge Ree's insistence that the U. S. agree to resume the war unless a post-armistice political conference progresses toward unification of Korea in three months.

Attending Thursday's conference with Clark and Robertson were U. S. Ambassador to Korea Ellis O. Briggs and Robert Murphy, political adviser to Clark.

Flies in for Conferences

The chairman of the UNC truce delegation, Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison, flew here for conferences with Clark before the U. S. commander returned to Tokyo.

When he arrived in Korea Thursday, Clark told newsmen he had received no new instructions from Washington.

But Washington reports said President Eisenhower and his top advisers had been closeted to draft new instructions for Clark following receipt of the Communist letter saying the Reds were prepared to restart the machinery for completing an armistice.

The Red letter made it clear, however, that the UN command must shoulder the responsibility for seeing that South Korea observes the terms of an armistice. It also called for the allies to see that no more anti-Red prisoners escape and to assume responsibility for rounding up the 27,000 now at large.

25 Volunteer Fire Companies To March in Ulster on 18th

Twenty-five volunteer fire companies will march in the 18th annual convention parade of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association July 18 in the town of Ulster, Millard T. Davis, chairman of the convention committee reported at a meeting of the association's directors in Central Fire Station last night.

Ten musical units and 10 ladies' auxiliary units are also scheduled to march in the parade, which will start at the state armory off Manor avenue and go from there to Roosevelt avenue, to Albany avenue, then to Morton avenue to Boice's Lane and the Kingston-Ulster airport where it will disband.

The parade is scheduled to form at 1:30 p. m., at the armory grounds and to start at 2 p. m.

Supper, Show Scheduled

The firemen will hold a supper on the first night of the convention, Thursday, July 16 at St. James Methodist Church. It is scheduled to start at 5:30 p. m., and last to 7:30. Entertainment will follow at the municipal auditorium starting at 8:15 p. m.

New officers will be elected at the business meeting Friday night in the engine house of Ulster Hose Company on Albany avenue extension. Lee Keator, of New Paltz is slated to succeed Percy Bush, of the town of Ulster as the company's president and Ralph Clark, of Marlborough is scheduled to become first vice-president.

To Give Trophies

Trophies will be given for the best and second best appearing companies in the parade, and for the best musical unit.

Present officers of the company are Bush, president, Keator, first vice-president, and Clark, second vice-president; Henry DuBois, New Paltz, treasurer; Fred Harder, Kingston, secretary, and Edward Mains, Port Ewen, Morton Finch, Kingston, Harold DeNike, Saugerties, Thomas Ingham, Ellenville, and Charles Turner, New Paltz, directors.

Senators Seek . . .

put us on the spot by accepting the terms laid down in the letter to them from General Mark Clark, in which he indicated he would restrain the South Koreans if they did not accept the truce," Smith said.

Must Exert Efforts

"I think we must exert every effort to bring Rhee around to our way of thinking and I would like to see our government officially raise the issue of bringing the Chinese Communists officially into the armistice picture."

Smith, who heads a Senate Foreign Relations Far Eastern subcommittee, said he thinks an armistice signed for the Communists by the People's Republic of (North) Korea and the Chinese People's Volunteers "would be entirely ineffective."

Sen. Carlson (R.-Kas.) said he doesn't agree with Smith that the U. S. has been put on a spot by the Communists' willingness to accept the UN terms for a resumption of truce talks.

"I think their action showed definite signs of weakness, signs that they are in trouble and looking for a way out," Carlson said.

Some of the paintings may not have the master's skill but here you see the struggle of many who have taken to the brush but recently and who can spend only spare time at night or on a holiday to further this interest in art.

A high percentage of the entries may be rated as excellent work and usually find a new home where the owner can enjoy an "original" of some scene in the Hudson valley. The Beekman Arms makes no charge for visitors to view the exhibit.

Included in the show will be works in pastel, water color, oil and black and white. Artists who are residents of the Rhinebeck-Red Hook area will be represented in the show.

Murphy Proposes

the roof," are also in need of repairs, Murphy stated.

Common Council now has under consideration a recommendation of Chief Murphy, the board of fire commissioners and Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk that the system be installed. In a communication to Council at its meeting Tuesday night the mayor recommended that a bond issue in the amount of $6,000 be approved for the purpose.

The mayor's request was referred to corporation counsel, the finance, ways and means committee and the laws and rules committee for study and report.

Chief Murphy told The Freeman this morning that he "would hate to see the bells go but there's nothing else you can do about it."

Must Be Notified

He said if the citizens of Kingston expected the volunteers to respond to fire calls there must be adequate means of notifying them.

He pointed out that the horns had a more piercing tone than the bells and could be heard at a greater distance than the bells. Carriage of sound from the bells, the chief said, was not as good as it had been years ago, due probably to the increase in city noises.

Under the proposed plan four large compressors and horns would be installed at Wiltwyck, Wicks, Cornell and Union fire stations with a guaranteed range of 2,500 feet in all directions. Four horns with "direct driven compressors" would be installed at Excelsior, Twaalfskill, Rapid's and Cordts' with a guaranteed range of 1,500 feet.

All horns would have six-inch diaphragms but those with longer range would be operated under 100 pounds pressure against a 15-pound pressure for horns of the smaller range.

Senators Attempt

trol" for cows and Sen. Tobey (R.-N. H.) shouted: "What nonsense. Don't spay the cows, castrate the bulls."

Griswold's proposal was offered as a substitute for a demand by Kerr that Benson be ordered by Congress to support beef cattle prices at high levels.

Sen. Aiken (R.-Vt.), chairman of the Agriculture Committee who was seeking quick passage of the disaster loans measure, told Kerr he was injecting politics into an emergency program and "doing no good to the farmers of the United States."

'Bankruptcy' Charged

Kerr had declared that Benson and the Republican administration had brought "creeping bankruptcy of the American cattle producers," and he said of Aiken: "I think he is a good man and a sincere man, but if I ever saw a Rip Van Winkle in my life, I have witnessed him on the floor of the Senate today and in the past months."

Aiken told the Senate the assistance bill had been written to avoid aid for "cattle speculators." The loans would be screened by local commmittees appointed by the secretary of agriculture.

A somewhat similar bill is awaiting House action.

Allies, Reds . . .

Thursday after his 22-minute conference with Rhee.

Assistant Secretary of State Walter Robertson, President Eisenhower's truce emissary, leaned from his car as it sped from Rhee's hilltop mansion and told newsmen:

"The same as yesterday."

UN generals and statesmen have failed to budge Ree's insistence that the U. S. agree to resume the war unless a post-armistice political conference progresses toward unification of Korea in three months.

Attending Thursday's conference with Clark and Robertson were U. S. Ambassador to Korea Ellis O. Briggs and Robert Murphy, political adviser to Clark.

Flies in for Conferences

The chairman of the UNC truce delegation, Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison, flew here for conferences with Clark before the U. S. commander returned to Tokyo.

When he arrived in Korea Thursday, Clark told newsmen he had received no new instructions from Washington.

But Washington reports said President Eisenhower and his top advisers had been closeted to draft new instructions for Clark following receipt of the Communist letter saying the Reds were prepared to restart the machinery for completing an armistice.

The Red letter made it clear, however, that the UN command must shoulder the responsibility for seeing that South Korea observes the terms of an armistice. It also called for the allies to see that no more anti-Red prisoners escape and to assume responsibility for rounding up the 27,000 now at large.

25 Volunteer Fire Companies To March in Ulster on 18th

Twenty-five volunteer fire companies will march in the 18th annual convention parade of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association July 18 in the town of Ulster, Millard T. Davis, chairman of the convention committee reported at a meeting of the association's directors in Central Fire Station last night.

Ten musical units and 10 ladies' auxiliary units are also scheduled to march in the parade, which will start at the state armory off Manor avenue and go from there to Roosevelt avenue, to Albany avenue, then to Morton avenue to Boice's Lane and the Kingston-Ulster airport where it will disband.

The parade is scheduled to form at 1:30 p. m., at the armory grounds and to start at 2 p. m.

Supper, Show Scheduled

The firemen will hold a supper on the first night of the convention, Thursday, July 16 at St. James Methodist Church. It is scheduled to start at 5:30 p. m., and last to 7:30. Entertainment will follow at the municipal auditorium starting at 8:15 p. m.

New officers will be elected at the business meeting Friday night in the engine house of Ulster Hose Company on Albany avenue extension. Lee Keator, of New Paltz is slated to succeed Percy Bush, of the town of Ulster as the company's president and Ralph Clark, of Marlborough is scheduled to become first vice-president.

To Give Trophies

Trophies will be given for the best and second best appearing companies in the parade, and for the best musical unit.

Present officers of the company are Bush, president, Keator, first vice-president, and Clark, second vice-president; Henry DuBois, New Paltz, treasurer; Fred Harder, Kingston, secretary, and Edward Mains, Port Ewen, Morton Finch, Kingston, Harold DeNike, Saugerties, Thomas Ingham, Ellenville, and Charles Turner, New Paltz, directors.

Senators Seek . . .

put us on the spot by accepting the terms laid down in the letter to them from General Mark Clark, in which he indicated he would restrain the South Koreans if they did not accept the truce," Smith said.

Must Exert Efforts

"I think we must exert every effort to bring Rhee around to our way of thinking and I would like to see our government officially raise the issue of bringing the Chinese Communists officially into the armistice picture."

Smith, who heads a Senate Foreign Relations Far Eastern subcommittee, said he thinks an armistice signed for the Communists by the People's Republic of (North) Korea and the Chinese People's Volunteers "would be entirely ineffective."

Sen. Carlson (R.-Kas.) said he doesn't agree with Smith that the U. S. has been put on a spot by the Communists' willingness to accept the UN terms for a resumption of truce talks.

"I think their action showed definite signs of weakness, signs that they are in trouble and looking for a way out," Carlson said.

City Loop Opens Second Round of Play Tonight

Little League Slates Also Will Resume

The local sports picture, which was completely wiped out by Wednesday night's early downpour, will get back in action tonight with contests slated in the City League and the American and National Divisions of the Kingston Little League.

Everything but the City League schedule was kayoed by the weatherman Wednesday.

The loop escaped the washout for the plain reason that it was an open date between the end of the first and second rounds.

Tonight at the Athletic Field, the Colonial Merchants and Doblers raise the lid on the second round of play.

The Merchants, who went as far as the playoff game during the opening round, hope to get off on the right foot for the second round with a victory over the Doblers tonight.

Dodgers Play Giants

The Dodgers, current first place team in the American Division of the Little League, hope to improve their standings tonight when they battle the fourth place Giants at the 156th Field Artillery diamond. Last night's tussle between the Yankees and Red Sox was rained out. The game will be made up Friday night.

Over in the National Division, the first place Indians will engage the Tigers tonight and on Friday the Pirates and Braves are scheduled.

Another victim of the heavy rains Wednesday were the Police and Rotary teams who were scheduled to collide in a Fraternal Youth League game at municipal stadium.

Prince Terry Cops

Westbury, July 9 (AP) — Prince Terry, owned by Paul Wixom of Chicago, came down the middle of the stretch last night to win the Fire Island Pace by a head at Roosevelt Raceway. Gay Abbe was the runner up with Todd Scott close behind in third place. Joe O'Brien had Prince Terry fifth at the three-quarters, then moved along the rail into third. He took his shot at pace-setting Todd Scott with Gay Abbe right alongside, and just made the grade at the wire. The time was 2:05.3. Prince Terry returned $16.70 for $2.

Mound said the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) has approved the contract.

Redbirds Only Half Game Behind Braves

(By The Associated Press)

Eddie Stanky, who says he'd rather manage from the bench, is back on second base and his St. Louis Cardinals are flying high.

With their skipper on the field the Cards have won three straight and today they are just half a game behind the second place Milwaukee Braves in the red-hot National League pennant chase.

Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell mowed down the Cincinnati Redlegs on only two hits last night to give the Cardinals a 7-3 victory that pushed them a full game closer to the faltering Braves who were beaten by Chicago in another 7-3 contest.

Irvin Hits Grand Slam

Monte Irvin hit a grand slam home run in the 11th inning to give the Giants a 10-7 triumph in Pittsburgh while at Philadelphia the Phillies dropped their fourth in a row, 8-4 to Brooklyn.

While the visitors celebrated in the senior circuit, it was home town night in the American League. All of the home clubs won, even the hapless St. Louis Browns, who had lost 20 in a row in their own park.

The Browns upset Cleveland 6-3 and dumped the Tribe out of second place. Chicago replaced them by whipping Detroit, 14-4. The White Sox trail the league leading New York Yankees by six games.

The Yankees defeated Boston 4-2 and Washington beat the Philadelphia Athletics 7-4.

Stanky, one of three managers who lists himself as an active player, was forced into the St. Louis lineup Sunday when Red Schoendienst, the National League's leading hitter and No. 1 second baseman, was injured.

Stanky is hitting at a .346 clip in three games and he's handled 11 chances without a fault.

The Braves disappointed another record crowd of 37,119 by bowing before a 13-hit Chicago attack which included home runs by Clyde McCullough and Bill Serena.

The Giants scored early and late at Pittsburgh, getting four runs in the first inning, one in the second and five in the 11th. Irvin drove in seven of the 10 runs. Larry Jansen, making a rare relief appearance, picked up his eighth victory for the fast-moving New Yorkers who have won five in a row.

The Dodgers rattled the fences of Connie Mack Stadium with two home runs and seven doubles with Carl Furillo in the starring role. He doubled twice, hit a home run and singled.

The out-of-the-park blast marked the 22nd straight game in which the Dodgers have hit one or more home runs. They passed the old National League record in the first game on Tuesday's doubleheader at Pittsburgh and are only three games short of the major league mark. Brooklyn has hit 37 home runs since June 18.

Browns Upend Tribe

The Browns hadn't won a game in St. Louis since June 2 but they hopped on Art Houtteman and Bill Wight for six straight singles and a bases-loaded walk for five runs in the sixth inning and held on to the lead. Lou Kretlow won his first game of the season, with help from Marlin Stuart in the seventh.

Virgil Trucks, who swapped uniforms with Kretlow in an early June trade, won his fourth in a row for the White Sox. An eight-run uprising in the third inning, capped by Sam Mele's grand slam home run, made it easy.

The Yankees got to young Bill Henry for three runs in the first two innings and Jim McDonald tamed the Red Sox on six hits for his fifth victory.

Washington came up with five runs in the seventh and eighth innings to turn back the Athletics.

Blue Jay Hurlers No-Hit Orioles for 13 to 7 Win

23 Walks Feature Pee Wee Loop Game

In a game marked by 23 walks and only five hits, the Blue Jays scored a 13 to 7 victory over the Orioles in the Boys' Club Pee Wee League this week.

But the big feature was the combined no-hit hurling of Joe Soucie and Walt Donnaruma for the Blue Jays.

Despite the no-hitter, however, the Orioles still rushed over seven runs thanks to a basket load of errors and 10 walks.

Soucie Excels

Soucie's relief stint for Donnaruma was the deciding factor. Soucie and Walt Donnaruma for loaded and two outs in the third inning. He walked the first batter but then settled down and fanned Ward Yerry to retire the side and the big threat.

Soucie also was the hitting star for his club with a single and double driving in three runs.

The Orioles, without the benefit of a hit, took a 2-0 lead in the first but the Blue Jays bounced back with a cluster of six in the second. The lead again changed hands as the Orioles scored five in the third to lead by 7-6. The Blue Jays went out in front to stay in the bottom half of the third with a pair of markers and added five more in the fifth to complete the route.

Jamie Cops Goshen Race

Goshen, July 9 (AP)—Jamie won the big race at Goshen's Historic track but Grand Circuit veterans said today Kimberly Kid and Tom Berry are the ones to beat in the $100,000 Hambletonian here next month. And not just because Jamie isn't eligible for the rich trotting derby. After four one-mile dashes yesterday, Jamie emerged as the winner over 21 others in the Historic Dickerson Cup, a major Hambletonian preview. Historic Track is a half-miler, while Good Time Park, scene of the Aug. 12 Hambletonian, is a mile oval. It was the manner in which Kimberly Kid didn't win that impressed the harness folk in this cradle of the standard-bred sport. Kimberly Kid is owned by the Allwood Stable of Leonard Buck, Far Hills, N. J., and was driven by 71-year-old Berry, who has put in 55 years in the sulky.

City Loop Opens Second Round of Play Tonight

Little League Slates Also Will Resume

The local sports picture, which was completely wiped out by Wednesday night's early downpour, will get back in action tonight with contests slated in the City League and the American and National Divisions of the Kingston Little League.

Everything but the City League schedule was kayoed by the weatherman Wednesday.

The loop escaped the washout for the plain reason that it was an open date between the end of the first and second rounds.

Tonight at the Athletic Field, the Colonial Merchants and Doblers raise the lid on the second round of play.

The Merchants, who went as far as the playoff game during the opening round, hope to get off on the right foot for the second round with a victory over the Doblers tonight.

Dodgers Play Giants

The Dodgers, current first place team in the American Division of the Little League, hope to improve their standings tonight when they battle the fourth place Giants at the 156th Field Artillery diamond. Last night's tussle between the Yankees and Red Sox was rained out. The game will be made up Friday night.

Over in the National Division, the first place Indians will engage the Tigers tonight and on Friday the Pirates and Braves are scheduled.

Another victim of the heavy rains Wednesday were the Police and Rotary teams who were scheduled to collide in a Fraternal Youth League game at municipal stadium.

Prince Terry Cops

Westbury, July 9 (AP) — Prince Terry, owned by Paul Wixom of Chicago, came down the middle of the stretch last night to win the Fire Island Pace by a head at Roosevelt Raceway. Gay Abbe was the runner up with Todd Scott close behind in third place. Joe O'Brien had Prince Terry fifth at the three-quarters, then moved along the rail into third. He took his shot at pace-setting Todd Scott with Gay Abbe right alongside, and just made the grade at the wire. The time was 2:05.3. Prince Terry returned $16.70 for $2.

Jackie Ferraro topped the 500's with 205-201-593 while Knute Beichert, apparently rejoicing over the recent victories by the Giants, slammed 216-586; Warner Miller had 233-556; Joe Coughlin 201-542; John Bechtold 528; Vern Van Deusen 525; Ralph Halbert 518; and Seymour Markowitz 500.

Mound said the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) has approved the contract.

Redbirds Only Half Game Behind Braves

(By The Associated Press)

Eddie Stanky, who says he'd rather manage from the bench, is back on second base and his St. Louis Cardinals are flying high.

With their skipper on the field the Cards have won three straight and today they are just half a game behind the second place Milwaukee Braves in the red-hot National League pennant chase.

Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell mowed down the Cincinnati Redlegs on only two hits last night to give the Cardinals a 7-3 victory that pushed them a full game closer to the faltering Braves who were beaten by Chicago in another 7-3 contest.

Irvin Hits Grand Slam

Monte Irvin hit a grand slam home run in the 11th inning to give the Giants a 10-7 triumph in Pittsburgh while at Philadelphia the Phillies dropped their fourth in a row, 8-4 to Brooklyn.

While the visitors celebrated in the senior circuit, it was home town night in the American League. All of the home clubs won, even the hapless St. Louis Browns, who had lost 20 in a row in their own park.

The Browns upset Cleveland 6-3 and dumped the Tribe out of second place. Chicago replaced them by whipping Detroit, 14-4. The White Sox trail the league leading New York Yankees by six games.

The Yankees defeated Boston 4-2 and Washington beat the Philadelphia Athletics 7-4.

Stanky, one of three managers who lists himself as an active player, was forced into the St. Louis lineup Sunday when Red Schoendienst, the National League's leading hitter and No. 1 second baseman, was injured.

Stanky is hitting at a .346 clip in three games and he's handled 11 chances without a fault.

The Braves disappointed another record crowd of 37,119 by bowing before a 13-hit Chicago attack which included home runs by Clyde McCullough and Bill Serena.

The Giants scored early and late at Pittsburgh, getting four runs in the first inning, one in the second and five in the 11th. Irvin drove in seven of the 10 runs. Larry Jansen, making a rare relief appearance, picked up his eighth victory for the fast-moving New Yorkers who have won five in a row.

The Dodgers rattled the fences of Connie Mack Stadium with two home runs and seven doubles with Carl Furillo in the starring role. He doubled twice, hit a home run and singled.

The out-of-the-park blast marked the 22nd straight game in which the Dodgers have hit one or more home runs. They passed the old National League record in the first game on Tuesday's doubleheader at Pittsburgh and are only three games short of the major league mark. Brooklyn has hit 37 home runs since June 18.

Browns Upend Tribe

The Browns hadn't won a game in St. Louis since June 2 but they hopped on Art Houtteman and Bill Wight for six straight singles and a bases-loaded walk for five runs in the sixth inning and held on to the lead. Lou Kretlow won his first game of the season, with help from Marlin Stuart in the seventh.

Virgil Trucks, who swapped uniforms with Kretlow in an early June trade, won his fourth in a row for the White Sox. An eight-run uprising in the third inning, capped by Sam Mele's grand slam home run, made it easy.

The Yankees got to young Bill Henry for three runs in the first two innings and Jim McDonald tamed the Red Sox on six hits for his fifth victory.

Washington came up with five runs in the seventh and eighth innings to turn back the Athletics.

They brush off the cobwebs at municipal stadium Saturday night to adult semi-pro baseball when the City League All Stars tangle with a team from Connecticut.

It's been a long time between drinks for the uptown plant which now operates almost solely for the benefit of teen age baseball. This is an important promotion and one which merits the support of the city's fans.

The proceeds go to the City League treasury and in the first game of the doubleheader Tommy Maines and Eddie Bahl will unveil the American Legion Juniors for their first local appearance.

City League baseball is striving mightily to continue. It would be a sad commentary, if the Athletic Field organization ever folded. It has to be kept alive as a natural outlet for the talent that is being developed by the Little League, Fraternal Youth League, high school and soon the Little Bigger League, or whatever they call that proposed 16-17 year setup.

They had a big playoff game between the Colonial Merchants and Wiltwyck Motors Tuesday and it figured to draw heavily. All the big names were there. Manager Pucker Davis, a skipper who drips with color; the 1952 champions and this year's team of destiny.

The teams staged a terrific ball game. The people who attended responded generously to President Ed Murphy's cigar box, but there weren't enough. The collection totalled around $32.00 when normally it should run around $75.00.

That's why Saturday's promotion at the stadium is important. The City League deserves a better shake than it has been getting. If you are free Saturday night, why not take a trip to the stadium and help a worthy cause.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Ad Jones was unsuccessful in attempts to get the Pittsburgh Pirates or Montreal Royals to Kingston for an exhibition. Branch Rickey, Jr., begged off for the Pirates in a nice letter, pointing out that the Buccaneers are unable to meet their farm commitments for exhibition games. Jones is interested in a promotion that will have city-wide appeal when it is arranged. "Pop" Edson's tremendous enthusiasm for teen age baseball, as evidenced by his tireless efforts with the Fraternal Youth League and the new 16-17 circuit, stems from a secret desire to die happy. "I'd like to see a Kingston boy make the big leagues before they put me away," the venerable "Pop" said recently. "It's a strange thing that with all our illustrious baseball history, we haven't had a man in the majors since Bud Culloton. Somewhere in this Little League and FYL mob there must be one lad who will make me a happy man." Obviously, Harry isn't counting himself out for several years to come.

• Of Men and Mice:

Area youth get two shots at a major league tryout this month —the Phillies camp in Kingston on July 13-14 and the St. Louis Cardinals sessions at Saugerties on July 20-21. The Phillies will screen players in the 16-22 bracket. The Cards want them from 17 to 23. Joe Carlino, Colonial Merchants' left fielder, is the most exciting outfielder in recent City League history. Kingston Power Boat Association readying an important announcement for Friday. Bill Guldy, Jr., a 15-year-old beginner, slammed a 450 series in league bowling Sunday. Not bad for a 115-average kegler. Rooting for the Yankees must do something for kids.

Old Capital Legion Names Sixteen Players for First Game Saturday

A sixteen-man roster with a strong Kingston High School flavor has survived final cuts for the 1953 American Legion Junior baseball squad, Andrew Murphy III announced today.

Coaches Tommy Maines and Eddie Bahl have named five pitchers, all standout teen-agers and two catchers.

The pitching roster shows an impressive array of talent with southpaw Frank Reis, Bruce Bechtold and Jack Houghtaling of the KHS staff; Tony Altamore and Bob Maines, a CYO ace.

Big Bob Shelightner, Kingston High's varsity receiver, and Ronnie Ashdown, his understudy with the Maroons, will handle the catching department.

Other KHS players selected were Bob Fay, Joe Modica, Skipper Brodhead and Paul Giannuzzi. The remainder of the roster lists Richard Nagele, former Little League slugger; Don Ferraro, James Jackson, Bill Haber, the KHS basketball ace, and Jim Woods.

Play Saturday

Kingston fans get their first glimpse of the Legion combine Saturday night at municipal stadium in the first game of a doubleheader. They meet the Kingston Indians of the City League at 6 p. m.

Sunday, the Old Capital Legionnaires won a practice game from the powerful Saugerties Whiz Kids, 7-5, on the village diamond.

In that game, Coaches Maines and Bahl used Reis, Bechtold and Houghtaling as pitchers, with Shelightner and Ashdown sharing the catching chores.

The infield lined up with Alo Saluste at first base; Skipper Brodhead, second; Don Ferraro, third; and Giannuzzi, shortstop.

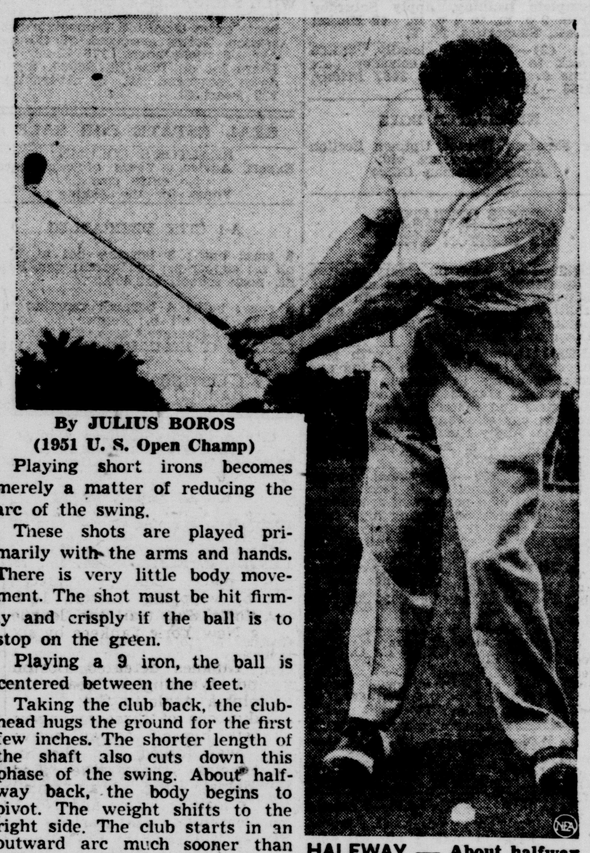
Joe Modica was in left field; Jackson and Maines shared right field and Bob Fay was in center. Ferraro had two of the eight Kingston hits.

A Kiss for the Winner

Walter Burkemo, of Franklin, Mich., who won the PGA 1953 title at the Birmingham, Mich., Country Club, gets a kiss from his wife as he holds the championship trophy, July 7. He defeated Felice Torza, of St. Charles, Ill., 2 and 1 in the 36-hole final round.

How to Play Par Golf

Arms, Hands, Shaft Reduce Arc



By JULIUS BOROS
(1951 U. S. Open Champ)

Playing short irons becomes merely a matter of reducing the arc of the swing.

These shots are played primarily with the arms and hands. There is very little body movement. The shot must be hit firmly and crisply if the ball is to stop on the green.

Playing a 9 iron, the ball is centered between the feet.

Taking the club back, the clubhead hugs the ground for the first few inches. The shorter length of the shaft also cuts down this phase of the swing. About halfway back, the body begins to pivot. The weight shifts to the right side. The club starts in an outward arc much sooner than with a wood.

The complete backswing with short irons reaches only about the three-quarter mark of a full swing.

The wrists also start to cock sooner due to the tighter arc.

When you have reached the top of the backswing, the left arm will be extended almost straight out from the body.

Though the backswing is not as high as in the case of the woods or even the medium irons, the hands should be gripping the shaft quite firmly.

Since there is little body movement in comparison with the full swing, there is considerable less shifting of weight. You have executed very little pivot, thus there has been little necessity for shifting the weight from left to right.

The downswing is guided by the left hand. Owing to the added loft of the club and the sharp arc, you will gain a feeling of a crisper shot at contact. It becomes a matter of swinging the club down and through the ball and letting the clubhead do the work.

Hit the ball firmly and take a divot on the follow-through.

This is necessary for accuracy and it gives the shot precision.

(Condensed from the book "How to Play Par Golf" by Julius Boros. Copyright 1953 by Prentice Hall, Inc. Distributed by NEA Service).

HALFWAY — About halfway back with a 9 iron, Julius Boros' body begins to pivot. The weight shifts to the right side. The club starts in an upward arc sooner than with a wood. (NEA)

Short Whiffs 16 in Esopus Little Loop

Bob Short struck out 16 batters to set a new record in that department Wednesday night when the Indians came up with four runs in the sixth to defeat the Giants by 6 to 3 in the Esopus Little League at Ross Park.

The game itself was marked by 21 strikeouts with Short showing the way with 16 whiffs. His mound opponent, Harry Kearse, who was locked in the 2-2 tie until the sixth, wound up with 11 fannings.

Bruce Holmes and Bob Short himself paced the Indians' attack with two hits apiece. Holmes' double was the lone extra-base clout of the game.

Dick Wenzel, catcher for the Giants, collected two of the four bingles off Short.

There will no game at Ross Park tonight due to the fire demonstration. Little League action resumes Saturday night with the Giants meeting the Dodgers.

Might Prevent Visit

Moscow, July 9 (AP)—The Soviet government has threatened to checkmate a scheduled New York appearance of the champion Russian chess team unless the U. S. permits the players to rest out on Long Island. Deputy Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky told U. S. Charge d'Affaires Elim O'Shavghnessy last night the 12-man team would not be sent if its members are barred from visiting the Glen Cove, N. Y., estate of the Soviet United Nations delegation. The U. S., Vishinsky said, has granted the players visas on condition they do not leave the New York city limits, which end 12 miles from Glen Cove.

Truck Buying Lessens

Washington, July 9 (AP)—The army is reported planning a substantial cutback in its buying of military vehicles, mostly trucks, and will announce it shortly, perhaps today. Government sources who reported this gave no indication of how big the cutback would be, in trucks or money, but at the Ordnance Tank-Automotive Center in Detroit it was estimated the curtailment might amount to nearly half a billion dollars a year. Brig. Gen. Carroll K. Beitrick, commander of the center which plans all army tank and truck production, confirmed the cutbacks, expected to affect thousands of workers in the Detroit area.

New York, July 9 (AP)—Ten CIO brewery workers locals—seven in New York city and three upstate—have switched to the AFL Teamsters Union following a secret membership poll. AFL charters were presented here yesterday to all seceding locals, including one each in Utica, Rochester and Buffalo. Old Capital Legion Names Sixteen Players for First Game Saturday

A sixteen-man roster with a strong Kingston High School flavor has survived final cuts for the 1953 American Legion Junior baseball squad, Andrew Murphy III announced today.

Coaches Tommy Maines and Eddie Bahl have named five pitchers, all standout teen-agers and two catchers.

The pitching roster shows an impressive array of talent with southpaw Frank Reis, Bruce Bechtold and Jack Houghtaling of the KHS staff; Tony Altamore and Bob Maines, a CYO ace.

Big Bob Shelightner, Kingston High's varsity receiver, and Ronnie Ashdown, his understudy with the Maroons, will handle the catching department.

Other KHS players selected were Bob Fay, Joe Modica, Skipper Brodhead and Paul Giannuzzi. The remainder of the roster lists Richard Nagele, former Little League slugger; Don Ferraro, James Jackson, Bill Haber, the KHS basketball ace, and Jim Woods.

Play Saturday

Kingston fans get their first glimpse of the Legion combine Saturday night at municipal stadium in the first game of a doubleheader. They meet the Kingston Indians of the City League at 6 p. m.

Sunday, the Old Capital Legionnaires won a practice game from the powerful Saugerties Whiz Kids, 7-5, on the village diamond.

In that game, Coaches Maines and Bahl used Reis, Bechtold and Houghtaling as pitchers, with Shelightner and Ashdown sharing the catching chores.

The infield lined up with Alo Saluste at first base; Skipper Brodhead, second; Don Ferraro, third; and Giannuzzi, shortstop.

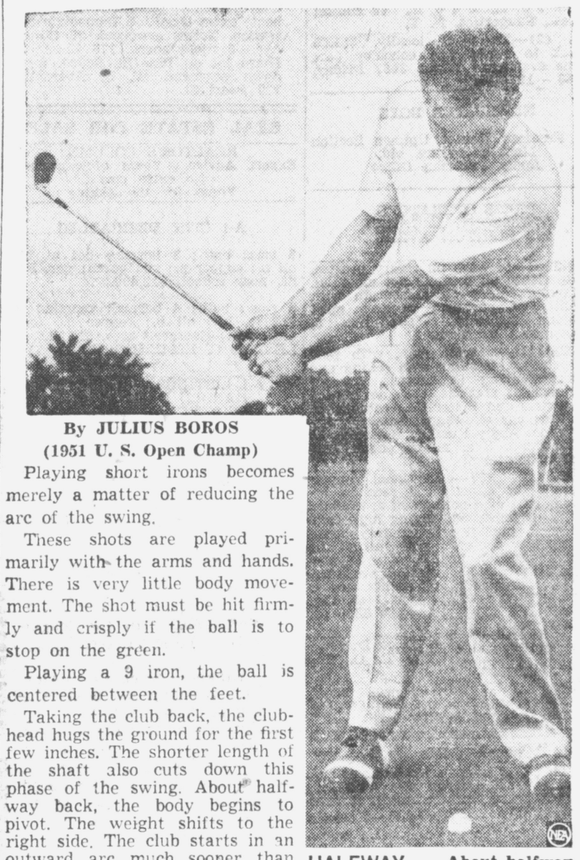
Joe Modica was in left field; Jackson and Maines shared right field and Bob Fay was in center. Ferraro had two of the eight Kingston hits.

A Kiss for the Winner

Walter Burkemo, of Franklin, Mich., who won the PGA 1953 title at the Birmingham, Mich., Country Club, gets a kiss from his wife as he holds the championship trophy, July 7. He defeated Felice Torza, of St. Charles, Ill., 2 and 1 in the 36-hole final round.

How to Play Par Golf

Arms, Hands, Shaft Reduce Arc



HALFWAY — About halfway back with a 9 iron, Julius Boros' body begins to pivot. The weight shifts to the right side. The club starts in an upward arc sooner than with a wood. (NEA)

By JULIUS BOROS
(1951 U. S. Open Champ)

Playing short irons becomes merely a matter of reducing the arc of the swing.

These shots are played primarily with the arms and hands. There is very little body movement. The shot must be hit firmly and crisply if the ball is to stop on the green.

Playing a 9 iron, the ball is centered between the feet.

Taking the club back, the clubhead hugs the ground for the first few inches. The shorter length of the shaft also cuts down this phase of the swing. About halfway back, the body begins to pivot. The weight shifts to the right side. The club starts in an outward arc much sooner than with a wood.

The complete backswing with short irons reaches only about the three-quarter mark of a full swing.

The wrists also start to cock sooner due to the tighter arc.

When you have reached the top of the backswing, the left arm will be extended almost straight out from the body.

Though the backswing is not as high as in the case of the woods or even the medium irons, the hands should be gripping the shaft quite firmly.

Since there is little body movement in comparison with the full swing, there is considerable less shifting of weight. You have executed very little pivot, thus there has been little necessity for shifting the weight from left to right.

The downswing is guided by the left hand. Owing to the added loft of the club and the sharp arc, you will gain a feeling of a crisper shot at contact. It becomes a matter of swinging the club down and through the ball and letting the clubhead do the work.

Hit the ball firmly and take a divot on the follow-through.

This is necessary for accuracy and it gives the shot precision.

Persley Is Upset

New York, July 9 (AP)—Arthur Persley, who was being groomed for a lightweight title shot at Jimmy Carter, was back among the also rans today after an upset defeat by Orlando Zulueta. Some 2,000 watched in amazement at Madison Square Garden as Zulueta drove the wobbly Persley around the ring last night. Zulueta weighed 132½ to Persley's 135¼.

Short Whiffs 16 in Esopus Little Loop

Bob Short struck out 16 batters to set a new record in that department Wednesday night when the Indians came up with four runs in the sixth to defeat the Giants by 6 to 3 in the Esopus Little League at Ross Park.

The game itself was marked by 21 strikeouts with Short showing the way with 16 whiffs. His mound opponent, Harry Kearse, who was locked in the 2-2 tie until the sixth, wound up with 11 fannings.

Bruce Holmes and Bob Short himself paced the Indians' attack with two hits apiece. Holmes' double was the lone extra-base clout of the game.

Dick Wenzel, catcher for the Giants, collected two of the four bingles off Short.

There will no game at Ross Park tonight due to the fire demonstration. Little League action resumes Saturday night with the Giants meeting the Dodgers.

Might Prevent Visit

Moscow, July 9 (AP)—The Soviet government has threatened to checkmate a scheduled New York appearance of the champion Russian chess team unless the U. S. permits the players to rest out on Long Island. Deputy Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky told U. S. Charge d'Affaires Elim O'Shavghnessy last night the 12-man team would not be sent if its members are barred from visiting the Glen Cove, N. Y., estate of the Soviet United Nations delegation. The U. S., Vishinsky said, has granted the players visas on condition they do not leave the New York city limits, which end 12 miles from Glen Cove.

Truck Buying Lessens

Washington, July 9 (AP)—The army is reported planning a substantial cutback in its buying of military vehicles, mostly trucks, and will announce it shortly, perhaps today. Government sources who reported this gave no indication of how big the cutback would be, in trucks or money, but at the Ordnance Tank-Automotive Center in Detroit it was estimated the curtailment might amount to nearly half a billion dollars a year. Brig. Gen. Carroll K. Beitrick, commander of the center which plans all army tank and truck production, confirmed the cutbacks, expected to affect thousands of workers in the Detroit area.

Brewery Workers Shift

New York, July 9 (AP)—Ten CIO brewery workers locals—seven in New York city and three upstate—have switched to the AFL Teamsters Union following a secret membership poll. AFL charters were presented here yesterday to all seceding locals, including one each in Utica, Rochester and Buffalo. Dave Beck, head of the 1,400,000-member International Brotherhood of Teamsters, said the CIO locals, representing 10,000 members, decided on a change after a breakdown in negotiations to merge the two unions.

Was Paid for Salutes

Hickam Air Force Base, Hawaii, July 9 (AP)—Saluting paid off $9 for Master Sgt. Harr J. Ahlfors of Minneapolis. Walking down a street yesterday, Ahlfors saluted in rapid order nine air force lieutenants. Each presented the amazed sergeant with a dollar bill—the custom practiced by new officers receiving their first salute. All nine were recent graduates of the University of Hawaii who had just received their commissions and reported for duty at Hickam.

Yanks Halt Reds; Counterpush Fails

Seoul, July 9 (AP)—American infantrymen crushed three bloody Communist assaults today but failed in a daring counterattack with flame-throwers to burn the last Reds off Porkchop Hill in western Korea.

Tough South Korean troops braved rockets, believed to be Russian-type "Katushas," in smashing a fourth Red attack at Arrowhead Ridge, five miles from Porkchop.

The Korean battlefront crackled with artillery barrages and hand-to-hand fighting as U. S. units for the first time in weeks caught the brunt of the Red charges.

The doughboys hammered back 3,000 to 5,000 Chinese who Wednesday night slammed into U. S.-held positions at Outpost Berlin and East Berlin in the far east, Kim Il Sung Ridge in the east and Porkchop Hill.

Backed by ear-splitting artillery, soldiers of the U. S. Seventh Infantry Division by Thursday morning had cleared the Reds from all but six bunkers on the northwest finger of Porkchop Hill.

Coffee Crop Is Hit

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, July 9 (AP)—Unofficial estimates today were that Brazil lost one quarter of her exportable coffee crop in a cold snap last weekend. Newspapers said the loss would amount to four million sacks valued at 300 million dollars.

IT'S RIGGED—Lavergne Dorobiala, of Chicago, Ill., demonstrates the Illinois Bell Telephone Co. ticktacktoe machine which never loses. The best you can hope for is a tie. Buttons light up the individual squares with crosses and, as soon as one is pressed, the machine comes back with a circle—always at the best place. If you try to cheat by pressing two buttons a bright red light flashes.

SAUGERTIES NEWS

Parade, Services Make Celebration a Success

Saugerties, July 9—The Fourth of July celebration was held in the village with more than 2000 persons witnessing the parade which took place Saturday morning. Three drum corps and two bands provided the marching music. The beautiful floats added much to the parade, and the VFW Auxiliary was awarded first prize in the float competition.

Special memorial services were held at the Saugerties High School grounds. John W. Davis, grand marshal of the parade, acted as master of ceremonies. Assistant District Attorney James J. Abernethy of Kingston was the principal speaker and he was introduced by Andrew P. Vozdick, president of the Chamber of Commerce.

The invocation was given by the Rev. Matthew F. Malloy, assistant pastor of St. Mary's Church, and the benediction by the Rev. George Werner, pastor of the Methodist Church. The pledge of allegiance was led by Scout Richard Brackett.

After the ceremonies many of the marchers reported to the Municipal Building where free hot dogs and soda were distributed by the R. A. Snyder Fire Company.

In the afternoon baseball fans witnessed an exhibition game at Cantine Memorial Field between the Saugerties Baseball Club and the Newburgh Royals.

One of the largest crowds of the season was on hand for the Little League game between the league leading Phillies and the second place Dodgers in the early evening.

Later more than 300 persons attended the Block Dance held in the parking lot of the Municipal Building. The Community Dance Band, under the direction of Igor Hudadoff, provided the music, and John Keeley Jr., was vocalist.

Boys Catch Souvenirs

Saugerties, July 8—Billy McCormick and Joe Iannone came home from the Giant-Dodger baseball game in New York Sunday with two highly prized souvenirs Billy caught the homerun hit by Alvin Dark, the Giant's shortstop, and Joe captured one of the two hit by Henry Thompson, the Giants' third baseman. In the party with them were Joey's dad, Freddie and his brother, Alfred, Art Stafford, and Billy's dad, Bill McCormick.

Town Board Petitioned

Saugerties, July 8—The dangerous Simmons Corner curve was again brought into the limelight when a resident of Barclay Heights petitioned the Village Board Monday night to erect some sort of signal designed to prevent future accidents there. On the suggestion of Trustee Roy Helsmoortel, the Board directed the Village Clerk to write the State Traffic Commission inquiring into the possibility of having a yellow blinker light erected there.

Board Takes No Action On Request for Car Lot

Saugerties, July 8—At Monday night's meeting of the Village Board a letter was read from Chamber of Commerce President Andrew P. Vozdick urging the village Board to consider the purchase of land in the center of the village for use as an off-street municipal parking lot. In the letter Mr. Vozdick said that the Chamber had investigated the possibilities of securing such property. The purpose of the parking facilities, it was said, would be to give motorists, who cannot find space to park on the main village streets, an opportunity to situate their cars close enough close enough to the business section for convenience in shopping.

The Board took no specific action on the project at the meeting, but it was decided to invite spokesmen from the Chamber to attend the next meeting of the Board, scheduled for July 20, and it is expected that the Chamber will have approximate costs and locations available for study.

Hogan Has Tie With Stranahan

Carnoustie, Scotland, July 9 (AP)—Ben Hogan, U. S. open champion, fired a one-under unofficial par 71 today to take a two-day total of 144 in the British Open Golf Championship. This tied him with the first day leader, Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, who got a 74 today after an opening 70 that topped the field on the first day.

Weak putting again kept Hogan from shattering par on the tough Carnoustie layout bordering the North Sea.

The Fort Worth, Tex., pro toured the outgoing nine in a par 36, and was one under with a 35 coming back.

Two Under Par

Dai Rees, formerly of the British Ryder Cup team, was two under par today and his 70 along with an opening day 72 left him with a 142.

The Argentine star, Roberto Vincenzo, followed up yesterday's 72 with a one-under 71 today and was second best among the early finishers in the second round with his 143—a stroke ahead of Hogan and Stranahan.

Fair weather greeted the Americans and others who played their rounds early. A brief shower struck as Hogan played the 13th hole, and a hard downpour came as he left the 18th green.

Bobby Locke, the defending champion who shot a 72 yesterday, started out in a downpour shortly after Hogan finished his round.

Committee Is Named

New York, July 9 (AP)—A committee of three was named today by Mayor Vincent R. The committee is to meet later today with the mayor and federal and city mediators at city hall. The three men are Kings County Judge Nathan R. Sobel, Howard McSpedon, president of the Building and Constructions Trades Council, AFL, and Walter Ronner, director of industrial relations of the Lewyt Corp.

Yanks Halt Reds; Counterpush Fails

Seoul, July 9 (AP)—American infantrymen crushed three bloody Communist assaults today but failed in a daring counterattack with flame-throwers to burn the last Reds off Porkchop Hill in western Korea.

Tough South Korean troops braved rockets, believed to be Russian-type "Katushas," in smashing a fourth Red attack at Arrowhead Ridge, five miles from Porkchop.

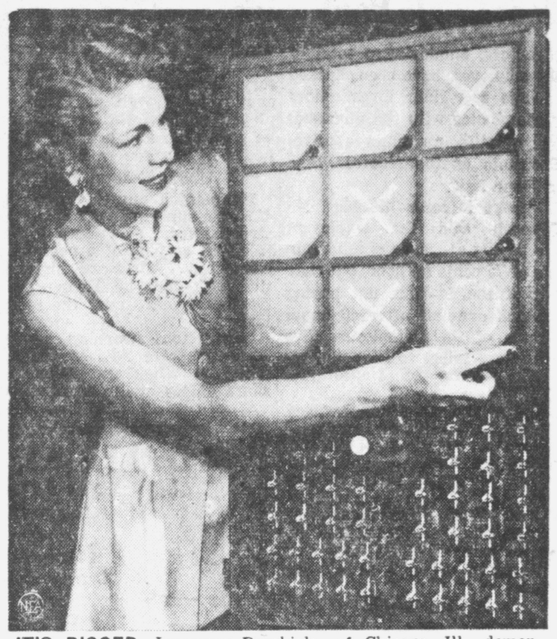
The Korean battlefront crackled with artillery barrages and hand-to-hand fighting as U. S. units for the first time in weeks caught the brunt of the Red charges.

The doughboys hammered back 3,000 to 5,000 Chinese who Wednesday night slammed into U. S.-held positions at Outpost Berlin and East Berlin in the far east, Kim Il Sung Ridge in the east and Porkchop Hill.

Backed by ear-splitting artillery, soldiers of the U. S. Seventh Infantry Division by Thursday morning had cleared the Reds from all but six bunkers on the northwest finger of Porkchop Hill.

Coffee Crop Is Hit

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, July 9 (AP)—Unofficial estimates today were that Brazil lost one quarter of her exportable coffee crop in a cold snap last weekend. Newspapers said the loss would amount to four million sacks valued at 300 million dollars.



IT'S RIGGED—Lavergne Dorobiala, of Chicago, Ill., demonstrates the Illinois Bell Telephone Co. ticktacktoe machine which never loses. The best you can hope for is a tie. Buttons light up the individual squares with crosses and, as soon as one is pressed, the machine comes back with a circle—always at the best place. If you try to cheat by pressing two buttons a bright red light flashes.

SAUGERTIES NEWS

Parade, Services Make Celebration a Success

Saugerties, July 9—The Fourth of July celebration was held in the village with more than 2000 persons witnessing the parade which took place Saturday morning. Three drum corps and two bands provided the marching music. The beautiful floats added much to the parade, and the VFW Auxiliary was awarded first prize in the float competition.

Special memorial services were held at the Saugerties High School grounds. John W. Davis, grand marshal of the parade, acted as master of ceremonies. Assistant District Attorney James J. Abernethy of Kingston was the principal speaker and he was introduced by Andrew P. Vozdick, president of the Chamber of Commerce.

The invocation was given by the Rev. Matthew F. Malloy, assistant pastor of St. Mary's Church, and the benediction by the Rev. George Werner, pastor of the Methodist Church. The pledge of allegiance was led by Scout Richard Brackett.

After the ceremonies many of the marchers reported to the Municipal Building where free hot dogs and soda were distributed by the R. A. Snyder Fire Company.

In the afternoon baseball fans witnessed an exhibition game at Cantine Memorial Field between the Saugerties Baseball Club and the Newburgh Royals.

One of the largest crowds of the season was on hand for the Little League game between the league leading Phillies and the second place Dodgers in the early evening.

Later more than 300 persons attended the Block Dance held in the parking lot of the Municipal Building. The Community Dance Band, under the direction of Igor Hudadoff, provided the music, and John Keeley Jr., was vocalist.

Boys Catch Souvenirs

Saugerties, July 8—Billy McCormick and Joe Iannone came home from the Giant-Dodger baseball game in New York Sunday with two highly prized souvenirs Billy caught the homerun hit by Alvin Dark, the Giant's shortstop, and Joe captured one of the two hit by Henry Thompson, the Giants' third baseman. Town Board Petitioned

Saugerties, July 8—The dangerous Simmons Corner curve was again brought into the limelight when a resident of Barclay Heights petitioned the Village Board Monday night to erect some sort of signal designed to prevent future accidents there. On the suggestion of Trustee Roy Helsmoortel, the Board directed the Village Clerk to write the State Traffic Commission inquiring into the possibility of having a yellow blinker light erected there.

Board Takes No Action On Request for Car Lot

Saugerties, July 8—At Monday night's meeting of the Village Board a letter was read from Chamber of Commerce President Andrew P. Vozdick urging the village Board to consider the purchase of land in the center of the village for use as an off-street municipal parking lot. In the letter Mr. Vozdick said that the Chamber had investigated the possibilities of securing such property. The purpose of the parking facilities, it was said, would be to give motorists, who cannot find space to park on the main village streets, an opportunity to situate their cars close enough close enough to the business section for convenience in shopping.

The Board took no specific action on the project at the meeting, but it was decided to invite spokesmen from the Chamber to attend the next meeting of the Board, scheduled for July 20, and it is expected that the Chamber will have approximate costs and locations available for study.

Hogan Has Tie With Stranahan

Carnoustie, Scotland, July 9 (AP)—Ben Hogan, U. S. open champion, fired a one-under unofficial par 71 today to take a two-day total of 144 in the British Open Golf Championship. This tied him with the first day leader, Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, who got a 74 today after an opening 70 that topped the field on the first day.

Weak putting again kept Hogan from shattering par on the tough Carnoustie layout bordering the North Sea.

The Fort Worth, Tex., pro toured the outgoing nine in a par 36, and was one under with a 35 coming back.

Two Under Par

Dai Rees, formerly of the British Ryder Cup team, was two under par today and his 70 along with an opening day 72 left him with a 142.

The Argentine star, Roberto Vincenzo, followed up yesterday's 72 with a one-under 71 today and was second best among the early finishers in the second round with his 143—a stroke ahead of Hogan and Stranahan.

Fair weather greeted the Americans and others who played their rounds early. A brief shower struck as Hogan played the 13th hole, and a hard downpour came as he left the 18th green.

Bobby Locke, the defending champion who shot a 72 yesterday, started out in a downpour shortly after Hogan finished his round.

Committee Is Named

Sobel, Howard McSpedon, president of the Building and Construction Trades Council, AFL, and Walter Ronner, director of industrial relations of the Lewyt Corp.

Kitchen Range Blaze Blamed on Lightning

An electric kitchen range was damaged by fire possibly caused by lightning about 11 p. m. Wednesday at the Bruce Van Kleeck home on Lucas avenue extension.

Mrs. Van Kleeck said this morning she assumed a lightning bolt caused the fire as she discovered the range smoking shortly after seeing a bright flash and hearing a loud clap of thunder. She summoned the Hurley Fire Department, which she praised for a "very quick" response over the mile and a half distance from the firehouse, but the fire did not spread from the range and was out on arrival of the firemen.

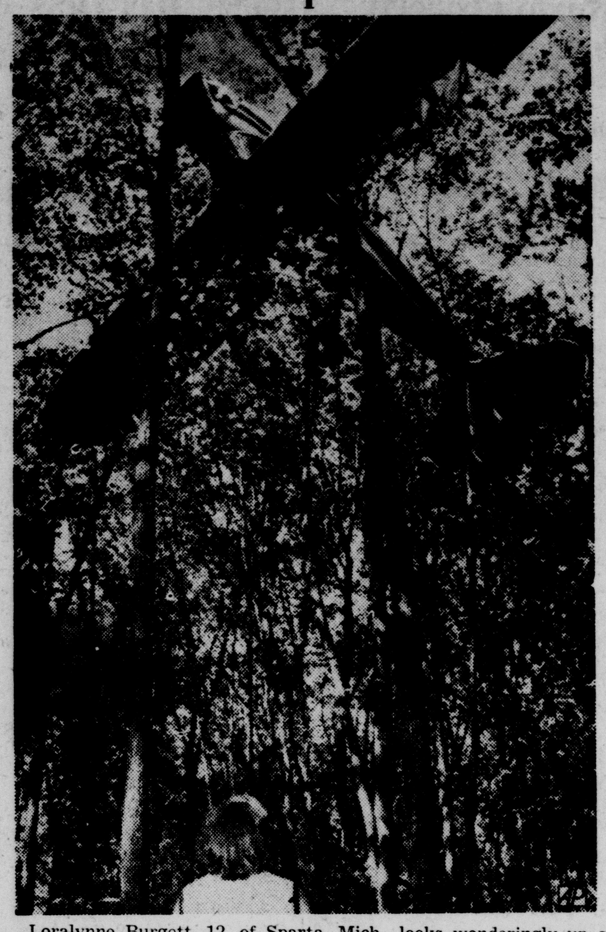
Worms Up a Tree



Loralynne Burgett, 12, of Sparta, Mich., looks wonderingly up a tree at a light plane which was forced to land in treetops when it ran out of gas. "Passengers" aboard, according to pilot Marlon Sholtey who was uninjured, were 10,000 angle worms which were being flown to a resort near Newaygo, Mich., where Sholtey planned to sell the worms to fishermen.

AFL, CIO Are . . .

estimated 35 or 40 merchants attended the meeting.

Closing Was Announced

The association had announced previously that most stores in the uptown and central business sections would remain closed all day Mondays throughout the summer in order to give their employes a five-day week. In the week following the announcement, a number of the merchants asked that the agreement be reconsidered because some of the stores individually announced they would remain open on Mondays. As a result of the controversy, Wednesday night's meeting was called.

Merchants opposed to the summer closing on Mondays had pointed out that Kingston has many out-of-city visitors during the summer months. One advertised: "It doesn't make good business sense to us to close our doors to them and to our customers who find it convenient to shop on Monday." The same advertisement pointed out that that store's employes are working a five-day week during July and August. "Including vacations, holidays and occasional sick days, they will be off a minimum of 30 days with pay."

Will Try for Record

Salton Sea, Calif., July 9 (AP)—The air force is reported readying one of its hottest Sabre jets for a try at a new world speed mark of more than 700 miles per hour. Two of the nation's sharpest pilots, Lt. Col. Bill Barns and Brig. Gen. J. Stanley Holtoner, Edwards Air Force Base commander, are at the speed course of the El Centro Naval Air Station. One of them is expected to attempt to surpass the record of 698.5 m.p.h., set here Nov. 19, 1952, by air force Capt. Slade Nash, also in an F-86D Sabre.

$19,553.78 Is Paid

contractors, employing a total of 1,572 employes, have been checked by Wage and Hour investigators for compliance with the minimum wage, overtime and child labor requirements of the federal Wage and Hour Law.

Some Records Missing

Muench said the employers were paying at least the minimum wage of 75 cents an hour, but that eight of the 14 were not paying time and one-half after 40 hours to some of their employes. Five contractors failed to keep the required records of wages and hours.

Most of the violations involved failure to pay overtime to salaried employes such as truck drivers, working foremen, rodmen, timekeepers, watchmen and office employes.

All the firms, Muench said, had voluntarily agreed to pay restitution to their employes. One contractor paid $13,862 to 71 employes.

Blames Errors

"None of these violations were either wilful or flagrant," Muench said. "They resulted from one of two errors. Some contractors thought all salaried employes are exempt from overtime—others did not know that work on the Thruway was in interstate commerce."

Muench explained that the federal law exempts professionals, administrators and executives from overtime pay requirements when they are engaged in professional, administrative or supervisory activities. Other salaried employes, as well as those employed at piecework rates, must be paid time and a half after 40 hours in any one workweek.

Under Federal Law

He pointed out that since the 427-mile superhighway being constructed from New York to Buffalo will be part of a network of connecting, interstate highways, the work done by Thruway contractors comes under the federal law.

Contractors working on the Thruway were advised to check with the Wage and Hour Division's offices in Buffalo, Syracuse or in New York for official information on questions of overtime pay or other requirements of the Act.

The Wage and Hour Law requires payment of at least 75 cents an hour and time and one-half after 40 hours in any one workweek to all employes engaged in interstate commerce or producing goods for commerce.

Moslem Religion

Founded more than 13 centuries ago, the Moslem religion has spread over the globe with no clergy, no pontiff, and scant liturgy, says the National Geographic Society. Meeting at first with strong opposition and winning few followers, Islam today numbers 370,000,000 adherents.
